TRUCE PLANS NEARLY IRONED OUT

UN Readies For Korean Peace Pact

Meeting Scheduled August 12 If Final Truce Is Affected

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., July 21 (AP)—U. N. delegates are making ready for a full meeting of the 60-nation General Assembly on Korea beginning Aug. 12 if a truce is signed at Panmunjom this week.

The diplomats also were shaping up plans today for the Korean political conference to be opened 90 days after the armistice. Chief interest now is on its makeup and Western delegates were reported to be pushing a proposal for a 15-nation conference.

12 Countries Listed

An informed source said there would be 12 countries in that conference for the U. N. He listed those so far considered as the United States, Britain, France, India, Turkey, Greece, The Philippines, The Netherlands, Australia, Belgium, Thailand and South Korea.

On the Communist side would be Soviet Russia, Communist China and North Korea, this source said.

As soon as a truce is signed, Lester B. Pearson, Canadian foreign secretary and president of the Seventh General Assembly, will call the delegates to the third session of that Assembly since it first convened last October. The task of the delegates will be to pick the U. N. side of the political conference, consider broad instructions for the conferees and help decide on a place.

Britain and India were reported pushing for Ceylon as the conference site, but other delegates objected that Ceylon is too far from home for them and said they preferred Geneva.

Keeps Close Watch

The Indian delegate, Rajeshwar Dayal, is keeping a close watch on events here and is in touch with the Indian Embassy in Washington on talks with the United States on arrangements for India's role on the prisoner of war commission in Korea.

The Indian Foreign Office announced in New Delhi that India has asked the United States and Red China for assurances that any Indian troops sent to Korea to help carry out armistice terms will be able to function properly and under conditions in keeping "with India's self-respect and dignity."

India has instructed a 7-man advance party to get ready to leave for Korea when an armistice is signed. This party will be headed by Foreign Secretary R. K. Nehru, a cousin of Prime Minister Nehru. The group will study the situation and report to New Delhi on requirements for India to meet her responsibilities.

Peace To Cut Draft Quotas

Wilson Claims Move Possible Within 90 Days

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said today it might be possible to cut draft calls by 5,000 to 8,000 a month if there is a truce in Korea.

The present monthly rate of about 23,000 he said, might be reduced to between 15,000 and 18,000.

In answer to news conference questions, Wilson estimated it would be about 90 days after the truce before such reductions would be possible.

As to prospect for a truce, Wilson said:

Looks Reasonably Good

"I think it looks reasonably good, perhaps as good as it has any time in the past two years."

Asked whether he could foresee the time when the draft might be abandoned, he replied that as long as the military services require 3 to 3½ million men the nation will have to rely for some time on selective service. He did not think that it would be possible to get 3 to 3½ million men from volunteers.

But if the requirement eventually dropped down to 1 or 1½ million, he added, they might be obtained entirely through enlistments.

Can Work Out Problem

Reporters recalled that the armed forces are reducing the number of officers called to active duty from reserve organization training corps and that some reserves who were in line for commissions will not be called up because there is no place for them.

Wilson said he was sure ways would be found to work out the problem satisfactorily. He said it is probable that there are some officers in service now who want to get out, thus creating vacancies. But, he said, it will take time to go through the list and work out the details.

DIVORCED—Mildred Douglas yesterday won an uncontested divorce from her husband, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. She charged desertion. The couple had been seperated for two years.

Knowland Says Congress Can Close On Time

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said today that the only things standing in the way of a July 31 adjournment of Congress are bills to increase the postal rates and admit 240,000 European refugees.

Knowland, the acting Republican floor leader, said he thinks the Senate "easily can complete the rest of the legislation on our priority list before the target date for adjournment."

And, he said, he is more hopeful than some others that compromises can be reached on the two controversial bills.

The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved a bill to admit 220,000 European refugees, many of them from behind the Iron Curtain, and Knowland said he will bring it up for debate this week. The House Judiciary Committee made almost no progress on a similar measure today.

Although Chairman Carlson (R-Kan) said the Senate Post Office Committee won't begin hearings on the postal bill until the House has acted, Knowland indicated he would try to change Carlson's mind and get the measure speeded up.

In any event, Knowland said, the Senate will stay on the job until the priority bills are passed "no matter how long it takes." He said he doesn't believe the session will go beyond the first week of August, if it doesn't end earlier.

MOSCOW, Wednesday, July 22 (AP)—The Soviet press announced this morning that the Supreme Soviet meeting scheduled for July 27 has been postponed until Aug. 5.

The announcement gave no reason for the postponement.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 21 (AP)—Finance Minister Abel Guetlil Emary tonight announced the Egyptian budget fo. 1953-54 at 197,516,000 Egyptian pounds ($566,870,920).

Methodists Head Blasts Probe Group

Charges Committee Files "Bear False Witness Against Me"

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam and the House Un-American Activities Committee clashed today in an hours-long session in which committee members sought to identify him with Communist causes and he retorted by accusing the committee of "bearing false witness" against him.

Time and again, an overflow crowd of 500 applauded the Methodist bishop and jeered at the committee.

Bishop Oxnam acknowledged that he had belonged to some organizations the committee said had been cited as subversive. But he said they hadn't been cited when he was connected with them and that if any of them were subversive, he had no knowledge of it when he joined.

Files Are Not True

And, the bishop said, a lot of things about him in the committee files just aren't true.

He had plenty of sharp words for the committee, asserting that it had been playing "into Communist hands . . . by bearing false witness against fellow Americans."

The bishop made this remark in a highly unusual 15-minute opening statement. Then he settled down for a long question and answer session that was still going on at nightfall.

He asserted that he is not a communist and that the record shows that he has been fighting Reds for 30 years because he violently opposes the atheism and materialism preached by Communists.

The bishop said he requested the hearing so that he could clear up what he referred to as "inaccuracies and misrepresentations" of his activities. And he demanded that the committee purge its files of material he said had been used as a "wicked tool" to brand him as a subversive.

Bishop Oxnam conceded the files were correct in linking him with the Council of American Soviet Friendship and the North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy.

In Good Company

But he said he thought he was in good company in the former—people like former Secretary of State and Mrs. Cordell Hull and the former British Ambassador and Lady Halifax.

As for the latter, he said he had no apology because it tried to help the Spanish people obtain the same freedom we have.

Bishop Oxnam volunteered—a bit saccastically—that he also is a member of a committee formed by Rep. Judd (R-Minn) to aid refugee Chinese intellectuals. Maybe 20 years from now somebody will discover some of the Chinese were Reds and want to investigate the sponsors, he said.

Bishop Blasts Probers

Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, testifying before the House Un-American Activities Committee, holds up a large book as he cites "chapter and verse" in accusing the committee of "inaccuracies and misrepresentations" about him and calling for a confession of error.

South Korean Discontent Is Very Evident

Only Four Points Still To Be Settled Before The Signing

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, July 22, (AP)—The task of ironing out last details for a Korean armistice was narrowed today to one meeting of staff officers, underscoring prospects that the actual signing could take place within a week.

Red North Korea's radio exuded optimism, saying only four points remained to be threshed out before "a very early armistice signing."

In South Korea there were rumblings of discontent.

Amplifies Discontent

Red China cocked an ear for each rumbling and amplified it over the Peiping radio by way of warning that even a signed armistice might prove an uneasy one.

Even so, liaison officers were expected to meet shortly and arrange for the session of the full truce delegations at which the signing date would be picked.

The only Panmunjom activity scheduled today was a meeting of staff officers concerned with mapping a cease-fire line.

Red North Korea's Pyongyang radio said Tuesday night that the truce line was one of four unsettled points. It listed them as:

"1. Straightening out the Korean, Chinese and English translations of the armistice document.

"2. Recharting the military boundary and buffer zone as a result of Communist forces' (recent) ground gains.

"3. Security assurances for Indian troops to supervise the prisoner exchange.

"4. Minute details relative to armistice signing."

The Pyongyan radio said, "There are perceptible signs pointing to the likelihood of a very early armistice signing."

May Change Attitude

South Korean government leaders close to President Syngman Rhee said South Korea "may change its attitude" about not obstructing a truce unless some awaited assurances are forthcoming from Washington.

After 16 days of conferences, President Eisenhower's special truce envoy, Walter S. Robertson, got Rhee's written promise not to obstruct a truce. But South Korean government leaders said Robertson took back to Washington two questions which could only be answered on a higher level.

One, the officials said, related to what the United States would do in event a post-armistice political conference failed to unify Korea. The other related to what guarantees the United States would make to stop possible new Red aggression.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference he was unaware of any qualifications in Rhee's promise not to obstruct a truce.

Touching indirectly on the matter of security guarantees, Dulles said it probably would be impractical to submit a mutual security treaty to the Senate at this session of Congress.

Young Athlete Too Ill To Play

STAMFORD, Conn., July 21 (AP)—For two years Ronald Sunderman, 12, has been an outstanding star on the Stamford Lions Club Little League baseball team.

Last November he became ill of lymphosarcoma, a form of cancer, and underwent a major operation for the removal of a growth on his throat.

Undaunted, he resumed playing ball this spring, even hit a triple his first time at bat.

But yesterday Ronald had to admit he was growing too weak and he told his father, Henry, to turn in his uniform and equipment "so that some other boy could use them."

Comi Again Indicted On Income Charge

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—Louis Harry Comi, Baltimore vending machine operator already sentenced to seven years in a state prison for a lottery conspiracy, today was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of evading about $18,000 in income taxes.

Comi is presently free on bond while the lottery conviction is being appealed.

House Approves Agencies Bill

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The House today approved a sharply pared $447,429,499 appropriation bill for various federal agencies amid heated charges and denials it would destroy the government's low cost public housing program.

The final figure was a slash from $1,172,444,190 asked in former President Truman's budget and $890,000,000 requested by President Eisenhower.

Today's bill was an adjustment between separate versions passed earlier by the House and Senate but was lower than either. The $451,020,493; the Senate $450,913,949. The Senate still must approve final version worked out in a Senate-House Conference Committee. The bill finances a score or more lesser federal agencies, including housing functions.

The House had voted to permit no new public housing starts for the fiscal year which begins July 1. The Senate had approved 35,000 new units as asked by President Eisenhower.

The compromised version authorizes 20,000 new units to be built from a back-log of some 60,000 units already contracted for and awaiting funds.

It stipulates that no step should be started toward any further units other than the 20,000 authorized this year, or as Congress later approves.

Six More East German Officials Purged By Reds

BERLIN, July 21 (AP) — Six important officials of the Communist East German Justice Ministry, now jailed by hardboiled "Red Hilde" Benjamin, have been arrested on her direct orders, the Northwest German radio said tonight.

Mrs. Benjamin, who sentenced many persons to death or life imprisonment while she was vice president of the East German Supreme Court, took over the Justice Ministry last week after its former chief, Max Fechner, was jailed. She said Fechner had tried to justify "as a mere strike a Fascist putsch against the state."

He was the highest Red official in the Soviet occupation zone to be purged after the June 17 riots and strikes.

The Northwest German radio broadcast said those arrested in the Justice Ministry included two department chiefs, Dr. H. Reinartz and Fritz Boehme. In addition, the Communist prosecutor at Halle, Werner Kampsrad, was reported dismissed in disgrace for having shown leniency to the strikers.

Halle was the scene of some of the heaviest anti-Communist fighting June 17. The Communist political prison there was stormed. One of the woman inmates who was liberated afterward was executed by the Red government.

The West Berlin press reported that hundreds of strikers have been jailed in the last week. They had been arrested and then cleared when Fechner, an oldtime Socialist turned Communist, was running East Zone justice.

Soviet Demands U. S. Food Stop

BERLIN, Wednesday, July 22 (AP)—Russia demanded today that the United States stop supplying free food to the hungry East Germans.

Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir Semyenov disatched a bristling note demanding that U. S. authorities take "immediate measures to stop these illegal and inadmissable actions."

The Communists both in Moscow and satellite East Berlin spurned President Eisenhower's offer of 11 days ago to send 15 million dollars worth of American food to ease conditions in hungry East Germany.

Eisenhower renewed his offer July 20 just a few hours before the Communist East German government announced that Russia had agreed to supply an extra 57½ million dollars worth of food, but that East Germany would have to pay for it with manufactured goods.

Czech Reds Denounce Barrage Of Balloons

MUNICH, Germany, July 21 (AP)—Communist Czechoslovakia today denounced a recent freedom balloon barrage from the west as a "provocative action designed to increase the cold war." American sponsors of the balloon barrage were delighted at the reaction.

"This shows that the 'Winds of Freedom' operation was very effective," said a spokesman for Radio Free Europe. "We always get such a reaction when we hit the target."

Thousands of leaflets urging the Czechs to resist their Red leaders were ballooned eastward into Czechoslovakia from Bavarian soil the night of July 13 by the American-sponsored Crusade For Freedom committee. The "Winds of Freedom" project calls for 12 million messages to be ballooned into Czechoslovakia, one for every person in the country.

The Prague radio announced the Czechoslovak government had handed the U. S. legation in Prague a note protesting this operation "by U. S. citizens in Bavaria—a territory presently under American control."

The protest was reported addressed to U. S. High Commissioner James B. Conant. High Commission officials in Bonn said it had not yet been received there. It normally would be sent to the U. S. State Department in Washington, they said.

Two types of balloons are used for the "Winds of Freedom" project. One explodes at high altitude, scattering message. The other sinks slowly.

Those that drifted over the Iron Curtain during the night of July 13 carried three messages.

One pamphlet gave an account of the June 17 workers' riot in Berlin and the purge of Lavrenty P. Beria, Soviet vice premier and police boss.

Another contained a facsimile of the Czech crown and the message: "Czechs, know this: the regime is weaker than you think. Power lies with the people and the people stand opposed. With unity and courage, organize your strength. Down with the collective. Insist on workers' rights today. Demand concessions—tomorrow, freedom."

Dulles Rules Out Red China Move To Get In UN

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today ruled out any discussion of admitting Communist China to the United Nations at the peace conference that would follow a ceasefire in Korea.

The secretary told newsmen he did not think admission of Red China to the U. N. was an appropriate subject to take up at the prospective political conference. Aides said this was the first time the administration had taken a definite stand on the issue.

PONTIAC, Mich., July 21 (AP)—Police today sought a car thief who does things in a big way.

The ambitious thief got away last night with a haulaway truck loaded with four new automobiles which were awaiting shipment.

Casualties Listed

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 290 Korean War casualties in a new list (No. 861). It included 42 killed, 237 wounded, 9 missing, 1 captured and 1 injured.

Rainfall Slows Korea Fighting

SEOUL, Wednesday, July 22 (AP)—Rain fell across the relatively inactive Korean battle line last night and fighting eased, both on the ground and in the air.

The U. S. 8th Army communique reported the only major action during the day was in the Kumsong sector of the East-Central Front. South Korean troops there hurled back an early morning assault by about 750 Chinese Reds south of Lookout Mountain and gained five of six hill objectives in small attacks.

Near fallen outposts Berlin and East Berlin, close to Panmunjom truce preparations, an Allied patrol clashed for 40 minutes with the Reds, but there was no allied attempt to regain the heights.

U. S. Marines, outnumbered 12-1 or more, were overwhelmed there Sunday night. Only 14 dazed survivors managed to straggle back to Allied lines.

The number of Marines manning the two outposts was still classified as secret, but normally each such outpost numbers up to a platoon (60 men) in strength.

The 5th Air Force in a special announcement reported that two U. S. Sabre jets were shot down by Russian-built MIGs on Monday. They were the first Sabres destroyed in combat by Red jets since May 17. Sabres downed 131 MIGs during the same period, the Air Force said.

Video Bringing Piano Back Into American Living Room

ST. LOUIS, July 21 (AP)—Television is bringing the piano back to its place of honor in the American living room.

That's what they say at the convention here of the National Association of Piano Tuners.

The man who used to tune former President Truman's piano aboard the yacht Williamsburg, pointed out the trend. He is John W. Travis of Hayttville, Md., and a director of the association.

He found plenty of agreement among the other 100 members of the association attending the convention from over the nation.

"Radio played havoc with us at first—back in the Twenties—but eventually it was helpful, and now that people can actually see the great artists at the keyboard they want even more to try it themselves," Travis said.

R. F. Boelter of Saginaw, Mich., veteran of 53 years in the trade, agreed more persons are taking piano lessons than ever before in the nation's history. And he gave television the credit, too.

"Some, of course, are content to sit and listen," he said, "but we're getting into a period where an increasing number want to play."

Amid clanging of chords and noise of classes in stringing and repairs, Boelter undertook to explain how tuning is done.

"No person living has perfect pitch," he said. "It's all relative."

Tuners, he continued, use forks which reproduce perfectly either A or C and, once having tuned the proper note on the piano by that guide, proceed to bring the rest of the keyboard into line.

It costs $8 to $9 to have a piano tuned and in Boelter's opinion it ought to be done four times a year.

Mountain Climber Dangles Three Days Before Rescue

CHAMONIZ, France, July 21 (AP)—Daring mountaineers rescued the human pendulum of Mont Blanc today.

Georges Barbacki was hauled to safety after dangling helplessly over an Alpine chasm at the end of his guide rope for three days and three nights—ever since a sudden storm clawed him from his feet and swept his climbing mate to death Saturday.

The rescue was effected by instructors from the National Ski and Mountain Climbing School at Les Praz, who braved a difficult trail and the constant threat of avalanches to bring the young French university student down from a promontory called the Fool's Needle.

The party found Barbacki asleep, slack in the rope and propped against a ledge after long hours of wakefulness over the dizzying chasm.

He was brought into Chamonix, where his condition was described as satisfactory. He was only slightly injured in the fall that swung him between life and death, and he seemed to have suffered no serious ill effects from his ordeal.

The Mont Blanc range, situated in an area where the frontiers of France, Italy and Switzerland come together, is Europe's highest chain of mountains. It rises to 15,781 feet at the peak that also bears the name Mont Blanc.

Barbacki and a friend, Claude Chulliat, were working their way down the Fool's Needle, a lesser peak, when a driving snow storm hit the mountains.

Chulliat, a technician from Reuil, plunged to his death on rocks far below. His skull was crushed. His guide rope hung from a snag in the chasm.

Video Bringing Piano Back Into American Living Room

ST. LOUIS, July 21 (AP)—Television is bringing the piano back to its place of honor in the American living room.

That's what they say at the convention here of the National Association of Piano Tuners.

The man who used to tune former President Truman's piano aboard the yacht Williamsburg, pointed out the trend. He is John W. Travis of Hayttville, Md., and a director of the association.

He found plenty of agreement among the other 100 members of the association attending the convention from over the nation.

"Radio played havoc with us at first—back in the Twenties—but eventually it was helpful, and now that people can actually see the great artists at the keyboard they want even more to try it themselves," Travis said.

R. F. Boelter of Saginaw, Mich., veteran of 53 years in the trade, agreed more persons are taking piano lessons than ever before in the nation's history. And he gave television the credit, too.

"Some, of course, are content to sit and listen," he said, "but we're getting into a period where an increasing number want to play."

Amid clanging of chords and noise of classes in stringing and repairs, Boelter undertook to explain how tuning is done.

"No person living has perfect pitch," he said. "It's all relative."

Tuners, he continued, use forks which reproduce perfectly either A or C and, once having tuned the proper note on the piano by that guide, proceed to bring the rest of the keyboard into line.

It costs $8 to $9 to have a piano tuned and in Boelter's opinion it ought to be done four times a year.

Methodists Head Blasts Probe Group

Charges Committee Files "Bear False Witness Against Me"

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam and the House Un-American Activities Committee clashed today in an hours-long session in which committee members sought to identify him with Communist causes and he retorted by accusing the committee of "bearing false witness" against him.

Time and again, an overflow crowd of 500 applauded the Methodist bishop and jeered at the committee.

Bishop Oxnam acknowledged that he had belonged to some organizations the committee said had been cited as subversive. But he said they hadn't been cited when he was connected with them and that if any of them were subversive, he had no knowledge of it when he joined.

Files Are Not True

And, the bishop said, a lot of things about him in the committee files just aren't true.

He had plenty of sharp words for the committee, asserting that it had been playing "into Communist hands . . . by bearing false witness against fellow Americans."

The bishop made this remark in a highly unusual 15-minute opening statement. Then he settled down for a long question and answer session that was still going on at nightfall.

He asserted that he is not a communist and that the record shows that he has been fighting Reds for 30 years because he violently opposes the atheism and materialism preached by Communists.

The bishop said he requested the hearing so that he could clear up what he referred to as "inaccuracies and misrepresentations" of his activities. And he demanded that the committee purge its files of material he said had been used as a "wicked tool" to brand him as a subversive.

Bishop Oxnam conceded the files were correct in linking him with the Council of American Soviet Friendship and the North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy.

In Good Company

But he said he thought he was in good company in the former—people like former Secretary of State and Mrs. Cordell Hull and the former British Ambassador and Lady Halifax.

As for the latter, he said he had no apology because it tried to help the Spanish people obtain the same freedom we have.

Bishop Oxnam volunteered—a bit saccastically—that he also is a member of a committee formed by Rep. Judd (R-Minn) to aid refugee Chinese intellectuals. Maybe 20 years from now somebody will discover some of the Chinese were Reds and want to investigate the sponsors, he said.

House Approves Agencies Bill

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The House today approved a sharply pared $447,429,499 appropriation bill for various federal agencies amid heated charges and denials it would destroy the government's low cost public housing program.

The final figure was a slash from $1,172,444,190 asked in former President Truman's budget and $890,000,000 requested by President Eisenhower.

Today's bill was an adjustment between separate versions passed earlier by the House and Senate but was lower than either. The $451,020,493; the Senate $450,913,949. The Senate still must approve final version worked out in a Senate-House Conference Committee. The bill finances a score or more lesser federal agencies, including housing functions.

The House had voted to permit no new public housing starts for the fiscal year which begins July 1. The Senate had approved 35,000 new units as asked by President Eisenhower.

The compromised version authorizes 20,000 new units to be built from a back-log of some 60,000 units already contracted for and awaiting funds.

It stipulates that no step should be started toward any further units other than the 20,000 authorized this year, or as Congress later approves.

Bishop Blasts Probers

Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, testifying before the House Un-American Activities Committee, holds up a large book as he cites "chapter and verse" in accusing the committee of "inaccuracies and misrepresentations" about him and calling for a confession of error.

Six More East German Officials Purged By Reds

BERLIN, July 21 (AP) — Six important officials of the Communist East German Justice Ministry, now headed by hardboiled "Red Hilde" Benjamin, have been arrested on her direct orders, the Northwest German radio said tonight.

Mrs. Benjamin, who sentenced many persons to death or life imprisonment while she was vice president of the East German Supreme Court, took over the Justice Ministry last week after its former chief, Max Fechner, was jailed. She said Fechner had tried to justify "as a mere strike a Fascist putsch against the state."

He was the highest Red official in the Soviet occupation zone to be purged after the June 17 riots and strikes.

The Northwest German radio broadcast said those arrested in the Justice Ministry included two department chiefs, Dr. H. Reinartz and Fritz Boehme. In addition, the Communist prosecutor at Halle, Werner Kampsrad, was reported dismissed in disgrace for having shown leniency to the strikers.

Halle was the scene of some of the heaviest anti-Communist fighting June 17. The Communist political prison there was stormed. One of the woman inmates who was liberated afterward was executed by the Red government.

The West Berlin press reported that hundreds of strikers have been jailed in the last week. They had been arrested and then cleared when Fechner, an oldtime Socialist turned Communist, was running East Zone justice.

Soviet Demands U. S. Food Stop

BERLIN, Wednesday, July 22 (AP)—Russia demanded today that the United States stop supplying free food to the hungry East Germans.

Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir Semyenov disatched a bristling note demanding that U. S. authorities take "immediate measures to stop these illegal and inadmissable actions."

The Communists both in Moscow and satellite East Berlin spurned President Eisenhower's offer of 11 days ago to send 15 million dollars worth of American food to ease conditions in hungry East Germany.

Eisenhower renewed his offer July 20 just a few hours before the Communist East German government announced that Russia had agreed to supply an extra 57½ million dollars worth of food, but that East Germany would have to pay for it with manufactured goods.

Czech Reds Denounce Barrage Of Balloons

MUNICH, Germany, July 21 (AP)—Communist Czechoslovakia today denounced a recent freedom balloon barrage from the west as a "provocative action designed to increase the cold war." American sponsors of the balloon barrage were delighted at the reaction.

"This shows that the 'Winds of Freedom' operation was very effective," said a spokesman for Radio Free Europe. "We always get such a reaction when we hit the target."

Thousands of leaflets urging the Czechs to resist their Red leaders were ballooned eastward into Czechoslovakia from Bavarian soil the night of July 13 by the American-sponsored Crusade For Freedom committee. The "Winds of Freedom" project calls for 12 million messages to be ballooned into Czechoslovakia, one for every person in the country.

The Prague radio announced the Czechoslovak government had handed the U. S. legation in Prague a note protesting this operation "by U. S. citizens in Bavaria—a territory presently under American control."

The protest was reported addressed to U. S. High Commissioner James B. Conant. High Commission officials in Bonn said it had not yet been received there. It normally would be sent to the U. S. State Department in Washington, they said.

Two types of balloons are used for the "Winds of Freedom" project. One explodes at high altitude, scattering message. The other sinks slowly.

Those that drifted over the Iron Curtain during the night of July 13 carried three messages.

One pamphlet gave an account of the June 17 workers' riot in Berlin and the purge of Lavrenty P. Beria, Soviet vice premier and police boss.

Another contained a facsimile of the Czech crown and the message: "Czechs, know this: the regime is weaker than you think. Power lies with the people and the people stand opposed. With unity and courage, organize your strength. Down with the collective. Insist on workers' rights today. Demand concessions—tomorrow, freedom."

Dulles Rules Out Red China Move To Get In UN

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today ruled out any discussion of admitting Communist China to the United Nations at the peace conference that would follow a ceasefire in Korea.

The secretary told newsmen he did not think admission of Red China to the U. N. was an appropriate subject to take up at the prospective political conference. Aides said this was the first time the administration had taken a definite stand on the issue.

Some Car Thief

PONTIAC, Mich., July 21 (AP) — Police today sought a car thief who does things in a big way.

The ambitious thief got away last night with a haulaway truck loaded with four new automobiles which were awaiting shipment.

Casualties Listed

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 290 Korean War casualties in a new list (No. 861). It included 42 killed, 237 wounded, 9 missing, 1 captured and 1 injured.

Mountain Climber Dangles Three Days Before Rescue

CHAMONIZ, France, July 21 (AP)—Daring mountaineers rescued the human pendulum of Mont Blanc today.

Georges Barbacki was hauled to safety after dangling helplessly over an Alpine chasm at the end of his guide rope for three days and three nights—ever since a sudden storm clawed him from his feet and swept his climbing mate to death Saturday.

The rescue was effected by instructors from the National Ski and Mountain Climbing School at Les Praz, who braved a difficult trail and the constant threat of avalanches to bring the young French university student down from a promontory called the Fool's Needle.

The party found Barbacki asleep, slack in the rope and propped against a ledge after long hours of wakefulness over the dizzying chasm.

He was brought into Chamonix, where his condition was described as satisfactory. He was only slightly injured in the fall that swung him between life and death, and he seemed to have suffered no serious ill effects from his ordeal.

The Mont Blanc range, situated in an area where the frontiers of France, Italy and Switzerland come together, is Europe's highest chain of mountains. It rises to 15,781 feet at the peak that also bears the name Mont Blanc.

Barbacki and a friend, Claude Chulliat, were working their way down the Fool's Needle, a lesser peak, when a driving snow storm hit the mountains.

Chulliat, a technician from Reuil, plunged to his death on rocks far below. His skull was crushed. His guide rope hung from a snag in the chasm.

South Korean Discontent Is Very Evident

Only Four Points Still To Be Settled Before The Signing

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, July 22, (AP)—The task of ironing out last details for a Korean armistice was narrowed today to one meeting of staff officers, underscoring prospects that the actual signing could take place within a week.

Red North Korea's radio exuded optimism, saying only four points remained to be threshed out before "a very early armistice signing."

In South Korea there were rumblings of discontent.

Amplifies Discontent

Red China cocked an ear for each rumbling and amplified it over the Peiping radio by way of warning that even a signed armistice might prove an uneasy one.

Even so, liaison officers were expected to meet shortly and arrange for the session of the full truce delegations at which the signing date would be picked.

The only Panmunjom activity scheduled today was a meeting of staff officers concerned with mapping a cease-fire line.

Red North Korea's Pyongyang radio said Tuesday night that the truce line was one of four unsettled points. It listed them as:

"1. Straightening out the Korean, Chinese and English translations of the armistice document.

"2. Recharting the military boundary and buffer zone as a result of Communist forces' (recent) ground gains.

"3. Security assurances for Indian troops to supervise the prisoner exchange.

"4. Minute details relative to armistice signing."

The Pyongyan radio said, "There are perceptible signs pointing to the likelihood of a very early armistice signing."

May Change Attitude

South Korean government leaders close to President Syngman Rhee said South Korea "may change its attitude" about not obstructing a truce unless some awaited assurances are forthcoming from Washington.

After 16 days of conferences, President Eisenhower's special truce envoy, Walter S. Robertson, got Rhee's written promise not to obstruct a truce. But South Korean government leaders said Robertson took back to Washington two questions which could only be answered on a higher level.

One, the officials said, related to what the United States would do in event a post-armistice political conference failed to unify Korea. The other related to what guarantees the United States would make to stop possible new Red aggression.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference he was unaware of any qualifications in Rhee's promise not to obstruct a truce.

Touching indirectly on the matter of security guarantees, Dulles said it probably would be impractical to submit a mutual security treaty to the Senate at this session of Congress.

Rainfall Slows Korea Fighting

SEOUL, Wednesday, July 22 (AP)—Rain fell across the relatively inactive Korean battle line last night and fighting eased, both on the ground and in the air.

The U. S. 8th Army communique reported the only major action during the day was in the Kumsong sector of the East-Central Front. South Korean troops there hurled back an early morning assault by about 750 Chinese Reds south of Lookout Mountain and gained five of six hill objectives in small attacks.

Near fallen outposts Berlin and East Berlin, close to Panmunjom truce preparations, an Allied patrol clashed for 40 minutes with the Reds, but there was no allied attempt to regain the heights.

U. S. Marines, outnumbered 12-1 or more, were overwhelmed there Sunday night. Only 14 dazed survivors managed to straggle back to Allied lines.

The number of Marines manning the two outposts was still classified as secret, but normally each such outpost numbers up to a platoon (60 men) in strength.

The 5th Air Force in a special announcement reported that two U. S. Sabre jets were shot down by Russian-built MIGs on Monday. They were the first Sabres destroyed in combat by Red jets since May 17. Sabres downed 131 MIGs during the same period, the Air Force said.

Young Korean Vet Uses Gun To Get A Date

Youth, 19, Given Year In Prison

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—A 19-year-old medalist of the fighting in Korea was sentenced today to a year in prison for trying to date a married woman.

He used a gun.

John W. Halford was convicted of assault and carrying a deadly weapon.

The woman testified he came up to her on the street July 5, held out something black, and said he'd "blow you to bits" if she didn't come along with him.

Judge Michael J. Manley denied a plea for probation after hearing the court psychiatrist's report, which said of Halford:

"It is unfortunate there is no place in our present culture into which he could easily fit.

In earlier times, he might have made a good swashbuckling, mercenary soldier or even a pioneer in the West. He is extremely impulsive and aggressive—essentially a lawless type."

Halford said he had been to a blood-and-thunder movie about the exploits of the Marines at Tripoli before he tried his strongarm date technique.

The court's attention was called to the Silver Star, the two Bronze Stars and the two Purple Hearts he won in Korea.

"Don't get me wrong," said Halford. "I wasn't fighting for my country—I was just fighting because I like to fight."

Modern Ulysses Again Is Gone

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—Charles Stickel, a modern Ulysses who recently returned to his family after a 50-year absence, has gone away again.

His daughter, Mrs. Peal Luning, said today the family was "certainly hoping" that he would make good on a promise to "be back for Christmas."

Stickel, a spry, little 84-year-old man, went off to Detroit just six days after reappearing from his half century hegira.

"He's lived out there (in Detroit) for 40 years you know," Mrs. Luning said equably in reply to a reporter's questions, "And one can't just go away and leave things. He certainly knows we want him to live with us."

A somewhat different viewpoint was expressed by Stickel when the New York World-Telegram and Sun reached him by telephone in Detroit.

He admitted missing his family all right and said it "might be nice if they came to live with me out here."

However, the newspaper quoted him, he hasn't made up his mind whether to return again to the East Elmhurst home where his 86-year-old wife Clara lives with their son, Clarence, and the Lunings.

Hoover May Serve On Executive Group

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Congress members said today that former President Hoover has indicated willingness to serve as chairman of a new commission on organization of the executive branch of the government.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) and Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) gave newsmen the information as they left a White House luncheon given by President Eisenhower. The purpose of the session was to discuss plans for operation of the commission.

Total Eclipse Of The Moon To Be Seen In West Sunday

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—A total eclipse of the moon—a pretty good show for laymen, but a kind of ho-hum event for astronomers—will take place Sunday.

It will be visible only in parts of the United States—the farther west, the better—but Westerners will have to get up pretty early in the morning to see it.

Lunar eclipses take place when the full moon passes through the shadow of the earth, so that the earth is between the moon and the sun.

Next Sunday, the moon will enter the "umbra," or darkest part of the earth's shadow at 5:32 a.m., EST and leave it at 9:08 a.m. The period of total eclipse will be from 6:29 a.m. to 8:11 a.m.

Weather permitting, it will be visible, at least as a partial exclipse in all states west of a line drawn east ot Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Kentucky, North Carolina and Florida.

It will be seen as a total eclipse in all states west of a line drawn east of Montana, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Texas.

"Eclipse" is somewhat of a misnomer when you're speaking of the moon, because it's only on rare occasions that the lunar body is completely darkened. Although it is in the earth's shadow, the eclipsed moon usually is still illuminated by a dull, reddish light. This is due to rays of the sun being refrated, or "bent" by the earth's atmosphere so that they fall upon the moon.

Reds Protest Allies In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran, July 21 (AP)—More than 50,000 Communists and their supporters massed in the square before Parliament today and shouted demands for explusion of American military advisers from Iran and for closer ties with the Soviet Union.

The Communist show of strength was the second demonstration in the square during a day of tension in which truckloads of greenclad Iranian army troops rumbled through the city to man possible trouble spots and tanks stood ready for action in police compounds.

But there were no casualties on the anniversary marking the end of Ahmed Qavam's brief tenure as Premier a year ago. Rioting and bloodshed forced Qavam to resign and Premier Mohammed Mossadegh resumed the control over the government he has held since 1951.

Italy Refuses Yugoslavia Pact

ROME, July 21 (AP)—Prime Minister Alcide de Gasperi promised today to keep Italy on her pro-Western course. But he warned that the country would not take part in any military pact including Yugoslavia until the thorny Trieste question is solved.

De Gasperi presented the promise and warning before both houses of Parliament in a bid for a vote of confidence in the new cabinet he selected last week. He called for return to Italy of the international port of Trieste,—center of a cold war with Yugoslavia since 1945.

New $8 Million Building Planned By Credit Company

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—Plans for construction in downtown Baltimore of an 8 million dollar office building 15 to 20 stories high were announced today by the Commercial Credit Co.

It would be located on a plot bounded by St. Paul, Saratoga and Charles streets. Above the present St. Paul Garage it is planned to add 11 to 16 stories.

Alexander E. Duncan, chairman of the board of the company, said the type of architecture has not been determined but that it probably will have an aluminum exterior.

Duncan said the building would house the company's several subsidiaries now scattered over the city. Other space would be available for lease.

Higher Interest Charged On New SRC Bond Issue

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP) — The State Roads Commission had to pay a 50 per cent higher interest rate today when it sold 25 million dollars worth of highway bonds.

A syndicate of investment banking firms headed by Union Securities Co. and Halsey, Stuart & Co. bid in the 15-year issue on terms that will cost the state 2.5874 in interest.

When the Roads Commission sold the last similar block of bonds, the interest rate was 1.7305 per cent.

Today's higher rate reflects the general tightening of the money market in the past few months.

The bonds sold were the last block of the 100 million dollars worth authorized by the General Assembly in 1947 when the administration of former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr., embarked the state on an ambitious highway overhaul program.

The 25 million is to finance the completion of projects already under construction or to be put under contract between now and the first of the year.

Contractor Demands Stadium Checkup

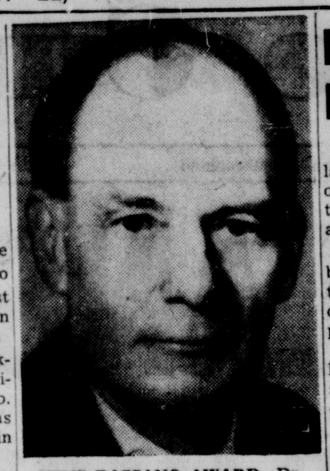

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP) — Hot words flew in the hot weather today as a contractor demanded a safety check of Baltimore's Memorial stadium to make sure "we're not building a death trap."

The demands were made by Josept Hughest, contractor expanding the 33rd St. sports arena.

Referring to a 30-degree angle at which the upper deck is being constructed, Hughest told city officials:

"I want some assurance we're not building a death trap." "I may be an old man, but the way I see it, you'd need skyhooks to hang on."

Hughes said he was not worried about the structural aspects of the upper deck but the steepness of the angle at which the fans will be sitting.

Bero Gets Bid For New Road

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP) — The Bero Engineering and Construction Co. of Hampton, Va., was low bidder at $691,956 today for the job of extending U. S. Route 40 as a dual-lane highway nearly two miles westward.

The project calls for the grading, drainage and surfacing of a dual highway from the end of Ridgeville in Carroll County 1.881 miles westward into Frederick County.

The job also calls for construction of interchange ramp connections with State Route 27 at Ridgeville.

Eventually, the State Roads Commission plans to complete U. S. 40 as a dual highway from Baltimore into Frederick.

The Bero bid was the lowest of 12 received on the project. Among others, the Williams Construction Co. Inc., of Baltimore bid $717,152, and F. P. Asher Jr., and Sons, Inc., of Annapolis $736,366.

The commission also opened bids today on construction of both lanes of Route 40 from a point about half a mile east of the Monocacy River.

Irrigation Interests State Farmers Following Dry Spell

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—Maryland farmers, in this dry summer of 1953, are perking up their interest in irrigation systems, an agriculture committee said today.

This was the conclusion drawn by the Committee for Conservation Now after a state-wide check on "irrigation interest, use and problems."

The committee noted that Maryland usually has a "critical" dry spell during the summer more often than not.

"With an average of 42 inches of rainfall annually, Maryland would not appear to need irrigation," a report by the Committee said, "but critical dry periods occurr during the growing season in about eight years out of ten."

The committee said after it's study that "irrigation needs to be tailored to the crop, the acreage to be irrigated, water supply, labor supply and financial resources of the farm."

It said irrigation has stepped up yields as much as 50 per cent in Maryland when "properly designed and handled."

In addition to increasing yields, the Committee said irrigation "provides drought insurance, improves quality, and makes possible timing of vegetable crops for best marketing periods."

In Maryland at least 100 farms are using irrigation systems over several thousand acres this year, the report said.

Sandy loams, silt loams and loam are most adapted to irrigation, the committee said. Heavy clay soils usually can't be irrigated successfully. Conservation practices which hold soil and water not only insure better moisture retention in the soil but also prevent soil and fertilizer loss, it said.

Costs of irrigation systems vary considerably the report went on. Systems are being installed in Maryland for as low as $50 per irrigated acre but it said they usually cost between $75 and $150 per acre. The systems are portable.

His daughter, Mrs. Peal Luning, said today the family was "certainly hoping" that he would make good on a promise to "be back for Christmas."

Stickel, a spry, little 84-year-old man, went off to Detroit just six days after reappearing from his half century hegira.

"He's lived out there (in Detroit) for 40 years you know," Mrs. Luning said equably in reply to a reporter's questions, "And one can't just go away and leave things. He certainly knows we want him to live with us."

A somewhat different viewpoint was expressed by Stickel when the New York World-Telegram and Sun reached him by telephone in Detroit.

He admitted missing his family all right and said it "might be nice if they came to live with me out here."

However, the newspaper quoted him, he hasn't made up his mind whether to return again to the East Elmhurst home where his 86-year-old wife Clara lives with their son, Clarence, and the Lunings.

Hoover May Serve On Executive Group

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Congress members said today that former President Hoover has indicated willingness to serve as chairman of a new commission on organization of the executive branch of the government.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) and Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) gave newsmen the information as they left a White House luncheon given by President Eisenhower. The purpose of the session was to discuss plans for operation of the commission.

Total Eclipse Of The Moon To Be Seen In West Sunday

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—A total eclipse of the moon—a pretty good show for laymen, but a kind of ho-hum event for astronomers—will take place Sunday.

It will be visible only in parts of the United States—the farther west, the better—but Westerners will have to get up pretty early in the morning to see it.

Lunar eclipses take place when the full moon passes through the shadow of the earth, so that the earth is between the moon and the sun.

Next Sunday, the moon will enter the "umbra," or darkest part of the earth's shadow at 5:32 a.m., EST and leave it at 9:08 a.m. The period of total eclipse will be from 6:29 a.m. to 8:11 a.m.

Weather permitting, it will be visible, at least as a partial exclipse in all states west of a line drawn east ot Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Kentucky, North Carolina and Florida.

It will be seen as a total eclipse in all states west of a line drawn east of Montana, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Texas.

"Eclipse" is somewhat of a misnomer when you're speaking of the moon, because it's only on rare occasions that the lunar body is completely darkened. Although it is in the earth's shadow, the eclipsed moon usually is still illuminated by a dull, reddish light. This is due to rays of the sun being refrated, or "bent" by the earth's atmosphere so that they fall upon the moon.

Plan Conference

MADRAS, India, July 21 (AP) — Southeast Asian Communist leaders, including those from Malaya, Burma, Viet Nan, Ceylon, Indonesia and the Philippines will hold a strategy conference in India soon, Communist sources reported tonight.

Reds Protest Allies In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran, July 21 (AP)—More than 50,000 Communists and their supporters massed in the square before Parliament today and shouted demands for explusion of American military advisers from Iran and for closer ties with the Soviet Union.

The Communist show of strength was the second demonstration in the square during a day of tension in which truckloads of greenclad Iranian army troops rumbled through the city to man possible trouble spots and tanks stood ready for action in police compounds.

But there were no casualties on the anniversary marking the end of Ahmed Qavam's brief tenure as Premier a year ago. Rioting and bloodshed forced Qavam to resign and Premier Mohammed Mossadegh resumed the control over the government he has held since 1951.

Italy Refuses Yugoslavia Pact

ROME, July 21 (AP)—Prime Minister Alcide de Gasperi promised today to keep Italy on her pro-Western course. But he warned that the country would not take part in any military pact including Yugoslavia until the thorny Trieste question is solved.

De Gasperi presented the promise and warning before both houses of Parliament in a bid for a vote of confidence in the new cabinet he selected last week. He called for return to Italy of the international port of Trieste,—center of a cold war with Yugoslavia since 1945.

New $8 Million Building Planned By Credit Company

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—Plans for construction in downtown Baltimore of an 8 million dollar office building 15 to 20 stories high were announced today by the Commercial Credit Co.

It would be located on a plot bounded by St. Paul, Saratoga and Charles streets. Above the present St. Paul Garage it is planned to add 11 to 16 stories.

Alexander E. Duncan, chairman of the board of the company, said the type of architecture has not been determined but that it probably will have an aluminum exterior.

Duncan said the building would house the company's several subsidiaries now scattered over the city. Other space would be available for lease.

Higher Interest Charged On New SRC Bond Issue

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP) — The State Roads Commission had to pay a 50 per cent higher interest rate today when it sold 25 million dollars worth of highway bonds.

A syndicate of investment banking firms headed by Union Securities Co. and Halsey, Stuart & Co. bid in the 15-year issue on terms that will cost the state 2.5874 in interest.

When the Roads Commission sold the last similar block of bonds, the interest rate was 1.7305 per cent.

Today's higher rate reflects the general tightening of the money market in the past few months.

The bonds sold were the last block of the 100 million dollars worth authorized by the General Assembly in 1947 when the administration of former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr., embarked the state on an ambitious highway overhaul program.

The 25 million is to finance the completion of projects already under construction or to be put under contract between now and the first of the year.

Contractor Demands Stadium Checkup

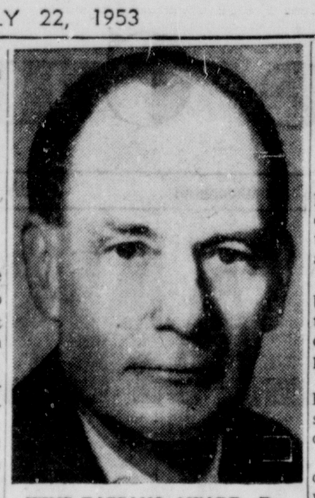

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP) — Hot words flew in the hot weather today as a contractor demanded a safety check of Baltimore's Memorial stadium to make sure "we're not building a death trap."

The demands were made by Josept Hughest, contractor expanding the 33rd St. sports arena.

Referring to a 30-degree angle at which the upper deck is being constructed, Hughest told city officials:

"I want some assurance we're not building a death trap." "I may be an old man, but the way I see it, you'd need skyhooks to hang on."

Hughes said he was not worried about the structural aspects of the upper deck but the steepness of the angle at which the fans will be sitting.

Bero Gets Bid For New Road

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP) — The Bero Engineering and Construction Co. of Hampton, Va., was low bidder at $691,956 today for the job of extending U. S. Route 40 as a dual-lane highway nearly two miles westward.

The project calls for the grading, drainage and surfacing of a dual highway from the end of Ridgeville in Carroll County 1.881 miles westward into Frederick County.

The job also calls for construction of interchange ramp connections with State Route 27 at Ridgeville.

Eventually, the State Roads Commission plans to complete U. S. 40 as a dual highway from Baltimore into Frederick.

The Bero bid was the lowest of 12 received on the project. Among others, the Williams Construction Co. Inc., of Baltimore bid $717,152, and F. P. Asher Jr., and Sons, Inc., of Annapolis $736,366.

The commission also opened bids today on construction of both lanes of Route 40 from a point about half a mile east of the Monocacy River.

Irrigation Interests State Farmers Following Dry Spell

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—Maryland farmers, in this dry summer of 1953, are perking up their interest in irrigation systems, an agriculture committee said today.

This was the conclusion drawn by the Committee for Conservation Now after a state-wide check on "irrigation interest, use and problems."

The committee noted that Maryland usually has a "critical" dry spell during the summer more often than not.

"With an average of 42 inches of rainfall annually, Maryland would not appear to need irrigation," a report by the Committee said, "but critical dry periods occurr during the growing season in about eight years out of ten."

The committee said after it's study that "irrigation needs to be tailored to the crop, the acreage to be irrigated, water supply, labor supply and financial resources of the farm."

It said irrigation has stepped up yields as much as 50 per cent in Maryland when "properly designed and handled."

In addition to increasing yields, the Committee said irrigation "provides drought insurance, improves quality, and makes possible timing of vegetable crops for best marketing periods."

In Maryland at least 100 farms are using irrigation systems over several thousand acres this year, the report said.

Sandy loams, silt loams and loam are most adapted to irrigation, the committee said. Heavy clay soils usually can't be irrigated successfully. Conservation practices which hold soil and water not only insure better moisture retention in the soil but also prevent soil and fertilizer loss, it said.

Costs of irrigation systems vary considerably the report went on. Systems are being installed in Maryland for as low as $50 per irrigated acre but it said they usually cost between $75 and $150 per acre. The systems are portable.

Mrs. Douglas Wins Divorce

BAKER, Ore., July 21 (AP)—Mildred Douglas won an uncontested divorce today from her husband, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. She charged desertion

Attorneys said the couple had been separated more than two years and on June 2 had reached agreement on a property settlement and continued support for Mrs. Douglas.

Tulips were first imported into Europe in 1554.

Treaty Allows Warship Visits

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 21 (AP)—It's going to be easy for Turkey to answer Russia's protest against the coming visits of United States and British warships to the Dardanelles area, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

"Such courtesy visits of foreign warships are permitted under the Montreux Convention," explained Nuri Birgi, head of the Foreign Office's political section.

Russia is one of the signers of the Montreux Convention, drawn up in 1936, which gives Turkey the right to administer and defend the straits. The United States supplanted Japan in the agreement after World War II. The other signatories are Turkey, Britain, France, Italy, Greece, Bulgaria and Romania.

The Soviet government announced in Moscow this morning it had protested to Turkey that a scheduled visit of 10 American warships to Istanbul tomorrow and of 22 British warships July 27 "can be described as a kind of military demonstration." It asked additional information on the visits.

British Yards Building Third Of World's Ships

LONDON, July 21 (AP) — British yards are building slightly more than a third of the world's new merchant ship tonnage, returns from Lloyd's shipping register showed today.

Altogether, 1,152 ships totaling 6,037,432 gross tons were under construction in the second quarter of the year. Of these, Britain is building 317 ships of 2,123,565 tons.

British shipowners will get 236 of them to help replace losses suffered in World War II. The rest have been ordered by foreign owners.

Then come the United States, West Germany, and the Netherlands. American yards are turning out 67 ships of 658,086 tons, West Germany 167 ships of 545,000 tons, the Netherlands 149 ships of 450,683 tons.

The women protested the dirt and noise raised by the trucks. Circuit Judge Philip Elliott ordered the truck company to find another route.

Less Elevator Operators Would Save Nation Money

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Government officials have figured out a new way to save taxpayers a little money over a long haul. They're taking the operators out of elevators.

Lest you think this a piddling saving, here's a quick statistic:

The government's General Services Administration runs a majority of the federal office buildings. And it alone hires 1,600 operators at an annual cost of four million dollars.

Possibly you haven't given much serious thought to elevators lately. So today let's drop in on a man who has—Charles A. Peters, who heads the building management division for General Services.

A safe elevator first was invented a hundred years ago, thereby making the skyscraper possible. Now high speed operatorless elevators have come along, and Peters is convinced that's the hottest elevator news in a century.

Peters attended a meeting of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, in Pittsburgh, and "I'd say operatorless elevators were the hit of the show."

An operatorless elevator, such as the pokey job used in small apartment houses, has been around for a long time. But the high speed elevator is something different.

Now it's possible to have a whole bank of operatorless elevators. They will run on schedule, will automatically weigh the customers so that the door will shut when there's a full house, and will keep the proper number of lifts running, with additional elevators coming into service as the traffic picks up.

Not many buildings in the country are completely equipped with the new machines. But the new General Accounting Office here is, and everything is working so well Peters says that serious consideration will be given to putting operatorless elevators in every future government office building.

Counting the ones in General Accounting, the government has only 50 operatorless elevators so far. It's the conversion cost—a hefty $25,000 apiece—that keeps the brakes on. Even so, Peters says, there's enough saving in operators' salaries to pay for the changeover in around seven years.

Poles Release 16 Priests And Nuns

LONDON, July 21 (AP)—The Polish Communist government has ordered the release from prison of 16 Catholic priests and three nuns, Warsaw radio announced tonight.

Warsaw radio said the Council of State annulled the imprisonment and recommended release of the nuns and priests.

Ike Approves CWV Program

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP) — Thomas J. Cuite, national commander of the Catholic War Veterans, said after a White House call today that President Eisenhower liked his organization's "approach to a positive program for the spread of Americanism rather than just being organized as a unit to fight communism."

Cuite said the President made the observation after officials of the organization presented him with copies of resolutions it adopted at a recent convention in Detroit.

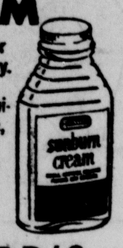

The President, Cuite told newsmen, promised to look into the organization's resolution calling on the government to do all in its power to insure the safety and well being of the two children of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Georgescu, U. S. Citizens of New York.

The resolution said Peter and Constantin Georgescu have been placed in "mortal peril" in a Romanian Communist slave camp because their parents have refused to become spies against the United States as the price for their release.

Power Policy

Federal policy on development of electric power from the nation's water resources has been undergoing a change of direction since the Eisenhower administration took office. The full extent of the change remains to be determined, but it is plain the administration and the GOP Congress want to slow down or reverse the trend that for more than two decades has been taking the government increasingly into the field of hydroelectric power production and distribution. Congress has made no provision in current appropriation bills for starting major new projects and has drastically cut funds for existing projects.

Discarding the Roosevelt principle of public power as a yardstick for private power operations, President Eisenhower and Interior Secretary McKay have come out for a partnership approach in the development of water and other natural resources. They have denied any intention to turn over existing power projects to private interests, or to shut down altogether on new public projects, but they intend to remove obstacles to private power development.

Translated into specific terms, the administration policy seems to be to earmark big multi-purpose dams on main streams for federal construction and leave single-purpose projects on tributary streams to private development. However, Secretary McKay departed from that policy when he withdrew Interior Department opposition to an application by the Idaho Power Co. to build three small dams in and near Hell's Canyon on the Snake River, where the Bureau of Reclamation had recommended a big multi-purpose project. The secretary's action was bitterly criticized by senators from the Northwest, and it strengthened fears that the balance in the administration's proposed power partnership would be tipped heavily in favor of private interests.

Large-scale federal power development got its start in 1928, when Congress authorized the great multi-purpose Boulder (Hoover) Dam on the Colorado River. Power was a major factor also in plans for the TVA regional development, authorized in 1933. Bonneville and Grand Coulee on the Columbia River followed a few years later, and since then numerous other federal projects have been initiated. Production of electricity at the federal plants, which as late as 1935 accounted for less than 1 per cent of total U. S. electric utility production, had climbed by 1952 to 13 per cent of the total.

Federal power legislation has long included a so-called preference clause, which gives municipalities, co-operatives, and other public and semi-public bodies prior rights to energy generated at government plants. In recent years the government has carried the preference policy further by building thousands of miles of transmission lines, in some cases duplicating existing private lines, to assure delivery of cheap power to preference customers.

Although the preference clause has not come under general attack, construction of transmission lines has met vigorous opposition. It has been asserted that public power should be sold only at the generating plant—to preference customers first if they will come and get it, otherwise to private utilities. But public power advocates contend that such a policy would tend to nullify the preference clause, because many municipalities could not finance their own transmission lines. Current curtailment of transmission-line projects thus has raised doubts as to the fate of the preference clause, which has been called the keystone of low-cost power policy.

Application of atomic energy to non-military uses may eventually work a revolution in the existing power economy. To speed the day when the atom will become a practical source of energy for general use, Congress now is considering legislation which would allow private industry to conduct independent research toward that goal. Many problems will have to be solved before the government monopoly can be so modified, but bringing private industry into atomic development will be in line with the administration's policy of a partnership approach to resource development.

Black Is White Is Red

Soviet propaganda can be fascinating study, and its explanation of the recent disorders in Berlin and East Germany is particularly revealing. Red propagandists were caught between bases by the outbreak on June 17.

They had been preparing the ground for policy changes by talk about the many "mistakes" of the East German regime, and a very small workers' demonstration had been staged as part of the act.

After things got out of hand and Soviet tanks had to be brought into Berlin to impose martial law, they continued at first to talk about mistakes and to promise improvement. But later a different story was concocted.

According to this story, as it finally appeared in the Moscow New Times of July 1, the whole affair is now exposed as an "X-Day plot" cooked up by "West-German revanchists and their American patrons for the express purpose of preventing the unification of Germany." As revanchists are, by definition, people who want to recover lost territory, it is not clear why West German revanchists would be trying to prevent the recovery of East Germany.

The New Times' article "exposing" the "false picture" of the uprisings painted by the "reactionary press," says the June 17 explosion of popular indignation was a "fascist provocation" carried out by "hoodlums," "terrorists," "bandits" and "foreign hirelings."

What is the proof of all this? Why, that American officials visited Berlin. The New Times lists half a dozen who visited West Germany in March, April, May and June.

But the purpose of all this is clear. Having charged a plot to overthrow the East German government, the New Times is able to say that the plot was an "utter failure." The whole thing, in short, was not a Soviet disgrace but a Western defeat. That being so, one thing remains to be explained—why Beria, on whom the Kremlin has laid responsibility for the incident, is to be decorated with lilies instead of roses.

Relief Of Pain

Without morphine, physicians might have found it difficult to practice medicine thruout the last 100 years. Those who have suffered from severe pain and obtained relief will attest to the value of the product. Until recent years when substitutes became available there was nothing else that took its place. These substitutes also are a godsend because otherwise we would be entirely dependent upon the middle east and portions of Asia where the poppy is grown commercially.

So far, our chemists have not been able to prepare morphine synthetically. Dilaudid, a derivative of morphine, while less hypnotic equals morphine in the ability to relieve pain and in one fifth the dose. Demerol is a wholly synthetic compound and probably will take over should we be deprived of our supply of opium. At present this product is used frequently to control colic of intestinal or kidney origin. Methadon also is prepared synthetically and has the advantage over morphine of relieving pain without leading to side effects. There are many others, the most notable of which are pantopon and codeine.

Pain killers such as aspirin and the coal tar derivatives are not as strong as the narcotics but they are used mainly to relieve ordinary aches and pains. Aspirin is one of the best known but the list also includes phenacetin and pyramidon. These are used alone or in combination. One of the most popular combinations, known as the APC tablets, is a mixture of aspirin, phenacetin, and caffeine. Caffeine is included to overcome the depressant effect of the phenacetin.

Intractable pain refers to pain that is difficult to control. It is the type that occurs during the end stage of certain cancers, in persistent neuralgia, or in some circulatory disturbances. Considerable ingenuity is required and as a rule the physician starts with simple pain killers and as each one loses its efficacy a stronger product is tried. Ultimately the opiates are used but there may come a time when they no longer work. If this happens, surgery may be the next step.

Pain is a conscious sensation that results from stimulation of a sensory nerve ending. The stimulation arises from a variety of conditions including injury, inflammation, or cancerous growths. The impulse travels up the nerve, into the spinal cord, and to the brain where it makes the individual aware of the discomfort. Cutting or crushing the nerve anywhere along this pathway prevents pain from reaching the brain so that the diseased part of the body, for all practical purposes, is anesthetized. This is the rationale behind surgical treatment but with certain reservations. If the nerve leading to a little finger is cut, the skin over the finger becomes numb but the finger is paralyzed because the nerves which carry sensory fibers also carry the fibers that cause the finger to move. The alternative is to go higher, where these two parts of the nerve separate, just as the fibers enter the spinal cord. The third possibility is to operate on the brain itself and destroy the cells that are concerned with pain. These operations are now being done with greater frequency in intractable pain after other methods have been given a trial without bringing relief.

LOW GRADE

Mrs. L. writes: What is meant by low grade infection in the glands of the neck?

REPLY

The lymph glands act as depots where infected material is detained temporarily while the body is gathering its forces to combat the invasion. This explains why the glands in the neck usually become swollen after sore throat or an attack of sinusitis. The same can be said of the glands in the armpit whenever infection develops in a finger. Occasionally the condition lingers, and when this occurs the physician refers to it as a low grade infection.

RECALLS THE PAST

R. W. writes: I am 76 and in good health. I always had a good memory but lately have had trouble remembering the names of friends and similar details, yet I have no difficulty recalling the words of poems and hymns I learned as a child. Can you advise?

REPLY

There is no need for concern because, as we grow older, there is a tendency to remember events of days gone by and forget the present.

SILENT GALL BLADDER

F. D. writes: Can a person have gall bladder trouble without symptoms?

REPLY

Yes. Many of us harbor gallstones without knowing it.

W. R. writes: Is it true that people with arthritis never develop cancer?

REPLY

No. This is another old wives' tale that is more far-fetched than some of the others.

Feathers Fool Senators Hearing Indian Plea; New SPDA Boss Opens Fight For Small Business; GOP Gives Few Negroes Jobs

WASHINGTON — The Senate Appropriations Committee was so dazzled by the feathers and trappings of a recent witness, Chief Rising Sun, that the Senators listened solemnly while he pleaded the cause of the Yakima Indians — without once suspecting that he wasn't an Indian at all, but an overdecorated, Negro ex-bellhop.

The big chief, whose Senate performance got him a full-page picture with feathers bristling in Life Magazine, is otherwise known as Alzamon Ira Lucas. His birth certificate shows that he was born on Nov. 11, 1878, of Negro, not Indian, parents.

How he happened to show up in the Senate in chief's headdress and Indian costume as spokesman for the Yakima Indians is something the Yakima Indians would like to find out. Actually, the Yakimas have a problem at their happy fishing grounds back in Oregon. The Government is planning to build the Dalles Dam, which would flood Celilo Falls and wipe out the tribe's fishing grounds.

Somehow Lucas heard about this, and offered the tribe his services. He proposed organizing a mass meeting in Washington and another at Madison Square Garden in New York to protest the dam construction. The Yakimas were skeptical and declined to hire him.

The next thing the Indians knew, Lucas was prancing in front of the Senate Appropriations Committee as Chief Rising Sun, dramatically denouncing the Dalles Dam. The Senator who arranged Lucas's appearance, it turns out, was California's sympathetic Bill Knowland. Apparently some of his staff members were impressed with the big chief's fancy feathers.

Little Business Fight

It was never supposed to get out of the files, but a confidential memo tells how the new small defense plants boss, William Mitchell, has been clamoring for 35 cents out of every procurement dollar to be spent on small business contracts.

Mitchell marched straight to the Pentagon and presented his demands to the director of small business, Richard Lennihan, and his assistant, Leonard Ethridge. Afterward, Mitchell dictated a memo, marked "Restricted To Administrator's Office," reporting on the conversation.

"Ethridge broke in, saying 35 cents too high," Mitchell recounted in the memo. "I rejoined that maybe so, but we were a 'helluva' long way from it with the present figure of 15 cents; I was alarmed that the percentage had declined from around 22 to 15 cents in the five or four months prior to my taking over; that we had to insist on an upward trend starting very soon."

Mitchell also tried to smooth out friction between the Pentagon and his Small Defense Plants Agency. He reported in his confidential memo: "Lennihan mentioned certain frictions between his office and SDPA and told of letters written his office and others needling and yipping.. Told him my mission was dignified; I report to President; I don't like petty things; our dealings would be on high plane; bound to be differences — perhaps strong differences—which would be approached on 'mutual respect' basis; I had job to do and powers given by Congress."

Mitchell concluded with the notation: "gave impression — firm — all way through — that I was not going to allow myself to be 'layered' — I was going to deal so high up the line as protocol permitted—to do an effective job."

Washington Whirl

Mystery Man Henry Grunewald claimed his heart wasn't strong enough to testify before Congress, but the other day he was ejected from the Wardman Park Hotel for throwing lamps, tumblers, and bric-a-brac in a boisterous celebration in a lady's room. . . . America, the Jesuit national weekly, went to bat for James Wechsler, editor of the New York Post, when Senator McCarthy picked on him. . . . Certain Texas oil moguls are planning to knife Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby when she runs for Governor of Texas — because of a speech at Ohio Wesleyan University against segregation and second-class citizenship in our schools. . . . Democratic Congressman Francis Walter of Pennsylvania is one of the most avid camera fans in Congress. But he's proudest of a picture taken by someone else — a shot of Walter presiding at the Chicago 1952 Convention. Looking over his shoulder is the clerk, George Maurer, of Easton, Pa., the same town from which Walter hails. . . . Senator McCarthy has been strutting around the country claiming credit for convicting Alger Hiss. Actually Vice President Nixon and the FBI did the job before McCarthy jumped on the anti-Communist bandwagon. McCarthy has been doing the shouting while others have been catching the Communists.

Few Negro Appointments

Added to Ike's other troubles, Negro leaders are irked over the brush-off the new Administration has been giving them.

They point out that out of 134,000 non-civil service jobs, Republicans so far have appointed only one Negro, then only to replace another Negro. She is Mrs. James Spaulding, who succeeded Mrs. Ann Hedgeman as an assistant at the Department of Health, Welfare, and Education.

Two other Negro appointments are in the works, but, again, they will be no more than replacements for other Negroes. Jesse Locker is scheduled to be American Ambassador to the Negro Republic of Liberia, replacing outgoing Ambassador Ed Dudley. Also pressure has been put on the White House to find a federal job for Miss Roberta Church, a Republican Negro. So the patronage experts looked around and found a Democratic Negro, Miss Thomasina Norford, who isn't protected by Civil Service. She'll be ousted as a consultant to the U. S. Employment Service to make room for Miss Church.

Colored leaders complain that, out of 1,500 federal departments, agencies, boards, and commissions, not a single one is headed by a Negro. In fact, only three Negroes hold any post at all — one on the obscure Caribbean Commission and two on the Fair Employment Practices Board of the Civil Service Commission. Out of 30,000 "supervisory" jobs in all branches of the Federal Government, including Congress and the courts, only 22 Negroes are in positions of authority, they say, and two of these are Congressmen elected to their jobs.

Negroes expected one of their race to be appointed Ambassador to Haiti, and to one of the three new judgeships in the District of Columbia, but all Negro candidates were by-passed. Negro leaders say they plan to make this a political issue for the party of Abraham Lincoln.

These Days

Too Much Politics

Being, myself, a cigar and pipe man, I look with superior disdain upon those who smoke cigarettes. I consider it discrimination of the rankest kind that I am not permitted to smoke either a cigar or a pipe in an airplane, although one hostess was kind enough to suggest that I might chew my cigar.

William Baxter, the economist, has sent me a mimeographed statement which must have gone out to thousands and probably has some purpose. This is it:

"While it is known that the American family throws into the garbage pail enough food to feed several countries each year, it has just been revealed that we are equally extravagant with cigarettes.

"A cross-country check of cigarette butts by economist, William J. Baxter, reveals that American smokers throw away each year 1 1/5 billion dollars in cigarettes. One-half of the cigarette finds its way into the ashcan . . ."

I suppose if I stopped smoking really good cigars and gave myself over to bubble-gum, I could feed a couple of Fiji islanders, after a few administrators got their salaries, overhead and travel costs, and some investigators spent a year or two discovering what Fijis like to eat, although the Fijis knew it all the time, having been told by their mothers.

But would it be wise? The Male Animal rises in the morning ill-disposed to normal social relationships until he has filled his lungs with tobacco smoke in some form and has consumed a reservoir of coffee. (I, myself drink tea at breakfast, although I am told that this is a Freudian complex, disclosing a repressed pro-British sentiment.)

So, the Male Animal, having done the aforesaid, is in a condition to say, "good morning, darling!"

If the lady of the house has been similarly conditioned (to use the language of the great Pavlov), she does not comment on yesterday's doings but gets a forward look in her eye and speculates on what she will do today. At that point, the Male Animal, his mouth repositing whatever form of weed he prefers, sallies forth to his daily chores well disposed to life in general.

Shall we change our ways by eliminating tobacco altogether in order that we may be enabled to send cigarettes to the East Germans? This is a question of weighty moment because the best way to win people and hold their friendship is to give them an excellent nickel cigar (now priced at 15 cents).

Just think of the great missionary work done by the G. I.'s in the last war by the distribution of cigarettes, particularly to the pretty girls of enemy countries! Those enemy countries are now our friendly countries, while the friendly countries, which got billions of dollars worth of arms, planes, machinery and even cash, but no cigarettes, are now our enemies or neutral.

Does not that prove beyond doubt that instead of sending food, we should send tobacco to all the peace-loving and Democratic countries? If it does not prove that, what does it prove?

Once on Father's Day, I was presented with a pipe that has a cover. I thought that was a sarcastic exhibition. The trouble with that pipe is that it holds too little tobacco and goes out even faster than ordinary pipes. So it reclines most of the time where I can forget about it conveniently. Nothing is pleasanter than to forget conveniently. The kind of pipe I would really enjoy is one of those long, old-fashioned German peasant arrangements that took half an ounce of tobacco at a time. This could be smoked with great contentment while thoughts ranged through the mind on this or that.

Someday, maybe I shall write a column on this or that. It might sound like a learned discussion of problems that shake the world. Those great problems are always with us so that politicians can make speeches that sound profound and columnists and write columns about the profound speeches.

No, Brother Baxter, do not deprive me of my smokes to feed the peasants of Pakistan. True, my heart bleeds for them, but I need my smoke to keep peace in my household. Without a daily dose of tobacco, the Male Animal might see things as they are. Imagine what would happen then, Mr. Baxter! Do you want to be the author of such tragedy?

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Almost unnoticed by the press generally was the split in the Republican party recorded a few days ago on the issue of giving more billions of American taxpayers' money to the rest of the world.

Not since the days of the Republican national convention a year ago has the clevage been as striking.

While the vote in the House of Representatives showed 80 Republicans against and 94 in favor of the foreign-aid "authorization" bill, a majority of the Republican members of the delegations from 17 states refused to go along with President Eisenhower's proposal for foreign aid. Thus it will be found that the majority of the delegations of Republicans from the following states deviated from the administration's position:

Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia and Maine. The Republican delegations from Oregon, Utah, Missouri and Tennessee were equally divided.

This is a sizable area of the United States. The opposition Republican votes came not only from the Rocky Mountain area and the Middle West, but six of the states are east of the Mississippi.

This geographical division is significant, because Republicans from the Pacific coast and the Eastern seaboard seemed to be a unit in voting the other way.

History Repeating

Back in the '20's, the anti-European reaction after World War I started in much the same way inside the Republican party and eventually engulfed the whole country, including the Democratic party. This was frequently referred to as "isolationism" but actually it was a build-up of resentment against European diplomacy, especially after the selfishness manifested at the Paris Peace Conference by the leading diplomats of the victorious powers.

Today the Republican party is demonstrating again that it has in its ranks a sizable opposition to foreign aid. While the Democratic party has some rebels on the issue, the Democrats for the most part are in favor of continuing the high rate of expenditure for foreign aid. The Republicans who are making an issue of it say they are not the least impressed by the tendency of the Democrats to support the large appropriations for foreign aid because the Democratic party is looked upon as a "spendthrift party," anyhow.

Representative John W. McCormack, Democrat, of Massachusetts, who was leader of the party in the House at the last session, is challenging President Eisenhower to lead a "fight" against his party in the House if he wishes the aid of the Democrats in restoring the cut of more than a billion dollars which the House Appropriations Committee has lopped off the bill. The vote last week was on the question of authorizing 5.2 billions of dollars of foreign aid, and the next vote will be on how much shall be appropriated out of the 5.2 billions of money "authorized."

The Republican party came into power on the pledge to balance the budget and reduce taxes, and one of the biggest items preventing that pledge from being carried out is foreign aid.

Already for the fiscal year 195 the administration has estimated that, using previous moneys unexpended and sums to be added, the total will be 6.5 billions, which compares with 5.5 billions for fiscal year 1953 and 4.6 billions for fiscal year 1952. So it will be seen that the Eisenhower administration is planning to outspend the Truman administration on foreign aid, and this is what is causing many a Republican to hesitate, especially since it is believed public opinion, for a variety of reasons, including the Korean War, is becoming anti-European.

Splits In Both Parties

Mr. Eisenhower can lead a "fight" against a large bloc of his own party, but he will merely be accentuating a cleavage that has been slowly developing because of an unwillingness to carry out campaign pledges. The Democrats, of course, with a North-South split, will be glad to see the Republican division become a permanent affair.

The Democrats are trying to make a coalition with Eastern Republicans to uphold the Eisenhower program. There are enough votes to do it, but the casualty will be the Republican party and particularly some Republicans in the East who will find themselves with substantial opposition in their primaries.

The parallel with the 1920's may develop even more dramatically this time with a split inside the Democratic party in the North, where aspiring Democratic candidates for Congress may find it worth while to make a contest in the primaries for the nomination against Democrats who, rather than reduce the taxes of the American people, are voting billions for Europe and other parts of the world. It took about four years after the 1920 defeat before the Democratic party turned away from the League of Nations and from Europe—so much so that, in order to win support of certain influential newspapers, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1932 preconvention campaign repudiated the League, which he had espoused as a vice-presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket twelve years before.

Mr. Eisenhower can break up the Republican party by insisting on spending huge sums abroad, or he can defer to the wishes of his party and accept its cuts and maintain a harmonious party. The choice is up to him this very week.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Thirteen Megadeaths

WASHINGTON:

Last week the President's appointment schedule was quietly revised to conceal a significant fact. By the President's order and under his leadership, the National Security Council held an all-day meeting.

Since the morrow of Pearl Harbor, no single problem has ever engaged the continuous, combined attention of all the heads of the American government throughout a working day. Yet the subject of last week's unprecedented meeting of our highest policy making organ was not the Korean truce, or the power contest in Moscow, or any other topic of current discussion. The subject was the air defense of the American continent.

Despite the very special consideration given to the problem, it is not clear that any conclusions were reached. Most probably, the administration will want the views of the new Joint Chiefs of Staff before taking its decision about air defense policy. But the mere fact of the recent Security Council meeting rather clearly implies that the administration is increasingly worried about the increasing air-atomic striking power of the Soviet Union.

This is not a distant danger, if the official estimates are not misleading. One of the reports that have been presented to the Security Council actually credits the Kremlin with the power to destroy just under 40 per cent of the American industrial potential, and to cause the death of about 13,000,000 Americans. Any such estimate of current Kremlin capabilities is of course highly debatable. But the signs are plain, nonetheless, that a major turning point in American policy is now approaching.

The approach has been made by stages, several of which have been revealed in this space. First there was the report of Project Lincoln, the remarkable scientific task force of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Then there was the Truman administration policy paper, NSC-141, which defined the air defense problem for President Eisenhower. Then there was the further report of a special committee of leading scientists and industrialists headed by Dr. Mervin J. Kelly, president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

All these successive papers pointed in the same unpleasant direction, toward the need for an urgent, costly effort to improve our air defenses. Finally, after receiving the report of the Kelly Committee, the Security Council named still another study group. This new group was headed by the President's war time- Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations, Gen. Harold Bull, who is now an official of the Central Intelligence Agency. The President and his Cabinet colleagues wanted "something from their own people," according to one explanation. Gen. Bull and his co-workers, who were recruited from the armed services and other interested agencies, presented their recommendations for action at last week's meeting of the Security Council.

It is hard to believe that fairly dramatic action will not be taken, simply because of the character of the potential threat. In the first place, the best estimates of Soviet atomic production now appear to have been revised upwards. Until rather recently, the British were

Federal policy on development of electric power from the nation's water resources has been undergoing a change of direction since the Eisenhower administration took office. The full extent of the change remains to be determined, but it is plain the administration and the GOP Congress want to slow down or reverse the trend that for more than two decades has been taking the government increasingly into the field of hydroelectric power production and distribution. Congress has made no provision in current appropriation bills for starting major new projects and has drastically cut funds for existing projects.

Discarding the Roosevelt principle of public power as a yardstick for private power operations, President Eisenhower and Interior Secretary McKay have come out for a partnership approach in the development of water and other natural resources. They have denied any intention to turn over existing power projects to private interests, or to shut down altogether on new public projects, but they intend to remove obstacles to private power development.

Translated into specific terms, the administration policy seems to be to earmark big multi-purpose dams on main streams for federal construction and leave single-purpose projects on tributary streams to private development. However, Secretary McKay departed from that policy when he withdrew Interior Department opposition to an application by the Idaho Power Co. to build three small dams in and near Hell's Canyon on the Snake River, where the Bureau of Reclamation had recommended a big multi-purpose project. The secretary's action was bitterly criticized by senators from the Northwest, and it strengthened fears that the balance in the administration's proposed power partnership would be tipped heavily in favor of private interests.

Large-scale federal power development got its start in 1928, when Congress authorized the great multi-purpose Boulder (Hoover) Dam on the Colorado River. Power was a major factor also in plans for the TVA regional development, authorized in 1933. Bonneville and Grand Coulee on the Columbia River followed a few years later, and since then numerous other federal projects have been initiated. Production of electricity at the federal plants, which as late as 1935 accounted for less than 1 per cent of total U. S. electric utility production, had climbed by 1952 to 13 per cent of the total.

Federal power legislation has long included a so-called preference clause, which gives municipalities, co-operatives, and other public and semi-public bodies prior rights to energy generated at government plants. In recent years the government has carried the preference policy further by building thousands of miles of transmission lines, in some cases duplicating existing private lines, to assure delivery of cheap power to preference customers.

Although the preference clause has not come under general attack, construction of transmission lines has met vigorous opposition. It has been asserted that public power should be sold only at the generating plant—to preference customers first if they will come and get it, otherwise to private utilities. But public power advocates contend that such a policy would tend to nullify the preference clause, because many municipalities could not finance their own transmission lines. Current curtailment of transmission-line projects thus has raised doubts as to the fate of the preference clause, which has been called the keystone of low-cost power policy.

Application of atomic energy to non-military uses may eventually work a revolution in the existing power economy. To speed the day when the atom will become a practical source of energy for general use, Congress now is considering legislation which would allow private industry to conduct independent research toward that goal. Many problems will have to be solved before the government monopoly can be so modified, but bringing private industry into atomic development will be in line with the administration's policy of a partnership approach to resource development.

Black Is White Is Red

Soviet propaganda can be fascinating study, and its explanation of the recent disorders in Berlin and East Germany is particularly revealing. Red propagandists were caught between bases by the outbreak on June 17.

They had been preparing the ground for policy changes by talk about the many "mistakes" of the East German regime, and a very small workers' demonstration had been staged as part of the act.

After things got out of hand and Soviet tanks had to be brought into Berlin to impose martial law, they continued at first to talk about mistakes and to promise improvement. But later a different story was concocted.

According to this story, as it finally appeared in the Moscow New Times of July 1, the whole affair is now exposed as an "X-Day plot" cooked up by "West-German revanchists and their American patrons for the express purpose of preventing the unification of Germany." As revanchists are, by definition, people who want to recover lost territory, it is not clear why West German revanchists would be trying to prevent the recovery of East Germany.

The New Times' article "exposing" the "false picture" of the uprisings painted by the "reactionary press," says the June 17 explosion of popular indignation was a "fascist provocation" carried out by "hoodlums," "terrorists," "bandits" and "foreign hirelings."

What is the proof of all this? Why, that American officials visited Berlin. The New Times lists half a dozen who visited West Germany in March, April, May and June.

But the purpose of all this is clear. Having charged a plot to overthrow the East German government, the New Times is able to say that the plot was an "utter failure." The whole thing, in short, was not a Soviet disgrace but a Western defeat. That being so, one thing remains to be explained—why Beria, on whom the Kremlin has laid responsibility for the incident, is to be decorated with lilies instead of roses.

Relief Of Pain

Without morphine, physicians might have found it difficult to practice medicine thruout the last 100 years. Those who have suffered from severe pain and obtained relief will attest to the value of the product. Until recent years when substitutes became available there was nothing else that took its place. These substitutes also are a godsend because otherwise we would be entirely dependent upon the middle east and portions of Asia where the poppy is grown commercially.

So far, our chemists have not been able to prepare morphine synthetically. Dilaudid, a derivative of morphine, while less hypnotic equals morphine in the ability to relieve pain and in one fifth the dose. Demerol is a wholly synthetic compound and probably will take over should we be deprived of our supply of opium. At present this product is used frequently to control colic of intestinal or kidney origin. Methadon also is prepared synthetically and has the advantage over morphine of relieving pain without leading to side effects. There are many others, the most notable of which are pantopon and codeine.

Pain killers such as aspirin and the coal tar derivatives are not as strong as the narcotics but they are used mainly to relieve ordinary aches and pains. Aspirin is one of the best known but the list also includes phenacetin and pyramidon. These are used alone or in combination. One of the most popular combinations, known as the APC tablets, is a mixture of aspirin, phenacetin, and caffeine. Caffeine is included to overcome the depressant effect of the phenacetin.

Intractable pain refers to pain that is difficult to control. It is the type that occurs during the end stage of certain cancers, in persistent neuralgia, or in some circulatory disturbances. Considerable ingenuity is required and as a rule the physician starts with simple pain killers and as each one loses its efficacy a stronger product is tried. Ultimately the opiates are used but there may come a time when they no longer work. If this happens, surgery may be the next step.

Pain is a conscious sensation that results from stimulation of a sensory nerve ending. The stimulation arises from a variety of conditions including injury, inflammation, or cancerous growths. The impulse travels up the nerve, into the spinal cord, and to the brain where it makes the individual aware of the discomfort. Cutting or crushing the nerve anywhere along this pathway prevents pain from reaching the brain so that the diseased part of the body, for all practical purposes, is anesthetized. This is the rationale behind surgical treatment but with certain reservations. If the nerve leading to a little finger is cut, the skin over the finger becomes numb but the finger is paralyzed because the nerves which carry sensory fibers also carry the fibers that cause the finger to move. The alternative is to go higher, where these two parts of the nerve separate, just as the fibers enter the spinal cord. The third possibility is to operate on the brain itself and destroy the cells that are concerned with pain. These operations are now being done with greater frequency in intractable pain after other methods have been given a trial without bringing relief.

LOW GRADE

Mrs. L. writes: What is meant by low grade infection in the glands of the neck?

REPLY

The lymph glands act as depots where infected material is detained temporarily while the body is gathering its forces to combat the invasion. This explains why the glands in the neck usually become swollen after sore throat or an attack of sinusitis. The same can be said of the glands in the armpit whenever infection develops in a finger. Occasionally the condition lingers, and when this occurs the physician refers to it as a low grade infection.

RECALLS THE PAST

R. W. writes: I am 76 and in good health. I always had a good memory but lately have had trouble remembering the names of friends and similar details, yet I have no difficulty recalling the words of poems and hymns I learned as a child. Can you advise?

REPLY

There is no need for concern because, as we grow older, there is a tendency to remember events of days gone by and forget the present.

SILENT GALL BLADDER

F. D. writes: Can a person have gall bladder trouble without symptoms?

REPLY

Yes. Many of us harbor gallstones without knowing it.

NO RELATIONSHIP

W. R. writes: Is it true that people with arthritis never develop cancer?

REPLY

No. This is another old wives' tale that is more far-fetched than some of the others.

Feathers Fool Senators Hearing Indian Plea; New SPDA Boss Opens Fight For Small Business; GOP Gives Few Negroes Jobs

WASHINGTON — The Senate Appropriations Committee was so dazzled by the feathers and trappings of a recent witness, Chief Rising Sun, that the Senators listened solemnly while he pleaded the cause of the Yakima Indians — without once suspecting that he wasn't an Indian at all, but an overdecorated, Negro ex-bellhop.

The big chief, whose Senate performance got him a full-page picture with feathers bristling in Life Magazine, is otherwise known as Alzamon Ira Lucas. His birth certificate shows that he was born on Nov. 11, 1878, of Negro, not Indian, parents.

How he happened to show up in the Senate in chief's headdress and Indian costume as spokesman for the Yakima Indians is something the Yakima Indians would like to find out. Actually, the Yakimas have a problem at their happy fishing grounds back in Oregon. The Government is planning to build the Dalles Dam, which would flood Celilo Falls and wipe out the tribe's fishing grounds.

Somehow Lucas heard about this, and offered the tribe his services. He proposed organizing a mass meeting in Washington and another at Madison Square Garden in New York to protest the dam construction. The Yakimas were skeptical and declined to hire him.

The next thing the Indians knew, Lucas was prancing in front of the Senate Appropriations Committee as Chief Rising Sun, dramatically denouncing the Dalles Dam. The Senator who arranged Lucas's appearance, it turns out, was California's sympathetic Bill Knowland. Apparently some of his staff members were impressed with the big chief's fancy feathers.

Little Business Fight

It was never supposed to get out of the files, but a confidential memo tells how the new small defense plants boss, William Mitchell, has been clamoring for 35 cents out of every procurement dollar to be spent on small business contracts.

Mitchell marched straight to the Pentagon and presented his demands to the director of small business, Richard Lennihan, and his assistant, Leonard Ethridge. Afterward, Mitchell dictated a memo, marked "Restricted To Administrator's Office," reporting on the conversation.

"Ethridge broke in, saying 35 cents too high," Mitchell recounted in the memo. "I rejoined that maybe so, but we were a 'helluva' long way from it with the present figure of 15 cents; I was alarmed that the percentage had declined from around 22 to 15 cents in the five or four months prior to my taking over; that we had to insist on an upward trend starting very soon."

Mitchell also tried to smooth out friction between the Pentagon and his Small Defense Plants Agency. He reported in his confidential memo: "Lennihan mentioned certain frictions between his office and SDPA and told of letters written his office and others needling and yipping.. Told him my mission was dignified; I report to President; I don't like petty things; our dealings would be on high plane; bound to be differences — perhaps strong differences—which would be approached on 'mutual respect' basis; I had job to do and powers given by Congress."

Mitchell concluded with the notation: "gave impression — firm — all way through — that I was not going to allow myself to be 'layered' — I was going to deal so high up the line as protocol permitted—to do an effective job."

Washington Whirl

Mystery Man Henry Grunewald claimed his heart wasn't strong enough to testify before Congress, but the other day he was ejected from the Wardman Park Hotel for throwing lamps, tumblers, and bric-a-brac in a boisterous celebration in a lady's room. . . . America, the Jesuit national weekly, went to bat for James Wechsler, editor of the New York Post, when Senator McCarthy picked on him. . . . Certain Texas oil moguls are planning to knife Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby when she runs for Governor of Texas — because of a speech at Ohio Wesleyan University against segregation and second-class citizenship in our schools. . . . Democratic Congressman Francis Walter of Pennsylvania is one of the most avid camera fans in Congress. But he's proudest of a picture taken by someone else — a shot of Walter presiding at the Chicago 1952 Convention. Looking over his shoulder is the clerk, George Maurer, of Easton, Pa., the same town from which Walter hails. . . . Senator McCarthy has been strutting around the country claiming credit for convicting Alger Hiss. Actually Vice President Nixon and the FBI did the job before McCarthy jumped on the anti-Communist bandwagon. McCarthy has been doing the shouting while others have been catching the Communists.

Few Negro Appointments

Added to Ike's other troubles, Negro leaders are irked over the brush-off the new Administration has been giving them.

They point out that out of 134,000 non-civil service jobs, Republicans so far have appointed only one Negro, then only to replace another Negro. She is Mrs. James Spaulding, who succeeded Mrs. Ann Hedgeman as an assistant at the Department of Health, Welfare, and Education.

Two other Negro appointments are in the works, but, again, they will be no more than replacements for other Negroes. Jesse Locker is scheduled to be American Ambassador to the Negro Republic of Liberia, replacing outgoing Ambassador Ed Dudley. Also pressure has been put on the White House to find a federal job for Miss Roberta Church, a Republican Negro. So the patronage experts looked around and found a Democratic Negro, Miss Thomasina Norford, who isn't protected by Civil Service. She'll be ousted as a consultant to the U. S. Employment Service to make room for Miss Church.

Colored leaders complain that, out of 1,500 federal departments, agencies, boards, and commissions, not a single one is headed by a Negro. In fact, only three Negroes hold any post at all — one on the obscure Caribbean Commission and two on the Fair Employment Practices Board of the Civil Service Commission. Out of 30,000 "supervisory" jobs in all branches of the Federal Government, including Congress and the courts, only 22 Negroes are in positions of authority, they say, and two of these are Congressmen elected to their jobs.

Negroes expected one of their race to be appointed Ambassador to Haiti, and to one of the three new judgeships in the District of Columbia, but all Negro candidates were by-passed. Negro leaders say they plan to make this a political issue for the party of Abraham Lincoln.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Too Much Politics

Being, myself, a cigar and pipe man, I look with superior disdain upon those who smoke cigarettes. I consider it discrimination of the rankest kind that I am not permitted to smoke either a cigar or a pipe in an airplane, although one hostess was kind enough to suggest that I might chew my cigar.

William Baxter, the economist, has sent me a mimeographed statement which must have gone out to thousands and probably has some purpose. This is it:

"While it is known that the American family throws into the garbage pail enough food to feed several countries each year, it has just been revealed that we are equally extravagant with cigarettes.

"A cross-country check of cigarette butts by economist, William J. Baxter, reveals that American smokers throw away each year 1 1/5 billion dollars in cigarettes. One-half of the cigarette finds its way into the ashcan . . ."

I suppose if I stopped smoking really good cigars and gave myself over to bubble-gum, I could feed a couple of Fiji islanders, after a few administrators got their salaries, overhead and travel costs, and some investigators spent a year or two discovering what Fijis like to eat, although the Fijis knew it all the time, having been told by their mothers.

But would it be wise? The Male Animal rises in the morning ill-disposed to normal social relationships until he has filled his lungs with tobacco smoke in some form and has consumed a reservoir of coffee. (I, myself drink tea at breakfast, although I am told that this is a Freudian complex, disclosing a repressed pro-British sentiment.)

So, the Male Animal, having done the aforesaid, is in a condition to say, "good morning, darling!"

If the lady of the house has been similarly conditioned (to use the language of the great Pavlov), she does not comment on yesterday's doings but gets a forward look in her eye and speculates on what she will do today. At that point, the Male Animal, his mouth repositing whatever form of weed he prefers, sallies forth to his daily chores well disposed to life in general.

Shall we change our ways by eliminating tobacco altogether in order that we may be enabled to send cigarettes to the East Germans? This is a question of weighty moment because the best way to win people and hold their friendship is to give them an excellent nickel cigar (now priced at 15 cents).

Just think of the great missionary work done by the G. I.'s in the last war by the distribution of cigarettes, particularly to the pretty girls of enemy countries! Those enemy countries are now our friendly countries, while the friendly countries, which got billions of dollars worth of arms, planes, machinery and even cash, but no cigarettes, are now our enemies or neutral.

Does not that prove beyond doubt that instead of sending food, we should send tobacco to all the peace-loving and Democratic countries? If it does not prove that, what does it prove?

Once on Father's Day, I was presented with a pipe that has a cover. I thought that was a sarcastic exhibition. The trouble with that pipe is that it holds too little tobacco and goes out even faster than ordinary pipes. So it reclines most of the time where I can forget about it conveniently. Nothing is pleasanter than to forget conveniently. The kind of pipe I would really enjoy is one of those long, old-fashioned German peasant arrangements that took half an ounce of tobacco at a time. This could be smoked with great contentment while thoughts ranged through the mind on this or that.

Someday, maybe I shall write a column on this or that. It might sound like a learned discussion of problems that shake the world. Those great problems are always with us so that politicians can make speeches that sound profound and columnists and write columns about the profound speeches.

No, Brother Baxter, do not deprive me of my smokes to feed the peasants of Pakistan. True, my heart bleeds for them, but I need my smoke to keep peace in my household. Without a daily dose of tobacco, the Male Animal might see things as they are. Imagine what would happen then, Mr. Baxter! Do you want to be the author of such tragedy?

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Almost unnoticed by the press generally was the split in the Republican party recorded a few days ago on the issue of giving more billions of American taxpayers' money to the rest of the world.

Not since the days of the Republican national convention a year ago has the clevage been as striking.

While the vote in the House of Representatives showed 80 Republicans against and 94 in favor of the foreign-aid "authorization" bill, a majority of the Republican members of the delegations from 17 states refused to go along with President Eisenhower's proposal for foreign aid. Thus it will be found that the majority of the delegations of Republicans from the following states deviated from the administration's position:

Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia and Maine. The Republican delegations from Oregon, Utah, Missouri and Tennessee were equally divided.

This is a sizable area of the United States. The opposition Republican votes came not only from the Rocky Mountain area and the Middle West, but six of the states are east of the Mississippi.

This geographical division is significant, because Republicans from the Pacific coast and the Eastern seaboard seemed to be a unit in voting the other way.

History Repeating

Back in the '20's, the anti-European reaction after World War I started in much the same way inside the Republican party and eventually engulfed the whole country, including the Democratic party. This was frequently referred to as "isolationism" but actually it was a build-up of resentment against European diplomacy, especially after the selfishness manifested at the Paris Peace Conference by the leading diplomats of the victorious powers.

Today the Republican party is demonstrating again that it has in its ranks a sizable opposition to foreign aid. While the Democratic party has some rebels on the issue, the Democrats for the most part are in favor of continuing the high rate of expenditure for foreign aid. The Republicans who are making an issue of it say they are not the least impressed by the tendency of the Democrats to support the large appropriations for foreign aid because the Democratic party is looked upon as a "spendthrift party," anyhow.

Representative John W. McCormack, Democrat, of Massachusetts, who was leader of the party in the House at the last session, is challenging President Eisenhower to lead a "fight" against his party in the House if he wishes the aid of the Democrats in restoring the cut of more than a billion dollars which the House Appropriations Committee has lopped off the bill. The vote last week was on the question of authorizing 5.2 billions of dollars of foreign aid, and the next vote will be on how much shall be appropriated out of the 5.2 billions of money "authorized."

The Republican party came into power on the pledge to balance the budget and reduce taxes, and one of the biggest items preventing that pledge from being carried out is foreign aid.

Already for the fiscal year 195 the administration has estimated that, using previous moneys unexpended and sums to be added, the total will be 6.5 billions, which compares with 5.5 billions for fiscal year 1953 and 4.6 billions for fiscal year 1952. So it will be seen that the Eisenhower administration is planning to outspend the Truman administration on foreign aid, and this is what is causing many a Republican to hesitate, especially since it is believed public opinion, for a variety of reasons, including the Korean War, is becoming anti-European.

Splits In Both Parties

Mr. Eisenhower can lead a "fight" against a large bloc of his own party, but he will merely be accentuating a cleavage that has been slowly developing because of an unwillingness to carry out campaign pledges. The Democrats, of course, with a North-South split, will be glad to see the Republican division become a permanent affair.

The Democrats are trying to make a coalition with Eastern Republicans to uphold the Eisenhower program. There are enough votes to do it, but the casualty will be the Republican party and particularly some Republicans in the East who will find themselves with substantial opposition in their primaries.

The parallel with the 1920's may develop even more dramatically this time with a split inside the Democratic party in the North, where aspiring Democratic candidates for Congress may find it worth while to make a contest in the primaries for the nomination against Democrats who, rather than reduce the taxes of the American people, are voting billions for Europe and other parts of the world. It took about four years after the 1920 defeat before the Democratic party turned away from the League of Nations and from Europe—so much so that, in order to win support of certain influential newspapers, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1932 preconvention campaign repudiated the League, which he had espoused as a vice-presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket twelve years before.

Mr. Eisenhower can break up the Republican party by insisting on spending huge sums abroad, or he can defer to the wishes of his party and accept its cuts and maintain a harmonious party. The choice is up to him this very week.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Thirteen Megadeaths

WASHINGTON:

Last week the President's appointment schedule was quietly revised to conceal a significant fact. By the President's order and under his leadership, the National Security Council held an all-day meeting.

Since the morrow of Pearl Harbor, no single problem has ever engaged the continuous, combined attention of all the heads of the American government throughout a working day. Yet the subject of last week's unprecedented meeting of our highest policy making organ was not the Korean truce, or the power contest in Moscow, or any other topic of current discussion. The subject was the air defense of the American continent.

Despite the very special consideration given to the problem, it is not clear that any conclusions were reached. Most probably, the administration will want the views of the new Joint Chiefs of Staff before taking its decision about air defense policy. But the mere fact of the recent Security Council meeting rather clearly implies that the administration is increasingly worried about the increasing air-atomic striking power of the Soviet Union.

This is not a distant danger, if the official estimates are not misleading. One of the reports that have been presented to the Security Council actually credits the Kremlin with the power to destroy just under 40 per cent of the American industrial potential, and to cause the death of about 13,000,000 Americans. Any such estimate of current Kremlin capabilities is of course highly debatable. But the signs are plain, nonetheless, that a major turning point in American policy is now approaching.

The approach has been made by stages, several of which have been revealed in this space. First there was the report of Project Lincoln, the remarkable scientific task force of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Then there was the Truman administration policy paper, NSC-141, which defined the air defense problem for President Eisenhower. Then there was the further report of a special committee of leading scientists and industrialists headed by Dr. Mervin J. Kelly, president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

All these successive papers pointed in the same unpleasant direction, toward the need for an urgent, costly effort to improve our air defenses. Finally, after receiving the report of the Kelly Committee, the Security Council named still another study group. This new group was headed by the President's war time- Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations, Gen. Harold Bull, who is now an official of the Central Intelligence Agency. The President and his Cabinet colleagues wanted "something from their own people," according to one explanation. Gen. Bull and his co-workers, who were recruited from the armed services and other interested agencies, presented their recommendations for action at last week's meeting of the Security Council.

It is hard to believe that fairly dramatic action will not be taken, simply because of the character of the potential threat. In the first place, the best estimates of Soviet atomic production now appear to have been revised upwards. Until rather recently, the British were

Now that the new Administration has been in office for six months and Congress adjournment only a few weeks away, it should be possible to do a little evaluating to determine just how well the Administration has done.

Admittedly, not every one will feel that all has been done that should have been done, knowing that the Administration has assumed the leadership it should, but then few people are ever altogether satisfied with their government and strict partisans are compelled to look for faults. Any impartial observer must admit, however, that President Eisenhower has satisfied the vast majority of the electorate and, in fact, opinion polls show that his popularity is greater than ever.

Renewed Confidence

One of the things people wanted last winter was renewed confidence in their government and President Eisenhower has given them that. By still supporting the President, the people demonstrate their continuing confidence that he will lead the nation in the direction which will bring peace and national security without wasteful and extravagant expenditures.

Confidence and faith in the leadership of the nation are indispensable if anyone is to conduct the affairs of state successfully. Any government which does not have the support of its people can be only ineffectual and impotent.

President Eisenhower has mapped out his approach to our program in broad general strokes and has presented a program to Congress which permits him to put his policy into effect and to get the Administration under way. His approach has been cautious and he will wait until the next session of Congress to fill in many of the details, but his first action has been positive and quick.

One of the first things he did was to relinquish government controls over national economy. This is part of his drive to end inflation and it must be admitted that the inflationary spiral has been ended —without adverse effect on our economy. To do this, the Administration made large cuts in Mr. Truman's budget requests and a sound money policy, based on keeping the dollar firm. Of equal importance was President Eisenhower's approach to the war in Korea and our affiliation with other nations. Perhaps the greatest difference between Mr. Eisenhower and his predecessor was probably our attitude toward the Soviet fluctuations between weakness and truculence. Mr. Eisenhower's approach has been firm and consistent.

In his April 16th address he told Russia that they could have peace if they sincerely desired and, if not, they would meet with steady opposition from United Allies.

Works For Peace

The truce negotiations in Korea have been conducted as successfully as possible.

The President has also named specific areas where Russia can show their peaceful intentions such as including an armistice with Austria. On the whole, the President's accomplishments when the Congress adjourns will be impressive and we may be assured that the records will be even more impressive as results of his Administration become evident.

Gaming Trial Set For Friday

The trial of three local men charged with bookmaking will be held Friday in Washington County Circuit Court at Hagerstown.

Edward Capel, Leonard Little and Thomas Neff were indicted by the October 1952 grand jury here on charges of bookmaking on successive days, August 29 and 30 of last year.

Both cases against the trio were ordered removed to the Hub City after Harold E. Naughton, defense attorney, filed a suggestion that the men might not be able to get a fair trial here. The trial has been postponed three times.

State Police Sgt. Thomas E. Smith, who came to Cumberland from the Pikesville barracks for special investigations, charges the bookmaking occurred at the Queen City Billiard Parlor, 19 North Liberty Street.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Now that the new Administration has been in office for six months and Congress adjournment only a few weeks away, it should be possible to do a little evaluating to determine just how well the Administration has done.

Admittedly, not every one will feel that all has been done that should have been done, knowing that the Administration has assumed the leadership it should, but then few people are ever altogether satisfied with their government and strict partisans are compelled to look for faults. Any impartial observer must admit, however, that President Eisenhower has satisfied the vast majority of the electorate and, in fact, opinion polls show that his popularity is greater than ever.

Renewed Confidence

One of the things people wanted last winter was renewed confidence in their government and President Eisenhower has given them that. By still supporting the President, the people demonstrate their continuing confidence that he will lead the nation in the direction which will bring peace and national security without wasteful and extravagant expenditures.

Confidence and faith in the leadership of the nation are indispensable if anyone is to conduct the affairs of state successfully. Any government which does not have the support of its people can be only ineffectual and impotent.

President Eisenhower has mapped out his approach to our program in broad general strokes and has presented a program to Congress which permits him to put his policy into effect and to get the Administration under way. His approach has been cautious and he will wait until the next session of Congress to fill in many of the details, but his first action has been positive and quick.

One of the first things he did was to relinquish government controls over national economy. This is part of his drive to end inflation and it must be admitted that the inflationary spiral has been ended —without adverse effect on our economy. To do this, the Administration made large cuts in Mr. Truman's budget requests and a sound money policy, based on keeping the dollar firm. Of equal importance was President Eisenhower's approach to the war in Korea and our affiliation with other nations. Perhaps the greatest difference between Mr. Eisenhower and his predecessor was probably our attitude toward the Soviet fluctuations between weakness and truculence. Mr. Eisenhower's approach has been firm and consistent.

In his April 16th address he told Russia that they could have peace if they sincerely desired and, if not, they would meet with steady opposition from United Allies.

Works For Peace

The truce negotiations in Korea have been conducted as successfully as possible.

The President has also named specific areas where Russia can show their peaceful intentions such as including an armistice with Austria. On the whole, the President's accomplishments when the Congress adjourns will be impressive and we may be assured that the records will be even more impressive as results of his Administration become evident.

Gaming Trial Set For Friday

The trial of three local men charged with bookmaking will be held Friday in Washington County Circuit Court at Hagerstown.

Edward Capel, Leonard Little and Thomas Neff were indicted by the October 1952 grand jury here on charges of bookmaking on successive days, August 29 and 30 of last year.

Both cases against the trio were ordered removed to the Hub City after Harold E. Naughton, defense attorney, filed a suggestion that the men might not be able to get a fair trial here. The trial has been postponed three times.

State Police Sgt. Thomas E. Smith, who came to Cumberland from the Pikesville barracks for special investigations, charges the bookmaking occurred at the Queen City Billiard Parlor, 19 North Liberty Street.

MUST TAKE IT TWICE

NOBODY likes to waste any of his good cards. Beginners in particular have difficulty recognizing those situations in which they should overtake their partner's honor on a trick. In simple language, they hate to "take a trick twice," if the card already on it is big enough to win it for their side. There are plenty of times, however, when exactly that must be done, in order to have the lead, either at that stage or some crucial later stage, placed where it is important.

	♠ A J ♥ 8 ♦ A 10 9 8 7 4 ♣ A 10 9 7
♠ 7 4 ♥ K Q J 7 6 5 4 ♦ J ♣ J 8 3	N W E S	♠ Q 10 9 3 ♥ A 10 ♦ K Q 6 ♣ 6 5 4 2

2 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 NT

South took liberties against his opposition in making those No Trump bids without any information about heart stoppage. He felt that, with North's rather strong bidding, there was a good chance the hearts would be stopped. Anyway, if they weren't, there was a chance that his not very experienced opponents might mess up the defense. His idea worked out, but he was plenty lucky it did.

The defenders could have taken the first seven tricks, setting that three, if East had overtaken West's heart K lead with the A. But, as it looked to poor young East at the moment, this would have constituted squandering of his assets. So he played the 10 on that first trick, then had to win the second when West led the heart J. Unable to lead another heart, East returned the spade 10, which the J won.

South went to his own hand with a club, led to the diamond A and gave the 10 to the Q. A second spade lead by East went to the A and the diamond 9 was given up to East. A third spade was won by the K, then the club Q overtaken by the A. Three established diamonds then completed the contract.

Chas. G. Smith Gets Freedom Foundation Civil Defense Medal

An Allegany County Civil Defense official yesterday received a citation from the Freedoms Foundation for his work in the Ground Observer Corps movement.

He is Charles G. Smith, 631 Hill Top Drive, county coordinator for the GOC.

Smith received the Freedoms Foundation citation in special ceremonies from Governor McKeldin at his office this morning in Annapolis. He is one of two honored in Maryland and among the 65 in the United States receiving recognition.

The Freedoms Foundation's awards are made for outstanding contributions annually to understanding of the American way of life.

The other Maryland recipient is Gorman L. Seders, communications officer of the Baltimore County Civil Defense organization, who established the communications and "ham" (amateur) radio setup for the state.

Tribute To Smith

The citation paid tribute to Smith's unselfish use of his own time to further the work of "Operation Skywatch", his leadership and organizational abilities.

Smith, the citation continued, is known as "Mr. GOC" and his efforts are responsible for its success. The citation was signed by Kenneth D. Wells, president of the Foundation.

Smith was nominated for the award by William G. Barger, county director of Civil Defense, with whom he has worked closely.

Leads State, District

Under Smith's direction the local GOC, including six posts, has grown to become the outstanding group in the state and leads the Pittsburgh Filter Center district which includes parts of Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio.

When Smith volunteered for service in April 1950 the Ground Observer Corps in Allegany County was principally a "paper" organization. Under his direction, it has grown to include more than 600 volunteers, six observer buildings located at Cumberland, Frostburg, Cresaptown, Pinto, Bedford Road and Oldtown.

When he first started as supervisor and after he took over as coordinator in 1951, Smith found the going tough. There was the problem of building up, in the minds of Allegany county citizens the need for a "Skywatch", and a decided lack of funds with which to work.

Hard Worker

During those early days, Smith "beat the bushes" for volunteers, surrounded himself with a group of key workers, and personally arranged for contributions amounting to $5,000 which eventually went to the six outposts. He also worked on these outposts, helping the Deremer brothers, Ray, John and William, to construct and furnish them with the help of civic and patriotic-minded merchants and firms who donated equipment.

At times, the coordinator was called out of bed at 2 and 4 a. m. to serve a "watch" himself when a complete shift was unable to report. The county outposts are on 24-hour duty.

And in his "spare" time, Smith and his workers have never turned down an invitation to speak before civic, church organizations and clubs about the GOC. He is ever seeking volunteers.

Employed At Kelly

All this is sandwiched around his 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. shift at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company where he is in the production planning or production control department.

Smith is a native of Seattle, Washington, and was born April 29, 1911.

He was educated locally, graduating from Allegany High School where he was an outstanding sports star. In basketball, he was a member of the Maryland All-Star team in 1929-30. He was graduated from Rider College, Trenton, N. J., with a Bachelor of Accountancy degree and is a member of Chi Delta Mu Fraternity.

He has been with the Kelly firm here about 12 years and is a member of First Presbyterian Church, South Cumberland Business Men's Association and East Gate Lodge of the Masonic Order. Smith is married to the former Angela Blough and they have three children.

Smith is a veteran of World War 2 when he served as a personnel consultant in the Adjutant General's Office. He was graduated from Adjutant General's School at San Antonio, Tex., Adjutant General's College at Fort Washington, Md., and the Quartermaster Separation and Classification School at Fort Dix, N. J.

Driver Draws Heavy Fine Here

A suspended 30-day jail sentence and fines totaling $187.25 were imposed yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court on a 28-year-old motorist who "had a time of it" Monday night in Cumberland.

The defendant, Robert J. Ravenscroft, was arrested about midnight after his car hit a trash can, bus stop sign and parking meter post in front of Coyle's Furniture Store at 45 Baltimore Street.

Police said the auto also "tore up the sidewalk" and failed to stop. Ravenscroft's episode began at 11:35 p. m.

Less than a half-hour later two officers spotted Ravenscroft on North Liberty Street and arrested him on three state motor charges. The prisoner went to jail in default of $229.35 bond.

Ravenscroft pleaded guilty to all three counts.

Last Burglary Suspect Captured In Ohio

The last suspect sought in the burglary of "Big Lou" Riley's tavern at Frostburg reportedly was picked up Monday in Cleveland, Ohio.

Sheriff's deputies last night said they were awaiting verification of the prisoner's identity and other information.

Three other suspects are being held in County Jail, and a 16-year-old boy is in dentention quarters at the County Infirmary.

Riley told police burglars locked him in a washroom at his tavern early Tuesday and got away with $158.

Three Oldtown Boys Attending 4-H Camp

Allegany County is being represented this week at the State 4-H Conservation Camp by three boys, all from Oldtown.

They are Waitman Shryock, Gerald Slider and Ronald Slider. Boys from throughout Maryland are attending the camp at Pleasant Valley, near Bittinger, in Garrett County. The State Conservation Committee is planning to come to the camp Wednesday evening and will go on a conservation tour with the campers Thursday morning.

For the beauty of her complexion, every teen queen must take extra precautions in summer.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

All teen queens who want to have lovely, radiant complexions to enhance their winning ways should be on guard right now. In summer, moist, warm conditions favor the spread of acne and formation of blackheads and postules.

Since only one out of every five teen-age boys and girls escapes acne, all should learn ways to minimize and keep the condition under control. Though most teenagers come through this annoying state with no permanent ill effect, carelessness can result in serious scars.

Diet is an important factor and it is well to know what foods are the offenders. Chocolate is one of the worst; other foods to avoid are nuts, sharp cheese, shellfish, salt water fish, excessive fats and sweets. All of these foods stimulate the action of the oil glands.

Soap and hot water are a girl's best friend in avoiding or minimizing acne. They reduce oil gland activity and dissolve and remove the offending matter that plugs the pores. Three times a day is the least that the face should be washed; when the skin is decidedly oily, six times a day is better. By allowing the soap to remain on the face for a minute or two before rinsing, more oil will be removed from the affected area. If the condition is noted on the back, chest or neck, these areas should be treated in the same manner.

The oil glands can further be controlled by the use of a sulfur or resorcinol lotion every night. Whenever acne is widespread, it is advisable to enlist the aid of your doctor to bring the condition under control.

Some girls take excellent care of the face, but do not obtain the desired results because they neglect to keep their hair as clean as it should be. Oily scalp conditions and dandruff tend to co-exist with acne. During the summer, it is an excellent plan to wash the hair every other day if oily-dandruff is noted.

No lass should ever neglect the care of her skin. Beauty is said to be only skin deep—but no girl has more than one skin!

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, July 21—(INS)—Like every other young fellow who gets a job doing a TV news-views-and-interviews program, John Foster Dulles was prey to routine mistakes the other night when he had Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson as his guest on his first program.

After a nice mention of his guest at the start, and later a fine formal introduction of Robertson and a complete summary of Robertson's recent trip to see Syngman Rhee, big John said: "Now, Mr. Robertson, tell us why you went to Korea."

Robertson looked around a bit wildly, as guests will do when the question is a high hard one instead of a slow curve, and he blurted:

"You sent me." For a moment it appeared that he would plaintively add, "don't you remember?"

Big John brushed aside Robertson's answer as purely circumstantial, and asked another question only mildly related to the first.

The latter attitude of a TV prosecutor is standard procedure, of course. In the dawn of the curious activity, some unsung commentator must have cast in iron the pattern of not listening to the answers to the questions he puts. The thing to do, apparently is ask the question, let the eye grow glassy during the responses, say "uh-huh" just before the poor soul gets to the point of his response, and then ask the question that you have been thinking of (or stealing a look at, on your notes) while the quest was answering the other one.

This could (and, in time, will) lead to such disarming TV interview dialogue as:

Prosecutor — Tell us why you were happy to be traded to the Yankees.

Witness—My ex-wife lived in the Bronx and I wanted to get there to kill her. Stabbed her just before coming to the studio.

Prosecutor—uh-huh. Now who would you say is toughest to bat against . . . Lemon? . . . Reynolds?

Big John scored one fine triumph in his debut as a commentator on the electric pictures. He rose above the tyranny of the clock. That's very tough. He plunged into his final statement about a minute early, and the little man (off-screen) pantomined him a message to "stretch" it—to ad lib another 30 seconds, or 50, or whatever. Big John set his jaw resolutely and called it a night, dumping on the announcer the chore of stretching out the rest of the time.

That was smart. A man can get in trouble stretching. I'm depressingly well acquainted with a bloke who was saying his good-night a minute and 55 seconds early when the man gave him a sharp look, and the stretch signal. So this poor slob began to babble about his next week's guest. The guest would be an atomic energy expert he said, wanly, hoping that would suffice.

But the stretch signal was still on. A real outstanding atomic energy expert, our man said. He peeked again. The stretch was still on. Not only a real outstanding atomic energy expert, our man said, on the point of tears, but one of the realest outstanding atomic energy experts in the entire U. S. of A. and so on. By the time the little man made that welcome sign of slitting his throat, the signal to get off, our slob had promised his clients a mythical genius who would make Einstein appear mentally retarded.

Big John cut his guest off in standard style at the end. Zip. And with a tone in his voice that said, "That'll be enough out of you bub, and thank you for the grandest show of my life." Big John is "home" and should improve through the next few administrations.

Major Ellifritz Dies In Korea

A 35-year-old teacher at Fort Ashby High School has been killed in Korea.

Major Vernon Ellifritz, an Air Force jet pilot and father of two small children, paid the supreme sacrifice July 15. In service since January, 1941, he had been fighting Communist forces about seven months.

Word of the airman's death was received Saturday in a telegram to his wife, Mrs. Marie Ellifritz, Hampton, Va., who notified relatives in the Keyser area.

Details of Major Ellifritz's death were not divulged by the Department of Defense. During World War II, he flew missions in China.

Before entering the Air Force, Major Ellifritz was graduated from Keyser High School and Potomac State School. He also attended other educational institutions in West Virginia and taught at Fort Ashby about six months.

Major Ellifritz was among the first group from Mineral county to join the armed forces before the outbreak of War II. He had been stationed in Texas, Georgia, New York and at other military installations.

A native of Mineral county, he was a son of the late Noah and Lucy (Bane) Ellifritz. Surviving, besides his widow, are a four-year-old son, Kipp, and a daughter, Gail, 18 months; two brothers, Leo Ellifritz, RD 1, and Brady Ellifritz, 89 Orchard Street, Keyser, and a sister, Mrs. Samuel S. Smith Sr., Reeses Mill, with whom he had resided.

MRS. ARTHUR CLARK

Mrs. Agnes Lucretia Clark, 68, wife of Arthur Clark, 208 Seymour Street, died yesterday evening while visiting in Prince Frederick, Md.

A native of Hutton, she was born September 8, 1880 a daughter of the late Michael and Mary (Faherty) Clark. A resident of Cumberland since 1910, she was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church and the Sodality.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. P. W. Burke, this city.

MRS. JOSEPHINE KEGG

B & O Appoints A. W. Conley As Head Of Cumberland Division

A. W. Conley, superintendent of the Toledo Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Dayton, Ohio, will be the new superintendent of the Cumberland Division, it was announced yesterday by B&O officials.

Conley is replacing Chester T. Williams, 217 Washington Street, who has been promoted to general superintendent of transportation for the B&O system, effective August 1.

The B&O also announced that F. G. Hoskins, Baltimore, will retire as general manager of the Eastern Region of the line on July 31 after 46 years of service.

Hoskins will be replaced by John Edwards Jr., general manager of the B&O Central Region at Pittsburgh.

Wilbur R. Galloway general superintendent of transportation in Baltimore goes to Pittsburgh to replace Edwards. Williams is in turn replacing Galloway.

Other changes by the railroad line include John F. Robbert, superintendent of the Ohio Division, Cincinnati, who replaces Conley at Dayton, and C. S. Darling, assistant superintendent of the Ohio Division at Cincinnati is being promoted to Robbert's post.

Council Ends

Paul M. Fletcher, who headed the Meister investigation as state's attorney for Allegany County, replied emphatically no one's civil rights had been abused in the years he has been connected with the office.

Editors, Lawmen Testify

"Our obligation is to the people of Allegany County and not to the newspapers," he snapped.

Inspector Julian Forrest of the Baltimore police department; William H. Maynard, a deputy state's attorney for Baltimore; Atty. Gen. Edward D. E. Rollins; States Attorney John S. Hollyday of Washington County — all joined with members of the committee in a rapid-fire exchange over various facets of the problem.

It came out there is no specific requirement an accused must be advised before he is questioned by police and prosecutors that any statements he makes may be used against him.

Delegate Amazed

Del. Jerome Robinson (D-Balto 4th) was amazed when he heard this, but Rollins confirmed it.

Yet, Robinson said, every time a confession comes into court it starts with the defendant making a legal-sounding statement he has been advised of his constitutional rights.

Robinson suggested the committee might consider writing into the law a specific requirement that a man under arrest must be advised before he is questioned that he does not have to answer and that he is entitled to have a lawyer.

His idea brought a buzz of comments from the law enforcement officers indicating it would be a serious handicap to them.

Col. Munshower said: "We've got too much law. What we need is to make better use of the law we have."

Better Use Of Law

Munshower said the man finally convicted of Glen Burnie's sensational Mahlan-Kline murder case in 1947 would have gone free if police had to operate under some of the restrictions discussed.

Fletcher said about 85 per cent of all criminal convictions come about only because of statements made by defendants.

Sen. D. Kenneth McLaughlin (R-Washington), chairman of the committee, asked if there should be some kind of a provision a man's family, attorney, or a close friend must be notified before he is questioned.

This was met with objections that as soon as a man got an attorney the attorney would advise him not to talk.

All of those who commented on this agreed the state's attorney is entitled, as one of them put it, "to have first crack at them." They mentioned 24 hours ought to be enough.

Want Family Notified

The newspapermen advocated an immediate notice to a man's relatives or his attorney when he is taken into custody. They said his name ought to be entered immediately on a docket, with a "held for investigation" label if there is nothing immediately available to support a formal charge. They said the committee should perhaps take a lead from a Court of Appeals decision that a man held 72 hours without charge had not been unreasonably detained.

Docketed In Baltimore

Inspector Forrest explained everyone who actually is detained by the Baltimore police is docketed immediately. This does not include all those brought to a police station to answer questions about a crime, he explained, even those who have to be "escorted in."

Although Whitworth suggested the committee ought to call in some people who had been held without charge and get their first-hand version, Chairman McLaughlin said the committee probably has completed its hearings.

Whitworth declared the man arrested in the Meister case probably could be called in and asked about his detention without improperly getting into the merits of a pending case. McLaughlin said the committee might talk to him privately.

TO PLAY HERE—Johnny Vass (above) and his orchestra, of Pittsburgh, will play a second engagement at Clary Club Saturday. The band, which has risen to prominence in the Pittsburgh area in recent months, plays arrangements done by Dick Reynolds, who works with the Ray Anthony orchestra.

Frostburg Man Refused Liquor Permit

The Allegany County Board of License Commissioners, with one dissenting vote, yesterday upheld the remonstrance filed against issuing a Class D beer and wine license to Victor Arnone for 2 Fairview Street, in Frostburg.

The dissenting vote, cast by James E. Kenny, Westernport, the Democrat member of the board, was the second in the history of the liquor board.

The other was made by former Judge Oliver H. Bruce Jr., during his term. Kenny succeeded Bruce as minority party member.

Rev. John Bayley Jones, pastor of First Methodist Church, Frostburg, and nine other Frostburg citizens, filed a remonstrance against the Arnone license on the grounds that it was in an area of Frostburg where there are four other licensed places within a 125-yard radius; the street would become more hazardous by patrons' parking, and the establishment was about 100 feet from the location of the new addition to Miners Hospital.

Chairman Walter C. Capper and Stanley Hamilton, who voted area in which intoxicating beverages were sold, and it would be against the peace and good order of the community to grant more licenses in this vicinity.

"We find no objection whatever against issuing the license, stated in their opinion there would be increased traffic problems.

The two members also stated there were ample places in the to the character and decency of the applicant. He is a man with a war record and is deserving of consideration. We regret that his application is not for some location where the aforesaid objections do not apply," the board wrote.

B & O Appoints A. W. Conley As Head Of Cumberland Division

A. W. Conley, superintendent of the Toledo Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Dayton, Ohio, will be the new superintendent of the Cumberland Division, it was announced yesterday by B&O officials.

Conley is replacing Chester T. Williams, 217 Washington Street, who has been promoted to general superintendent of transportation for the B&O system, effective August 1.

The B&O also announced that F. G. Hoskins, Baltimore, will retire as general manager of the Eastern Region of the line on July 31 after 46 years of service.

Hoskins will be replaced by John Edwards Jr., general manager of the B&O Central Region at Pittsburgh.

Wilbur R. Galloway general superintendent of transportation in Baltimore goes to Pittsburgh to replace Edwards. Williams is in turn replacing Galloway.

Other changes by the railroad line include John F. Robbert, superintendent of the Ohio Division, Cincinnati, who replaces Conley at Dayton, and C. S. Darling, assistant superintendent of the Ohio Division at Cincinnati is being promoted to Robbert's post.

Paul M. Fletcher, who headed the Meister investigation as state's attorney for Allegany County, replied emphatically no one's civil rights had been abused in the years he has been connected with the office.

Editors, Lawmen Testify

"Our obligation is to the people of Allegany County and not to the newspapers," he snapped.

Inspector Julian Forrest of the Baltimore police department; William H. Maynard, a deputy state's attorney for Baltimore; Atty. Gen. Edward D. E. Rollins; States Attorney John S. Hollyday of Washington County — all joined with members of the committee in a rapid-fire exchange over various facets of the problem.

It came out there is no specific requirement an accused must be advised before he is questioned by police and prosecutors that any statements he makes may be used against him.

Delegate Amazed

Del. Jerome Robinson (D-Balto 4th) was amazed when he heard this, but Rollins confirmed it.

Yet, Robinson said, every time a confession comes into court it starts with the defendant making a legal-sounding statement he has been advised of his constitutional rights.

Robinson suggested the committee might consider writing into the law a specific requirement that a man under arrest must be advised before he is questioned that he does not have to answer and that he is entitled to have a lawyer.

His idea brought a buzz of comments from the law enforcement officers indicating it would be a serious handicap to them.

Col. Munshower said: "We've got too much law. What we need is to make better use of the law we have."

Better Use Of Law

Munshower said the man finally convicted of Glen Burnie's sensational Mahlan-Kline murder case in 1947 would have gone free if police had to operate under some of the restrictions discussed.

Fletcher said about 85 per cent of all criminal convictions come about only because of statements made by defendants.

Sen. D. Kenneth McLaughlin (R-Washington), chairman of the committee, asked if there should be some kind of a provision a man's family, attorney, or a close friend must be notified before he is questioned.

This was met with objections that as soon as a man got an attorney the attorney would advise him not to talk.

All of those who commented on this agreed the state's attorney is entitled, as one of them put it, "to have first crack at them." They mentioned 24 hours ought to be enough.

Want Family Notified

The newspapermen advocated an immediate notice to a man's relatives or his attorney when he is taken into custody. They said his name ought to be entered immediately on a docket, with a "held for investigation" label if there is nothing immediately available to support a formal charge. They said the committee should perhaps take a lead from a Court of Appeals decision that a man held 72 hours without charge had not been unreasonably detained.

Docketed In Baltimore

Inspector Forrest explained everyone who actually is detained by the Baltimore police is docketed immediately. This does not include all those brought to a police station to answer questions about a crime, he explained, even those who have to be "escorted in."

Although Whitworth suggested the committee ought to call in some people who had been held without charge and get their first-hand version, Chairman McLaughlin said the committee probably has completed its hearings.

Whitworth declared the man arrested in the Meister case probably could be called in and asked about his detention without improperly getting into the merits of a pending case. McLaughlin said the committee might talk to him privately.

Frostburg Man Refused Liquor Permit

The Allegany County Board of License Commissioners, with one dissenting vote, yesterday upheld the remonstrance filed against issuing a Class D beer and wine license to Victor Arnone for 2 Fairview Street, in Frostburg.

The dissenting vote, cast by James E. Kenny, Westernport, the Democrat member of the board, was the second in the history of the liquor board.

The other was made by former Judge Oliver H. Bruce Jr., during his term. Kenny succeeded Bruce as minority party member.

Rev. John Bayley Jones, pastor of First Methodist Church, Frostburg, and nine other Frostburg citizens, filed a remonstrance against the Arnone license on the grounds that it was in an area of Frostburg where there are four other licensed places within a 125-yard radius; the street would become more hazardous by patrons' parking, and the establishment was about 100 feet from the location of the new addition to Miners Hospital.

Chairman Walter C. Capper and Stanley Hamilton, who voted area in which intoxicating beverages were sold, and it would be against the peace and good order of the community to grant more licenses in this vicinity.

"We find no objection whatever against issuing the license, stated in their opinion there would be increased traffic problems.

The two members also stated there were ample places in the to the character and decency of the applicant. He is a man with a war record and is deserving of consideration. We regret that his application is not for some location where the aforesaid objections do not apply," the board wrote.

Frostburg at Midland

Bobby Mundeno's triple following a base on balls to Mickey Davis in the 11th inning produced the tally that gave Midland Post a 7-6 victory over the tossers of Fort Cumberland Post yesterday at Midland and reduced the latter's lead to two games in the Mountain District, American Legion Junior Baseball League race.

Mundeno's wallop enabled Tod Cuthbertson to win a pitching duel over Bobby Dawson, who had won his three previous starts.

It was Cumberland's second straight defeat after the locals had won their first seven ball games.

Cuthbertson Ties Score

Midland sent the game into extra innings by knotting the score at 6-6 in the seventh inning. Kenny Johson singled, took third on Ray Morgan's base wallop and after Jimmy Yantz worked Dawson for a pass to load up the bases, Cuthbertson singled to send home the tying run.

Midland solved the offerings of Dawson for 13 safeties. Johnson paced the attack with four singles in five trips while Cuthbertson, the league's leading hitter, garnered three blows in five official at bats. Dawson fanned nine and walked three.

Six of Cumberland's nine hits were shared by Bruce Lynn, Bob Kirtley and Rod Breedlove. Cuthbertson fanned six and issued four bases on balls.

Harris Has Field Day

While Midland was knocking off the league leaders, Farrady Post of Frostburg, sparked by the clouting of Rickey Harris, who blasted two triples, two doubles and a single for a perfect day, stayed right in the thick of championship race by whipping Grantsville Post on the Garrett countians' field to the tune of 13-5.

The Mountain City aggregation blasted three Grantsville moundsmen for 16 hits, including seven extra base wallops, while Clark was limiting the home team to six safeties.

Robeson figured prominently in the fireworks with a double and two singles while Barney Spearman had two doubles and Arch Lennox and Clark garnered a pair of one base knocks each.

Toby Colaw was charged with the loss, yielding 10 of the 16 hits in four innings. Clark fanned five and walked six to post his second straight victory of the campaign. Box scores:

CLEVELAND, July 21 (AP) — The Cleveland Indians battered three New York Yankee pitchers for more hits and runs than they've got from the champions in any game this year to win 8-3 and give Bob Lemon his 13th victory. The Tribe's 13 hits included a homer by Al Rosen.

Lemon gave up seven hits in snapping the Yanks' winning string at five and ending a three-game Cleveland losing streak that included a string of 22 scoreless innings. The victory put the Tribe back in third place, 10 games behind the Yanks and two percentage points ahead of Boston.

A crowd of 30,684 watched the Yanks humbled for the first time this year in Municipal Stadium where they had won five games. They won two in New York before the Tribe swept a three-game series there last month in the last meeting of the two clubs.

Central Stops Hercules, 3-2

Jack Mayo's Hurling Snaps 11-Game String

Jack Mayo silenced the "big guns" of Hercules yesterday and Central Quick Lunch cracked the eleven-game winning streak of the Powder Kegs in a County Softball League game at Hercules Field by the score of 3-2.

The defeat failed to knock Hercules (19-5) out of first place but the victory put Central (18-7) in the runner-up spot 1½ games off the pace.

Mayo kept Hercules' six hits well spaced and issued only one walk in gaining the verdict over Jackson, who gave up four free tickets and yielded nine safeties.

The victory was Central's third in four games with the Kegs this season.

Basilio slammed a triple and Tucker smacked a two-bagger for Central while Middleton had a three-bagger and Cage and Lease had doubles for Hercules.

The Potomac Valley at Ellerslie and Stringtown at Sports Shoppe games were not reported. Score:

Gaydos Cops PGA Test • • • Negro Girl Hits .368

By C. V. BURNS

BILL CATHERMAN reports that in the recent P.G.A. tournament at Birmington, Mich., Steve Gaydos, Somerset (Pa.) Country Club professional who is well known here, won the driving contest in which the country's best golfers participated.

Gaydos won the contest with a drive of 285 yards and received a cash prize of $75 and a medal.

Steve failed to qualify for match play with his 73-79—152 when his putting went sour.

Although he is a little fellow and tips the beam around 140, Gaydos, who has participated in matches between Somerset and the Cumberland Country Club teams, is a terrific hitter, according to Catherman.

Steve is slated to come here in August when Somerset plays its "rubber" match with the CCC linksmen.

WHO SAID women can't play play baseball as well as men?

Toni Stone, 22-year-old product of the St. Paul (Minn.) sandlots who is putting in a rookie season with the Indianpolis Clowns as the first girl ever to sign a Negro National League contract, is the fourth best hitter in the circuit with an average of .368.

Miss Stone plays second base for the men's team.

The Kansas City Monarchs are leading the second half championship race in the negro league.

CARLYLE JOHNSON, director of publicity for the Waterford Park Race Track, which closed its 40-day meeting last week, announces that the mutuel handle totaled $9,743,657, an average of $243,590 per day, and attendance reached 188,474.

Bobby Mundeno's triple following a base on balls to Mickey Davis in the 11th inning produced the tally that gave Midland Post a 7-6 victory over the tossers of Fort Cumberland Post yesterday at Midland and reduced the latter's lead to two games in the Mountain District, American Legion Junior Baseball League race.

Mundeno's wallop enabled Tod Cuthbertson to win a pitching duel over Bobby Dawson, who had won his three previous starts.

It was Cumberland's second straight defeat after the locals had won their first seven ball games.

Cuthbertson Ties Score

Midland sent the game into extra innings by knotting the score at 6-6 in the seventh inning. Kenny Johson singled, took third on Ray Morgan's base wallop and after Jimmy Yantz worked Dawson for a pass to load up the bases, Cuthbertson singled to send home the tying run.

Midland solved the offerings of Dawson for 13 safeties. Johnson paced the attack with four singles in five trips while Cuthbertson, the league's leading hitter, garnered three blows in five official at bats. Dawson fanned nine and walked three.

Six of Cumberland's nine hits were shared by Bruce Lynn, Bob Kirtley and Rod Breedlove. Cuthbertson fanned six and issued four bases on balls.

Harris Has Field Day

While Midland was knocking off the league leaders, Farrady Post of Frostburg, sparked by the clouting of Rickey Harris, who blasted two triples, two doubles and a single for a perfect day, stayed right in the thick of championship race by whipping Grantsville Post on the Garrett countians' field to the tune of 13-5.

The Mountain City aggregation blasted three Grantsville moundsmen for 16 hits, including seven extra base wallops, while Clark was limiting the home team to six safeties.

Robeson figured prominently in the fireworks with a double and two singles while Barney Spearman had two doubles and Arch Lennox and Clark garnered a pair of one base knocks each.

Toby Colaw was charged with the loss, yielding 10 of the 16 hits in four innings. Clark fanned five and walked six to post his second straight victory of the campaign. Box scores:

Jack Mayo's Hurling Snaps 11-Game String

Jack Mayo silenced the "big guns" of Hercules yesterday and Central Quick Lunch cracked the eleven-game winning streak of the Powder Kegs in a County Softball League game at Hercules Field by the score of 3-2.

The defeat failed to knock Hercules (19-5) out of first place but the victory put Central (18-7) in the runner-up spot 1½ games off the pace.

Mayo kept Hercules' six hits well spaced and issued only one walk in gaining the verdict over Jackson, who gave up four free tickets and yielded nine safeties.

The victory was Central's third in four games with the Kegs this season.

Basilio slammed a triple and Tucker smacked a two-bagger for Central while Middleton had a three-bagger and Cage and Lease had doubles for Hercules.

BILL CATHERMAN reports that in the recent P.G.A. tournament at Birmington, Mich., Steve Gaydos, Somerset (Pa.) Country Club professional who is well known here, won the driving contest in which the country's best golfers participated.

Gaydos won the contest with a drive of 285 yards and received a cash prize of $75 and a medal.

Steve failed to qualify for match play with his 73-79—152 when his putting went sour.

Although he is a little fellow and tips the beam around 140, Gaydos, who has participated in matches between Somerset and the Cumberland Country Club teams, is a terrific hitter, according to Catherman.

Steve is slated to come here in August when Somerset plays its "rubber" match with the CCC linksmen.

Hogan Melts Under Warmth Of Reception In New York

Parade Marks Return, "Ike" Pays Tribute

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP) — The 'Wee Ice Mon"—as Ben Hogan became known to the adoring Scots of old Carnoustie—melted today under the warmth of a big city reception.

"You just want to cry," Hogan said at City Hall Plaza after receiving a siren-screaming ticker tape parade and a 64-word telegram of tribute from his links partner, President Eisenhower.

"I have a tough skin," he added, draping an arm around the shoulders of Valerie, his wife. "But I have a soft spot in my heart... and...and...this tops anything that ever happened to me."

Then Ben Hogan choked up. Nobody had ever seen Ben choke up before. But he did.

Things began happening for the Hogans shortly after they docked this morning from the liner United States, which had brought them from Britain where 11 days ago Ben completed a triple crown by winning the British Open title in his first try.

Previously Hogan—in a sweep compared by some to amateur Bobby Jones' grand slam of 1930—had won the Masters with a record score and his fourth U. S. Open championship.

At noon a mile-long parade—the first such celebration for a golfer since Jones' victorious return from Britain 23 years ago—led to the main welcoming ceremonies.

Mayor Vincent Impellitteri and American golf officials greeted the triple champion and the mayor read a telegram from President Eisenhower, which said:

"Millions of Americans would like to participate with the New Yorkers today who are extending their traditional welcome upon your return from your magnificent victory. We are proud of you not only as a great competitor and a master of your craft, but also as an envoy extraordinary in the business of building friendship for America."

Eyes Show Tears

When Hogan responded, his voice was shaky and his eyes showed tears.

"This is the hardest course I've ever played," he said. "These are traps and bunkers I've never explored, but they're happy ones. It would take forever to tell you what's in my heart."

Earlier, Mrs. Hogan said she hoped her husband would never again undertake the task of winning three major championships, as he did this year.

"Ben lost about 20 pounds," she said. "He is thoroughly exhausted."

Hogan, however, declined to hint at retirement from competitive play.

To Play Exhibitions

"I love golf and I love competition," he said. "I have been playing since I was 12 and I will continue playing much longer. Also I'm certain I'll play in other U. S. Opens."

There will be no more tournament tests this year, however. He will confine himself to exhibitions.

In six years of college football coaching, Art Lewis of West Virginia has never had a tie game. His best record was last year when the Mountaineers won seven and lost two.

Westvaco Hosts Frostburg Today At Westernport

Westvaco, trailing the first place Cumberland Old Germans by a full game in the Bi-State Baseball League race, will play host to the Frostburg Demons today at 5:30 at Memorial Park, Westernport.

The game was postponed from Sunday when Jupe Pluvius put in his appearance at the top of the fourth inning with Frostburg leading 1-0.

It will mark the fifth meeting of the teams this season. The Papermakers have won three games, 5-4, 9-7 and 2-0, while the Demons copped a 6-2 decision.

Petersburg May Get Roanoke Franchise

RICHMOND, Va., July 21 (AP) — The way was cleared today for Petersburg to enter the Piedmont League as the loop's directors voted unanimously to permit the city to replace Roanoke.

But the vote did not insure Petersburg a berth in the Class B circuit, which has been beset by attendance woes for two seasons.

Actual entry lay in the hands of the Boston Red Sox. If the Red Sox agree to transfer their farm system players at Roanoke, the switch will take place Saturday.

If Boston decides not to back the transfer, the Piedmont will finish out the remaining six weeks of the campaign with only seven teams.

Albert A. Shuger Named To State Race Commission

Rinehart Appointed To Six-Year Term

ANNAPOLIS, July 21 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin today filled out the State Racing Commission and simultaneously assured Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart of another six years in the agency.

The governor named Albert A. Shuger, Baltimore paint manufacturer, as a new member.

But he designated Shuger to serve out the remainder of Rinehart's term, expiring in 1957. Then he reappointed Rinehart, state Republican chairman, to a brand new six-year term.

The vacancy had existed since the first of this month, when H. Courtenay Jenifer's term ran out.

Shuger was among the latest to figure in conjecture over commission openings which began early this year when Frank Small Jr., former chairman, entered Congress.

Three weeks ago McKeldin named E. Taylor Chewning, Anne Arundel County farmer and businessman, to serve the remaining two years of Small's term.

Chewning is the only Democrat on the three-man commission, which requires two-party representation. Shuger is a former Democrat but now a registered Republican.

None of the three is a horseman. As chairman, Rinehart gets $4,000 a year. The other two members receive $3,000.

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP) — The latest thing in boxing rings, a $35,000 aluminium job which will be used for the first time in the Rocky Marciano-Roland La Starza heavyweight title bout Sept. 24, will be on display tomorrow at Madison Square Garden.

The ring is constructed of 7,500 pounds of aluminum, and will require 12 men eight hours to erect. The old ring, which cost $8,000, took 16 men 16 hours to put up. The championship bout will be at the Polo Grounds.

Hogan Melts Under Warmth Of Reception In New York

Parade Marks Return, "Ike" Pays Tribute

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP) — The 'Wee Ice Mon"—as Ben Hogan became known to the adoring Scots of old Carnoustie—melted today under the warmth of a big city reception.

"You just want to cry," Hogan said at City Hall Plaza after receiving a siren-screaming ticker tape parade and a 64-word telegram of tribute from his links partner, President Eisenhower.

"I have a tough skin," he added, draping an arm around the shoulders of Valerie, his wife. "But I have a soft spot in my heart... and...and...this tops anything that ever happened to me."

Then Ben Hogan choked up. Nobody had ever seen Ben choke up before. But he did.

Things began happening for the Hogans shortly after they docked this morning from the liner United States, which had brought them from Britain where 11 days ago Ben completed a triple crown by winning the British Open title in his first try.

Previously Hogan—in a sweep compared by some to amateur Bobby Jones' grand slam of 1930—had won the Masters with a record score and his fourth U. S. Open championship.

At noon a mile-long parade—the first such celebration for a golfer since Jones' victorious return from Britain 23 years ago—led to the main welcoming ceremonies.

Mayor Vincent Impellitteri and American golf officials greeted the triple champion and the mayor read a telegram from President Eisenhower, which said:

"Millions of Americans would like to participate with the New Yorkers today who are extending their traditional welcome upon your return from your magnificent victory. We are proud of you not only as a great competitor and a master of your craft, but also as an envoy extraordinary in the business of building friendship for America."

Eyes Show Tears

When Hogan responded, his voice was shaky and his eyes showed tears.

"This is the hardest course I've ever played," he said. "These are traps and bunkers I've never explored, but they're happy ones. It would take forever to tell you what's in my heart."

Earlier, Mrs. Hogan said she hoped her husband would never again undertake the task of winning three major championships, as he did this year.

"Ben lost about 20 pounds," she said. "He is thoroughly exhausted."

Hogan, however, declined to hint at retirement from competitive play.

"I love golf and I love competition," he said. "I have been playing since I was 12 and I will continue playing much longer. Also I'm certain I'll play in other U. S. Opens."

Dodgers Tee Off On Chicago Cubs For 15-4 Victory

Hodges Batting Star, Brooks Get 18 Hits

BROOKLYN, July 21 (AP)—Led by Gil Hodges, who drove in four runs with a home run, triple and two singles, the Brooklyn Dodgers today pounded five of six Chicago pitchers for 18 hits and a 15-4 triumph to strengthen their first place margin.

All but two of the 12 players used by Brooklyn hit safely and scored as the Dodgers walloped four homers, a triple and two doubles among their hit collection. They also stole four bases, three by Jackie Robinson.

Duke Snider opened the Dodger scoring in the first inning, slamming his 17th four-bagger off starter and loser Warren Hacker. Hodges led off the second with his 21st round tripper. Peewee Reese got his ninth in the seventh and Bobby Morgan slammed his second in the eighth.

Rookie Glen Mickens made his first big league start for Brooklyn and was replaced by Ben Wade after yielding all Chicago's runs and six of the Cubs' eight hits in four innings.

'GLASS-JAW' IN HAMBLETONIAN

ABBASONG, shown held by his driver, Raymond (Bud) Cotter, will compete in the $100,000 Hambletonian stake at Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 12, though his jaw has been broken twice. Despite his "glass jaw," Abbasong is given a good chance to win classic. (International)

The Outdoor Club and Amvets registered wins yesterday to remain a half-game apart in the Rocking Chair Softball League race.

Arch Corrigan hurled the first place Outdoor Club to an 8-1 decision over the Knights of Columbus while the Amvets nosed out the Elks, 10-9.

Ted Durbin slammed two homers and a double to account for three of the ODC tallies while Hixenbaugh pounded a triple, double and single and Grimes and Cook had two hits each. Corrigan limited the Knights to three hits, singles by Rowan, Mallow and Loibel. "Butch" Johnson's running catch of LaGratta's fly in left-center was the fielding highlight.

In the contest at East Side Field, Bill Underdonk, Elks' pitcher, was ejected in the first inning by Umpire Cecil Warnick for arguing over a play at third base, and the Amvets exploded for nine runs to whip the Elks. Bob Pence, who replaced Underdonk, was charged with the loss.

The win gave the Amvets second place while the Elks dropped into third.

Jim Gaffney and Harry Minnicks sparked the Amvets at the plate with two hits each. Jim Fahey was the Elks "big gun" with a homer, triple and single in four trips, Van Roby belted a double and two singles and "Pooch" Orndorff, Bruce Mackey and Pence garnered two blows each.

Al Sheetz turned in a two-hitter as the Eagles trimmed the Moose at Stitcher Field, 5-3. The Eagles' ace fanned seven and walked seven and gave up a two-bagger to Deremer and a single to Jim Angellatta.

Lou Riehl homered and Chet Collins smashed a double and single to pace the F. O. E. stickers.

"Jake" Fisher, Moose third sacker, turned in the fielding gem when he speared a line drive off Riehl's bat and converted it into a double play. Scores:

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 21 (INS)—We are not shilling for the old home town when we advise you that the weather usually is ideal in New York in October.

We are merely suggesting that if you plan to take in the World Series on your vacation now is a good time to make hotel reservations.

For, unless there should be a terrific upset in both major leagues, all the dope indicates that the Yanks will meet the Dodgers in the big series.

Unfortunate but true.

Let's take a look at the record.

If the Yanks maintain their current pace they will wind up the season with 107 victories and should the Dodgers continue at their speed to date they would finish with 97.

The Yanks won the pennant last year with 95 games and the Dodgers got theirs with 96.

We are well aware that a lead can be quickly lost. The Pirates, if we recall correctly, once came into New York near the end of a season leading by seven games. The Giants took five straight from them and the Dodgers finished them and good-bye pennant.

We won't bore you with a lot of statistics showing that if the Yanks won 107 the White Sox would have to win 51 of their remaining 64 to tie.

No, we'll let the mathematical wizards worry about the figures while we give an approving nod to Fresco Thompson, chief of the Dodger minor league chain, who sums up this way:

"The Yanks always manage to come up with the games they have to win. For a while it looked as if they were in a bad slump and they probably were, while the White Sox were creeping up on them.

"Then they go into Chicago for a big Sunday double-header with the White Sox. If the Yanks lose they will be only two games in front.

"So what happens? They knock off the Sox in both games and increase their lead to six games.

"The Sox don't seem to have enough pitching and they surely haven't the long ball hitters to match the Yanks.

"Dodger pitching may have more spots than a leopard but they also can hit top speed when the chips are down. Some people say Dodger pitching is weak. But those same Dodger pitchers stopped the Cardinals cold in four straight games. And you can't tell me that fellows like Musial, Slaughter, Hemus, Schoendienst and Jablonski are weak hitters.

"After all, Dodger pitching doesn't have to be as good as some others.

"Through Sunday the Dodgers had hit 115 home runs and five of the regulars — Cox, Furillo, Robinson, Snider and Campanella — are hitting from .307 to .333.

"Maybe the Dodgers and Yanks won't win but I'd hate to bet against them."

Hodges Batting Star, Brooks Get 18 Hits

BROOKLYN, July 21 (AP)—Led by Gil Hodges, who drove in four runs with a home run, triple and two singles, the Brooklyn Dodgers today pounded five of six Chicago pitchers for 18 hits and a 15-4 triumph to strengthen their first place margin.

All but two of the 12 players used by Brooklyn hit safely and scored as the Dodgers walloped four homers, a triple and two doubles among their hit collection. They also stole four bases, three by Jackie Robinson.

Duke Snider opened the Dodger scoring in the first inning, slamming his 17th four-bagger off starter and loser Warren Hacker. Hodges led off the second with his 21st round tripper. Peewee Reese got his ninth in the seventh and Bobby Morgan slammed his second in the eighth.

Rookie Glen Mickens made his first big league start for Brooklyn and was replaced by Ben Wade after yielding all Chicago's runs and six of the Cubs' eight hits in four innings.

The Outdoor Club and Amvets registered wins yesterday to remain a half-game apart in the Rocking Chair Softball League race.

Arch Corrigan hurled the first place Outdoor Club to an 8-1 decision over the Knights of Columbus while the Amvets nosed out the Elks, 10-9.

Ted Durbin slammed two homers and a double to account for three of the ODC tallies while Hixenbaugh pounded a triple, double and single and Grimes and Cook had two hits each. Corrigan limited the Knights to three hits, singles by Rowan, Mallow and Loibel. "Butch" Johnson's running catch of LaGratta's fly in left-center was the fielding highlight.

In the contest at East Side Field, Bill Underdonk, Elks' pitcher, was ejected in the first inning by Umpire Cecil Warnick for arguing over a play at third base, and the Amvets exploded for nine runs to whip the Elks. Bob Pence, who replaced Underdonk, was charged with the loss.

The win gave the Amvets second place while the Elks dropped into third.

Jim Gaffney and Harry Minnicks sparked the Amvets at the plate with two hits each. Jim Fahey was the Elks "big gun" with a homer, triple and single in four trips, Van Roby belted a double and two singles and "Pooch" Orndorff, Bruce Mackey and Pence garnered two blows each.

Al Sheetz turned in a two-hitter as the Eagles trimmed the Moose at Stitcher Field, 5-3. The Eagles' ace fanned seven and walked seven and gave up a two-bagger to Deremer and a single to Jim Angellatta.

Lou Riehl homered and Chet Collins smashed a double and single to pace the F. O. E. stickers.

"Jake" Fisher, Moose third sacker, turned in the fielding gem when he speared a line drive off Riehl's bat and converted it into a double play. Scores:

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 21 (INS)—We are not shilling for the old home town when we advise you that the weather usually is ideal in New York in October.

We are merely suggesting that if you plan to take in the World Series on your vacation now is a good time to make hotel reservations.

For, unless there should be a terrific upset in both major leagues, all the dope indicates that the Yanks will meet the Dodgers in the big series.

Unfortunate but true.

Let's take a look at the record.

If the Yanks maintain their current pace they will wind up the season with 107 victories and should the Dodgers continue at their speed to date they would finish with 97.

The Yanks won the pennant last year with 95 games and the Dodgers got theirs with 96.

We are well aware that a lead can be quickly lost. The Pirates, if we recall correctly, once came into New York near the end of a season leading by seven games. The Giants took five straight from them and the Dodgers finished them and good-bye pennant.

We won't bore you with a lot of statistics showing that if the Yanks won 107 the White Sox would have to win 51 of their remaining 64 to tie.

No, we'll let the mathematical wizards worry about the figures while we give an approving nod to Fresco Thompson, chief of the Dodger minor league chain, who sums up this way:

"The Yanks always manage to come up with the games they have to win. For a while it looked as if they were in a bad slump and they probably were, while the White Sox were creeping up on them.

"Then they go into Chicago for a big Sunday double-header with the White Sox. If the Yanks lose they will be only two games in front.

"So what happens? They knock off the Sox in both games and increase their lead to six games.

"The Sox don't seem to have enough pitching and they surely haven't the long ball hitters to match the Yanks.

"Dodger pitching may have more spots than a leopard but they also can hit top speed when the chips are down. Some people say Dodger pitching is weak. But those same Dodger pitchers stopped the Cardinals cold in four straight games. And you can't tell me that fellows like Musial, Slaughter, Hemus, Schoendienst and Jablonski are weak hitters.

"After all, Dodger pitching doesn't have to be as good as some others.

"Through Sunday the Dodgers had hit 115 home runs and five of the regulars — Cox, Furillo, Robinson, Snider and Campanella — are hitting from .307 to .333.

"Maybe the Dodgers and Yanks won't win but I'd hate to bet against them."

Monmouth Plans Richest Race

CAMDEN, N. J., July 21 (AP)—Officials of Garden State Park announced today the Garden State—a mile and a sixteenth run for two year olds scheduled Oct. 31—will be the world's richest horse race with a gross value of $239,395. General Manager Walter H. Donovan said the figure may top the $250,000 mark by the time the race is run.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 21—(INS)—In all ancient history there is no story more fascinating than that of Empress Theodora, wife of Emperor Justinian, who jointly ruled the Eastern Roman world in the fifth century. That was the start of Byzantine art, and the reforms.

Theodora was born in Constantinople, and before she married Justinian, had been a courtesan.

This brief word of mine is occasioned by Dore Schary's purchase of "Empress Of The Dusk," the recent novel by John Vandercook, with Theodora as the heroine.

Ava Gardner gets to play Theodora. What a really good actress she is in "Mogambo." Sam Zimbalist, who has so many top films to his credit, including "Mogambo," sees only Ava as Empress Theodora.

The five meetings that Dolores Gray had with Arthur Freed and Vincente Minelli weren't just to talk about the price of coffee in Brazil. Dolores, who is so great in "Carnival In Flanders," is discussing a deal at MGM.

Arthur Freed says, "Dolores is the greatest musical star to come out of Broadway in ten years." I agree.

Everyone is hoping that "Carnival In Flanders" gets a rewrite job on the story so that it will open in New York. As it is, it's playing to capacity business in Los Angeles.

The tall, dark, and handsome Edmund Purdum is being tested for the Mario Lanza role in "The Student Prince."

Although Purdum, an English actor, sings himself, the Lanza score of "Student Prince" will be used and Mario's beautiful singing voice will be featured, even though he will not be seen on the screen.

Purdum made his debut playing a lieutenant to James Mason in "Julius Caesar."

I love that Ethel Merman! She gives me a lift just by talking to her. Although she was only in town a few hours, she telephoned to tell me she's singing with the Denver symphony orchestra on August 14.

"First time a short hair like me ever sang with these real musicians," said Ethel, "but I am going to work hard so Bob won't be ashamed of me." She's giving the proceeds to the Denver symphony.

She said that her bridegroom, Robert Six, had built a new home for her and her children are already there.

She stopped in Los Angeles to see Walter Lang, her director on "Call Me Madam," who has been seriously ill.

In October, Ethel told me, she headlines the Dalas Fair which will do big business with Ethel on the program.

Chaperoned by her brother, Pete, Sharman Douglas had dinner with Johnny (Pick Up The Check) Meyer at the Tail O' The Cook.

The Danes, who were so upset before they had a look at "Hans Christian Andersen," have had a change of heart and the King of Denmark will decorate Sam Goldwyn for the story based on their beloved hero.

Probably just so their house won't look too shabby, seeing as how they live next to Doris Duke, Betsy Drake and Cary Grant are having their hilltop home redecorated.

Here's a twosome to stop the presses—Kay Spreckels and Joe E. Lewis—so help me! They were at Sportsman's Lodge in the valley for dinner, and then at Charley's Foy's for the show.

One man who has faith in our motion picture business is John Wolfberg, Denver exhibitor of a chain of film houses. He has bought the Imperial Theatre in Inglewood and has remodeled it with wide screen and three-D equipment.

These summer nights are bringing out more and more people to the Hollywood Bowl. What could be nicer than sitting outdoors listening to good music. Saturday has been named Hollywood night, and many of the stars are planning to be there.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

CIRCUS WIRE WALKER—"Tanya," a wire-walking leopard will be a feature attraction at the Tom Packs Circus slated at Fort Hill stadium on Saturday for two performances. The shows will be at 2:30 p. m. and 8 p. m. under the auspices of Ali Ghan Shrine Temple. The animal's trainer is Professor George J. Keller, who until recently was Dean of the Fine Arts Department of the Pennsylvania State Teachers College.

Baering Down On The News

What's The Odds?

Another New York reform wave traded the flotsam for the jetsam.

It rose and fell with the irresistible beat of bubbles in boiling glue. We must be getting better. Our reform waves are much closer.

The coppers deployed in righteous echelon. An aria of clarion bird-calls echoed to the tempo of night-sticks beating on macadam sidewalks. This one could have been staged in Carnegie Hall.

The coppers gathered in a harvest of summer gamblers. Two hundred bookies went to pokey. The city is practically defenseless.

They dimmed the glare of tilted pin-ball machines lighting up the sky. No longer do the little claw-and-derrick gimmicks erupt a barrage of colored candy marbles. And the fruit salad in one-armed bandits has ceased mixing itself into unprofitable garbage.

New York has cleaned up the waste paper problem too. Five thousand chromium baskets bear the legend, "throw your policy slips here."

The five - borough metropolis cleans house by exchanging prisoners. Manhattan chases its gamboleers into the Bronx. The Bronx exiles its slickers to Staten Island. Queens exports its we-boys to Kings and Kings chases 'em back across the bridge.

The elimination of two hundred bookies from the tournament is just a ripple on the scratch sheet. You can always get a bet down in Manhattan. But try and pick it up again.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 21—(INS)—In all ancient history there is no story more fascinating than that of Empress Theodora, wife of Emperor Justinian, who jointly ruled the Eastern Roman world in the fifth century. That was the start of Byzantine art, and the reforms.

Theodora was born in Constantinople, and before she married Justinian, had been a courtesan.

This brief word of mine is occasioned by Dore Schary's purchase of "Empress Of The Dusk," the recent novel by John Vandercook, with Theodora as the heroine.

Ava Gardner gets to play Theodora. What a really good actress she is in "Mogambo." Sam Zimbalist, who has so many top films to his credit, including "Mogambo," sees only Ava as Empress Theodora.

The five meetings that Dolores Gray had with Arthur Freed and Vincente Minelli weren't just to talk about the price of coffee in Brazil. Dolores, who is so great in "Carnival In Flanders," is discussing a deal at MGM.

Arthur Freed says, "Dolores is the greatest musical star to come out of Broadway in ten years." I agree.

Everyone is hoping that "Carnival In Flanders" gets a rewrite job on the story so that it will open in New York. As it is, it's playing to capacity business in Los Angeles.

The tall, dark, and handsome Edmund Purdum is being tested for the Mario Lanza role in "The Student Prince."

Although Purdum, an English actor, sings himself, the Lanza score of "Student Prince" will be used and Mario's beautiful singing voice will be featured, even though he will not be seen on the screen.

Purdum made his debut playing a lieutenant to James Mason in "Julius Caesar."

I love that Ethel Merman! She gives me a lift just by talking to her. Although she was only in town a few hours, she telephoned to tell me she's singing with the Denver symphony orchestra on August 14.

"First time a short hair like me ever sang with these real musicians," said Ethel, "but I am going to work hard so Bob won't be ashamed of me." She's giving the proceeds to the Denver symphony.

She said that her bridegroom, Robert Six, had built a new home for her and her children are already there.

She stopped in Los Angeles to see Walter Lang, her director on "Call Me Madam," who has been seriously ill.

In October, Ethel told me, she headlines the Dalas Fair which will do big business with Ethel on the program.

Chaperoned by her brother, Pete, Sharman Douglas had dinner with Johnny (Pick Up The Check) Meyer at the Tail O' The Cook.

The Danes, who were so upset before they had a look at "Hans Christian Andersen," have had a change of heart and the King of Denmark will decorate Sam Goldwyn for the story based on their beloved hero.

Probably just so their house won't look too shabby, seeing as how they live next to Doris Duke, Betsy Drake and Cary Grant are having their hilltop home redecorated.

Here's a twosome to stop the presses—Kay Spreckels and Joe E. Lewis—so help me! They were at Sportsman's Lodge in the valley for dinner, and then at Charley's Foy's for the show.

One man who has faith in our motion picture business is John Wolfberg, Denver exhibitor of a chain of film houses. He has bought the Imperial Theatre in Inglewood and has remodeled it with wide screen and three-D equipment.

These summer nights are bringing out more and more people to the Hollywood Bowl. What could be nicer than sitting outdoors listening to good music. Saturday has been named Hollywood night, and many of the stars are planning to be there.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

CIRCUS WIRE WALKER—"Tanya," a wire-walking leopard will be a feature attraction at the Tom Packs Circus slated at Fort Hill stadium on Saturday for two performances. The shows will be at 2:30 p. m. and 8 p. m. under the auspices of Ali Ghan Shrine Temple. The animal's trainer is Professor George J. Keller, who until recently was Dean of the Fine Arts Department of the Pennsylvania State Teachers College.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(Distributed By INS)

What's The Odds?

Another New York reform wave traded the flotsam for the jetsam.

It rose and fell with the irresistible beat of bubbles in boiling glue. We must be getting better. Our reform waves are much closer.

The coppers deployed in righteous echelon. An aria of clarion bird-calls echoed to the tempo of night-sticks beating on macadam sidewalks. This one could have been staged in Carnegie Hall.

The coppers gathered in a harvest of summer gamblers. Two hundred bookies went to pokey. The city is practically defenseless.

They dimmed the glare of tilted pin-ball machines lighting up the sky. No longer do the little claw-and-derrick gimmicks erupt a barrage of colored candy marbles. And the fruit salad in one-armed bandits has ceased mixing itself into unprofitable garbage.

New York has cleaned up the waste paper problem too. Five thousand chromium baskets bear the legend, "throw your policy slips here."

The five - borough metropolis cleans house by exchanging prisoners. Manhattan chases its gamboleers into the Bronx. The Bronx exiles its slickers to Staten Island. Queens exports its we-boys to Kings and Kings chases 'em back across the bridge.

The elimination of two hundred bookies from the tournament is just a ripple on the scratch sheet. You can always get a bet down in Manhattan. But try and pick it up again.

Parking Meter Firms To Confer In Piedmont

Want To Supply Needs For Lot

PIEDMONT—Representatives of three parking meter firms which want to supply meters for the city's parking lot will confer with Mayor Allan L. Hill and City Council within the next week or 10 days.

The interested firms are Dual Parking Meter Company, Canton, Ohio; Mi-co Meter Company, Covington, Ky., and Karpark Corporation, Cincinnati, Ohio. The city plans to use the vacant lot of the G. C. Murphy Company at the corner of Ashfield and Third Streets for the parking facilities.

A communication from Johnson-Williams, engineers, Washington, D. C., informed city officials that a representative will confer with the council Monday, August 3, regarding a sewage disposal.

A letter also was read from the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, concerning an outstanding account of the City of Piedmont.

Relative to complaints received as to a bad odor from out houses in part of the city known as "Cat Alley," in the Orchard, Ormond Ledlow, city clerk, was instructed to write the property owners requesting them to do something to overcome this unsanitary condition.

Rev. Clyde W. Ash, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, asked permission to use the vacant lot at Ashfield and Third Streets Saturday for a bake sale. Mayor Hill informed him if work had not started in grading it for a parking lot before that time the bake sale could be held that day.

Mayor Hill stated that Glenn Boyd would have the transmission of the fire truck of Tri-Towns Fire Company I, boxed and ready for shipment to the American LaFrance Foamite Company, Elmira, N. Y., if it were brought to the box shop of the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

He also stated that the transmission and the gears of the truck were worn out and thought the best and cheapest thing was to send the parts back to the company. Don Racco of the fire company has all the parts to be repaired out of the truck and ready to be boxed.

Potomac Fire Company 2 of Westernport will provide protection with its trucks while repairs to the Tri-Towns Fire Company I truck are being made. The parts have been sent to the factory.

Two Held For Rape Of Romney Girl

WINCHESTER, Va., July 20 (AP)—The Frederick County Circuit Court Grand Jury returned indictments Monday against two men charged with raping a 16-year-old Romney, W. Va., girl shortly after midnight June 7.

Both Robert Campbell, 24-year-old auto salesman and father of two children, and Kenneth Pugh, a sheetmetal worker, pleaded innocent to the charges when they appeared for preliminary hearing before Judge Elliott D. Marshall. Both live in the Waynesboro area.

Parking Meter Firms To Confer In Piedmont

Want To Supply Needs For Lot

PIEDMONT—Representatives of three parking meter firms which want to supply meters for the city's parking lot will confer with Mayor Allan L. Hill and City Council within the next week or 10 days.

The interested firms are Dual Parking Meter Company, Canton, Ohio; Mi-co Meter Company, Covington, Ky., and Karpark Corporation, Cincinnati, Ohio. The city plans to use the vacant lot of the G. C. Murphy Company at the corner of Ashfield and Third Streets for the parking facilities.

A communication from Johnson-Williams, engineers, Washington, D. C., informed city officials that a representative will confer with the council Monday, August 3, regarding a sewage disposal.

A letter also was read from the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, concerning an outstanding account of the City of Piedmont.

Relative to complaints received as to a bad odor from out houses in part of the city known as "Cat Alley," in the Orchard, Ormond Ledlow, city clerk, was instructed to write the property owners requesting them to do something to overcome this unsanitary condition.

Rev. Clyde W. Ash, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, asked permission to use the vacant lot at Ashfield and Third Streets Saturday for a bake sale. Mayor Hill informed him if work had not started in grading it for a parking lot before that time the bake sale could be held that day.

Mayor Hill stated that Glenn Boyd would have the transmission of the fire truck of Tri-Towns Fire Company I, boxed and ready for shipment to the American La-France Foamite Company, Elmira, N. Y., if it were brought to the box shop of the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

He also stated that the transmission and the gears of the truck were worn out and thought the best and cheapest thing was to send the parts back to the company. Don Racco of the fire company has all the parts to be repaired out of the truck and ready to be boxed.

Potomac Fire Company 2 of Westernport will provide protection with its trucks while repairs to the Tri-Towns Fire Company I truck are being made. The parts have been sent to the factory.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Fear And The Flutist

One of the things our generation is going to have to answer for to succeeding generations is what Paul W. White, a distinguished radio newsman, calls very aptly "the faceless, nameless accusation." While most of the talk about the thoroughly discredited "Red Channels" has died, the viciously un-American habit of barring actors (and writers) from work for faceless, nameless accusations is still very much alive.

John Crosby

Everyone — ad agencies and networks—seems to have a little list. Heaven knows how anyone's name gets on these little lists. The most irresponsible charges are enough apparently to get an actor proscribed. One actress, jealous of another's success, can drop a few whispers and pretty soon the other girl is having trouble getting work.

At one of the major networks, each director must submit his proposed cast to the casting department which then returns the list with the actors listed either as "available" or "not available." In many cases, this is stretching the use of the word "available" to the breaking point. Some actors are genuinely unavailable, being on the West Coast or in plays or some place else where they can't be touched. Others, though, are on the street, terribly terribly available if they could get off the list. But the name comes back marked "not available" even though—this has actually happened—the producer who submitted the name ran into the actor the day before and knew very well he was out of work. There is no arguing against the list.

And it could happen to anyone. There is a little story—not an important one but a very frightening one—that came to light on the West Coast largely through the efforts of Paul White. White is the man who set up the CBS news department, established the high standards which it still maintains and blazed a new trail in radio news reporting which is still being followed not only by CBS but by other networks.

He is now executive editor of KFMB, the CBS affiliate at San Diego, which is one of the few stations to exercise the F. C. C.-granted right to express an opinion. Last year, when a landlord tried to evict a Chinese-American war hero and his family on a flimsy pretext, White got the facts and pounded away on the air until the eviction was withdrawn.

More recently, White got interested in the case of Harrison J. Melhorn. Melhorn is a sixty-two-year-old flutist who has worked in orchestras all over the country. He was forced to pad out his slender earnings repairing musical instruments. When a $3,500 a year job fell open at the San Diego Naval Supply Depot, he applied for it.

After his application was processed, he was bluntly told he couldn't be hired because he had perjured himself in denying that he had ever belonged to an organization which advocated over-throwing the government. The bewildered Melhorn, who belonged to such subversive organizations as the Municipal Band of Long Beach, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the Long Beach Auxiliary Police and the Musicians Union, couldn't find out what organization he was supposed to have belonged to or who had made the charge against him.

White and Chet Huntley, an ABC commentator on the West Coast, both got interested in the case and made broadcasts concerning it. Melhorn, who has a phenomenal memory, gave the names of fifty-eight orchestras he had worked with, dating clear back to 1913, but could recall no organization that could be conceivably considered subversive.

The uproar created by Huntley and White brought the Melhorn case to the attention of Rear Admiral G. R. Henderson, commandant of the Eleventh Naval District, who took a personal hand in the matter. After a check by Naval Intelligence, the Admiral wrote White that Melhorn had been completely cleared but unfortunately the job for which he had applied had been transferred to Norfolk, Va. Melhorn still has no idea what the fuss was about or who brought the charges.

But it was a fine job of crusading reportage on the part of White. Unfortunately, he can't go to bat for everyone who has been unfairly accused. A lot of innocents are still victims of faceless, nameless accusations.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

X SYIK SYO FEYMGYDKN, X SYIK SYO TJGFYHXJHN, XH GM OYMN JQ TSXEOSJJO—EYGU.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: BRIEF LIFE IS HERE OUR PORTION, BRIEF SORROW, SHORT-LIVED CARE—NEALE.

Radio And Television

Fear And The Flutist

One of the things our generation is going to have to answer for to succeeding generations is what Paul W. White, a distinguished radio newsman, calls very aptly "the faceless, nameless accusation." While most of the talk about the thoroughly discredited "Red Channels" has died, the viciously un-American habit of barring actors (and writers) from work for faceless, nameless accusations is still very much alive.

John Crosby

Everyone — ad agencies and networks—seems to have a little list. Heaven knows how anyone's name gets on these little lists. The most irresponsible charges are enough apparently to get an actor proscribed. One actress, jealous of another's success, can drop a few whispers and pretty soon the other girl is having trouble getting work.

At one of the major networks, each director must submit his proposed cast to the casting department which then returns the list with the actors listed either as "available" or "not available." In many cases, this is stretching the use of the word "available" to the breaking point. Some actors are genuinely unavailable, being on the West Coast or in plays or some place else where they can't be touched. Others, though, are on the street, terribly terribly available if they could get off the list. But the name comes back marked "not available" even though—this has actually happened—the producer who submitted the name ran into the actor the day before and knew very well he was out of work. There is no arguing against the list.

And it could happen to anyone. There is a little story—not an important one but a very frightening one—that came to light on the West Coast largely through the efforts of Paul White. White is the man who set up the CBS news department, established the high standards which it still maintains and blazed a new trail in radio news reporting which is still being followed not only by CBS but by other networks.

He is now executive editor of KFMB, the CBS affiliate at San Diego, which is one of the few stations to exercise the F. C. C.-granted right to express an opinion. Last year, when a landlord tried to evict a Chinese-American war hero and his family on a flimsy pretext, White got the facts and pounded away on the air until the eviction was withdrawn.

More recently, White got interested in the case of Harrison J. Melhorn. Melhorn is a sixty-two-year-old flutist who has worked in orchestras all over the country. He was forced to pad out his slender earnings repairing musical instruments. When a $3,500 a year job fell open at the San Diego Naval Supply Depot, he applied for it.

After his application was processed, he was bluntly told he couldn't be hired because he had perjured himself in denying that he had ever belonged to an organization which advocated over-throwing the government. The bewildered Melhorn, who belonged to such subversive organizations as the Municipal Band of Long Beach, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the Long Beach Auxiliary Police and the Musicians Union, couldn't find out what organization he was supposed to have belonged to or who had made the charge against him.

White and Chet Huntley, an ABC commentator on the West Coast, both got interested in the case and made broadcasts concerning it. Melhorn, who has a phenomenal memory, gave the names of fifty-eight orchestras he had worked with, dating clear back to 1913, but could recall no organization that could be conceivably considered subversive.

The uproar created by Huntley and White brought the Melhorn case to the attention of Rear Admiral G. R. Henderson, commandant of the Eleventh Naval District, who took a personal hand in the matter. After a check by Naval Intelligence, the Admiral wrote White that Melhorn had been completely cleared but unfortunately the job for which he had applied had been transferred to Norfolk, Va. Melhorn still has no idea what the fuss was about or who brought the charges.

But it was a fine job of crusading reportage on the part of White. Unfortunately, he can't go to bat for everyone who has been unfairly accused. A lot of innocents are still victims of faceless, nameless accusations.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

X SYIK SYO FEYMGYDKN, X SYIK SYO TJGFYHXJHN, XH GM OYMN JQ TSXEOSJJO—EYGU.

Quiet And Cautious Decline Hits Today's Stock Market

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—Another quiet and cautious decline took place today in the Stock Market.

Traders occupied themselves with specific situations on the buying or selling side as the main part of the market drifted a little lower.

The decline in the market today as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was 40 cents, as compared with a fall of 50 cents yesterday. The average now stands at $107.10. The industrial and railroads components of the average each declined 50 cents while the utilities were down 10 cents.

Only 1,011 individual issues were on the tape as compared with 1,044 issues yesterday. Out of today's total there were 274 gainers and 454 losers with 7 new highs and 44 new lows for the year registered.

Volume was held down to 850,000 shares as against 830,000 shares traded yesterday. That is quite low when compared with the daily average of 1,480,000 shares so far this year.

New York Central Railroad, which has been either first or second most active stock in the past 11 sessions, was at the top of the list today unchanged at 25 with 18,500 shares traded. United Gas, with some 5,000-share blocks traded, was in second spot up ⅛ at 24⅛. Columbia Gas with one 5,000-share block, was third off ⅛ at 12⅞.

Reynolds Tobacco "B" traded a block of 10,000 shares and closed as fourth most active off ⅜ at 47½. In fifth place was Marine Midland Corp. off ⅛ at 12.

Liggett & Myers was a shade higher on a good earnings report, and two other tobaccos also gained —Lorillard and American Tobacco. Other stocks advancing included New Haven Railroad, Packard, Filtrol, Pacific Western Oil, Commonwealth Edison, and American Telephone.

Lower were Western Union, Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island, Standard Oil (NJ), Johns-Manville, Anaconda Copper, Dow Chemical, General Electric, Chrysler, and Boeing.

talking of Soviet atomic bombs of the power of the bombs that fell on Hiroshima, while American estimates were given in bombs of 50 kilotons.

It is now forecast, however, that the Kremlin will stockpile its one hundredth atomic bomb of 80 kiloton power during the current year. An 80 kiloton bomb has the explosive force of 80,000 tons of TNT, or four times the force of the Hiroshima bomb. One hundred such bombs is an impressive stockpile.

In the second place, the Kremlin's ability to deliver these bombs to American targets is not seriously questioned in any official quarter. All American targets can be reached by the thousand or more TU-4 bombers of the Soviet Strategic Air Army. It is considered that 500 of these planes can be sent against the United States in a single saturation attack. It is further known that the Soviet TU-4 squadrons have been equipped and trained for night flying and night bombing during the past two years.

Meanwhile, the strength of the American Air Defense Command has not kept pace with the growing threat. If an attack were delivered in broad daylight and good weather, it is thought that our defenders might knock down a maximum of 15 per cent of the attackers. But if an attack should be delivered by night, it is thought that the maximum rate of kill would be only one tenth of one per cent.

With what amounts to a zero kill rate, an air-atomic saturation attack delivered by night should in theory unload the whole Soviet atomic stock on the chosen American targets. Such are the calculations behind the estimate that the Kremlin can now destroy nearly 40 per cent of our industry and take a toll of thirteen megadeaths (which is top secret jargon for the death of 13,000,000 people).

An estimate close to this has already been made public by Sen. Stewart Symington, in his rather lonely fight for American preparedness. It can now be disclosed that the estimate comes from the authoritative report of the Kelly Committee.

Such an estimate cannot be lightly disregarded, when it comes from a group led by Dr. Kelly and including such scientists as Prof. Charles Lauritsen, and such industrialists as R. E. Wilson, of Standard Oil of Indiana. At the same time, it should not give rise to hysteria, either.

For one thing, the Kelly Committee was not equipped to "wargame" the problem, and careful war-gaming is essential if the results of complex air operations are to be accurately judged.

The British Cabinet recently directed a parallel study of the air-atomic threat to Britain. For this study, the damage estimates were carefully wargamed. The result was a forecast that an all-out air-atomic attack on the British Isles would take a toll of 2,000,000 deaths. The figures are still fearful, but two megadeaths are much less than thirteen megadeaths. And the British Isles are far more exposed than the United States.

Under realistic operating conditions, therefore, it seems likely that the Kremlin now has the power to hurt this country very badly, but not to cripple it. Unfortunately, however, the Kremlin's atomic stockpile and the strength of the Kremlin's Strategic Air Army are both still growing. The power to hurt this year can become the power to cripple next year and the power to destroy the year after. That is the real problem that the National Security Council has got to solve.

Ticket Errors Peeves Woman

DETROIT, July 21 (AP) — Cab driver Mabel Smith didn't mind getting a traffic violation ticket this week but she is more than a bit peeved at a couple of errors the cop made in writing it out.

The 39-year-old Mrs. Smith said she would ask traffic court to soothe her wounded feelings. "The ticket gives my age as 14 months and my weight as 750 pounds and I want everyone to know I am no circus freak," she said.

Talks To Resume

Quiet And Cautious Decline Hits Today's Stock Market

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—Another quiet and cautious decline took place today in the Stock Market.

Traders occupied themselves with specific situations on the buying or selling side as the main part of the market drifted a little lower.

The decline in the market today as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was 40 cents, as compared with a fall of 50 cents yesterday. The average now stands at $107.10. The industrial and railroads components of the average each declined 50 cents while the utilities were down 10 cents.

Only 1,011 individual issues were on the tape as compared with 1,044 issues yesterday. Out of today's total there were 274 gainers and 454 losers with 7 new highs and 44 new lows for the year registered.

Volume was held down to 850,000 shares as against 830,000 shares traded yesterday. That is quite low when compared with the daily average of 1,480,000 shares so far this year.

New York Central Railroad, which has been either first or second most active stock in the past 11 sessions, was at the top of the list today unchanged at 25 with 18,500 shares traded. United Gas, with some 5,000-share blocks traded, was in second spot up ⅛ at 24⅛. Columbia Gas with one 5,000-share block, was third off ⅛ at 12⅞.

Reynolds Tobacco "B" traded a block of 10,000 shares and closed as fourth most active off ⅜ at 47½. In fifth place was Marine Midland Corp. off ⅛ at 12.

Liggett & Myers was a shade higher on a good earnings report, and two other tobaccos also gained —Lorillard and American Tobacco. Other stocks advancing included New Haven Railroad, Packard, Filtrol, Pacific Western Oil, Commonwealth Edison, and American Telephone.

Lower were Western Union, Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island, Standard Oil (NJ), Johns-Manville, Anaconda Copper, Dow Chemical, General Electric, Chrysler, and Boeing.

Matter Of Fact

talking of Soviet atomic bombs of the power of the bombs that fell on Hiroshima, while American estimates were given in bombs of 50 kilotons.

It is now forecast, however, that the Kremlin will stockpile its one hundredth atomic bomb of 80 kiloton power during the current year. An 80 kiloton bomb has the explosive force of 80,000 tons of TNT, or four times the force of the Hiroshima bomb. One hundred such bombs is an impressive stockpile.

In the second place, the Kremlin's ability to deliver these bombs to American targets is not seriously questioned in any official quarter. All American targets can be reached by the thousand or more TU-4 bombers of the Soviet Strategic Air Army. It is considered that 500 of these planes can be sent against the United States in a single saturation attack. It is further known that the Soviet TU-4 squadrons have been equipped and trained for night flying and night bombing during the past two years.

Meanwhile, the strength of the American Air Defense Command has not kept pace with the growing threat. If an attack were delivered in broad daylight and good weather, it is thought that our defenders might knock down a maximum of 15 per cent of the attackers. But if an attack should be delivered by night, it is thought that the maximum rate of kill would be only one tenth of one per cent.

With what amounts to a zero kill rate, an air-atomic saturation attack delivered by night should in theory unload the whole Soviet atomic stock on the chosen American targets. Such are the calculations behind the estimate that the Kremlin can now destroy nearly 40 per cent of our industry and take a toll of thirteen megadeaths (which is top secret jargon for the death of 13,000,000 people).

An estimate close to this has already been made public by Sen. Stewart Symington, in his rather lonely fight for American preparedness. It can now be disclosed that the estimate comes from the authoritative report of the Kelly Committee.

Such an estimate cannot be lightly disregarded, when it comes from a group led by Dr. Kelly and including such scientists as Prof. Charles Lauritsen, and such industrialists as R. E. Wilson, of Standard Oil of Indiana. At the same time, it should not give rise to hysteria, either.

For one thing, the Kelly Committee was not equipped to "wargame" the problem, and careful war-gaming is essential if the results of complex air operations are to be accurately judged.

The British Cabinet recently directed a parallel study of the air-atomic threat to Britain. For this study, the damage estimates were carefully wargamed. The result was a forecast that an all-out air-atomic attack on the British Isles would take a toll of 2,000,000 deaths. The figures are still fearful, but two megadeaths are much less than thirteen megadeaths. And the British Isles are far more exposed than the United States.

Under realistic operating conditions, therefore, it seems likely that the Kremlin now has the power to hurt this country very badly, but not to cripple it. Unfortunately, however, the Kremlin's atomic stockpile and the strength of the Kremlin's Strategic Air Army are both still growing. The power to hurt this year can become the power to cripple next year and the power to destroy the year after. That is the real problem that the National Security Council has got to solve.

Ticket Errors Peeves Woman

DETROIT, July 21 (AP) — Cab driver Mabel Smith didn't mind getting a traffic violation ticket this week but she is more than a bit peeved at a couple of errors the cop made in writing it out.

The 39-year-old Mrs. Smith said she would ask traffic court to soothe her wounded feelings. "The ticket gives my age as 14 months and my weight as 750 pounds and I want everyone to know I am no circus freak," she said.

Talks To Resume

Wage talks between Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America (CIO), and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will resume Monday, July 27, according to William G. Rice, union president.

Council Ends Hearings On Civil Rights

Committee Indicates Law Covering Police Methods Is Difficult

By HUELL WARREN

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—Members of a special Legislative Council committee agreed today it would be hard to write a law spelling out exactly what the police can and cannot do about holding a man and questioning him about a crime.

How long can he be held without his name being put on a docket? How long can he be held without putting a specific charge against him? How long can he be questioned before he is permitted to see an attorney or member of his family?

72-Hour Limit

There was one suggestion no one should be held longer than 72 hours unless formally charged.

This was countered with a warning it would become routine to hold every suspect at least 72 hours.

"No law you could enact would clear up all points," Col Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, told the committee.

"Docketing and publishing the names of those simply picked up for questioning would do great damage to the reputation of many innocents," said Sen. Robert B. Kimble (R-Allegany), a member of the committee.

Maj. William H. Weber, field force commander of the State Police Department, cited a judicial ruling which exactly spotted the committee's dilemma:

"Practical policing and precise provisions of the constitution are often in conflict."

The exchanges came at the special committee's second and probably last hearing in an inquiry instigated by Del. Horace P. Whitworth (R-Allegany) when he charged police with using "gestapo methods" in several cases in his county.

Conflict Cited

The case which inspired his charge was the arrest of a Cumberland house painter, his removal to adjoining Washington County for a lie detector test, his detention for six days and seven nights without his name being entered on a docket or any charge being placed against him.

It was part of the investigation into Cumberland's still unsolved Meister murder case of last winter and the man ultimately was released.

A. Trago Brust, managing editor of the Cumberland News, told the committee it was "not an isolated case of, shall we say, treating lightly the rights of citizens arrested in Allegany County."

He cited several other incidents in which he said suspects were "detained in a manner outside the bounds set by state and federal constitution."

T. Donald Shires, city editor of the Cumberland Times, gave testimony challenging the earlier statements of police and prosecutors that the wife of the suspect in the Meister case had been kept informed of his whereabouts.

FLIER IS KILLED—Lt. Cdr. Charles M. Jones, former local tennis champion, was killed Monday when his jet plane crashed as he attempted a carrier landing off Korea. Charles M. Jones, Local Navy Flier, Killed As Plane Plunges Into Sea

Was Slated To Return From Korea

A Cumberland Navy flier who was due to return home from Korea in a few days was killed when his plane crashed at sea Monday.

He was Lt. Cdr. Charles Moye Jones, 34, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Jones, 17-A Jane Frazier Village.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were notified of their son's death in a telegram yesterday morning from Vice Admiral J. L. Holloway, Chief of Naval Personnel at Washington.

Admiral Holloway wrote that Jones' plane plunged into the ocean as he attempted a landing off Korea Monday. His body was not recovered.

Jones, who was commanding officer of the 15th Carrier Air Group, had been serving in Korean waters since January 15 and had completed the normal tour of duty.

Was Expected Here

When the telegram was delivered yesterday, his mother thought it contained word of his plans for returning to the States.

Jones was born in Montgomery, Ala., but came here with his family when he was a child. He attended Mount Royal School, and was graduated from Allegany High School.

He was a medical student at the University of Maryland when the threat of a second world war became imminent. He left college and joined the Navy's air arm.

Jones was at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese struck in 1941, and served throughout the war in the Pacific Theatre. He earned the Distinguished Flying Cross, three Air Medals, and other decorations.

After the war, he held various posts. He attended Naval Line School at Newport, R. I., and the Air War College at Knoxville, Tenn.

Was Tennis Champion

Both Jones and his wife, the former Alice Fraser of Minneapolis, were avid tennis fans. Mrs. Jones, who wrote for several national magazines, died of cancer three years ago while she was with her husband in London. They had no children.

The young officer held various commands after the outbreak of the Korean War, but his request for jet duty in the combat zone finally was approved, although he was near the maximum age limit for such an assignment.

He is best remembered in Cumberland for his tennis-playing in pre-war years, when he was perennial city champion. He later played at several top-ranking tournaments, and once played at Wimbledon.

His father, who fought with the U. S. Seventh Division in France during World War I and later rose to the Reserve rank of major is a retired insurance agent.

Surviving Commander Jones, besides his parents, are a sister, Mrs. Judith J. Lepley, Tampa, Fla., and a niece and a nephew in Cumberland.

Grandmother's Appeal Hearing Set Saturday

Drew Nine Months For Assaulting Tot

A hearing for Mrs. Madeline Hannas, 45-year old Wiley Ford grandmother who has appealed her nine month sentence for assaulting her 15-month old grandson, yesterday was set for 9:15 a. m. Saturday in Allegany County Circuit Court by Associate Judge George Henderson.

In signing the order for the hearing, Judge Henderson stipulated that the date would be effective "provided a copy of this order is served forthwith on the State's Attorney and that no cause to the contrary be shown."

The order was signed yesterday after Attorney Edward J. Ryan, representing Mrs. Hannas, filed a petition the same day stating that the West Virginia woman was unable to give bond pending a hearing. She asked for a court trial and asked the court to file an order setting the trial date.

Mrs. Hannas was sentenced last Thursday to nine months in the Maryland Reformatory for Women by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick. Before passing sentence he asserted "You are a shameless woman, not safe to be around when intoxicated and should be taken away from society for several months."

Police Lt. Raymond R. Johnston testified at last Wednesday's hearing that he went to South Cumberland on a complaint that Mrs. Hannas was beating Dennis Sulser, son of Mrs. Blanche Virginia Sulser, also of Wiley Ford, a daughter of Mrs. Hannas.

Although two women and a teenage boy testified Mrs. Hannas struck and kicked the youngster, she told the court, "I didn't hurt him. I was trying to keep him awake. I couldn't carry groceries and the baby. She added that she had consumed only one bottle of beer and was not drunk. Lt. Johnston said she was very much intoxicated.

It was not until Saturday, while still confined in the County Jail here, that Mrs. Hannas appealed. Her bond was set at $1,000 and she has been unable to raise the necessary funds. She is in the woman's quarters at County Jail.

Baltimore Firm Bid Accepted On Roads Grader

Board Rejects Lowest Offer

A bid of $6,995 from the McClung-Logan Equipment Company, Inc., of Baltimore for a light duty motor grader for the County Roads Department was accepted by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday although another Baltimore firm submitted a price $1,050 cheaper.

The grader will be equipped with a power-operated bucket loader and leaning front wheels.

Bid Recommended

Acceptance of the McClung-Logan bid followed the written recommendation of Gorman E. Getty, county attorney, and J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor. They said that the $5,945 bid of John C. Louis Company, Inc., also of Baltimore, was on a grader that did not meet the county's specifications. Its shortcomings, they stressed, are a manually operated moldboard and lack of a power-operated circle as specified.

The third grader bid of $8,467.40 was submitted by the Beckwith Machinery Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.

An estimate of $135 by Urner Wigfield, local tree surgeon, for topping, felling and disposing of a sycamore tree on Cresap Drive in Bowling Green was accepted by the commissioners.

Also approved was a $82 bid by Clyde S Kuhns of Narrows Addition for painting the County Welfare Department building on Cumberland Street. The bid includes labor, scaffolding and material. The work includes two coats of metal paint on the steel ceiling, removal of loose paint from the walls, treating with sealer and applying two coats of paint to the walls. One coat will be applied to radiators and wood trim.

Abatement Allowed

An abatement of $300 in assessment was allowed the estate of Noah Hendley on Lot 28 of Bannock Burn Addition on Delaware Avenue. The reason is that the property was sold October 22, 1951, to the First Church of God and therefore is exempt from taxes.

William H. Lemmert, board president, yesterday received a letter from G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, informing that there will be an adjustment of the county road entrance to State Route 55 near Vale Summit. He added that the county roads supervisor has approved the change.

County Approves Plan To Step Up Belt Route Work

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday unanimously approved a State Roads Commission plan to construct the Industrial Boulevard in South Cumberland during the first phase of the SRC's 12-year program.

The action was taken yesterday after the board received a letter from Russell H. McCain, SRC chairman, saying the route could be built during the first four years instead of later, as originally planned.

Officials of the City of Cumberland said last night they have received no communication from the State Roads Commission on the subject.

This 12-year plan, divided into three four-year phases, was approved by the General Assembly at its 1953 session.

McCain asked for approval of this change in plans which expedites the project. The commissioners voted unanimously in favor of it.

McCain said early plans were explained at a meeting of the State Roads Commision, the county commisioners, the Mayor and Council, and the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday, July 9, at City Hall.

Rains Drench Area Although City Is Missed By Storms

Scattered thunderstorms drenched parts of the Tri-State area yesterday afternoon, but the parched Cumberland section got none of the much-needed rain.

Lightning struck twice in the Keyser, W. Va., area, but did only minor damage.

One bolt knocked a few bricks out of a chimney at the home of Ernest Robinson, 107 West Street, McCoole, but no one was hurt. Volunteer firemen from McCoole and Keyser were called, but there was no blaze.

Another bolt split a tree on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad property at Keyser, but caused no other damage.

Sparks danced along high tension wires at several points near Keyser. The lightning accompanied a sudden downpour at about 4 p. m. Lonaconing had a similar storm, but no damage was reported.

Fresh Air Kids Picnic

Winding up their two-week visit with families in the Pinto and Rawlings area, these Fresh-Air Kids from New York were entertained last evening with a picnic outing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Helmick, Rawlings. The children, sponsored by the New York Fresh Air Fund plan to get youngsters out of the city for summer vacations, will leave tomorrow by B & O train to return to their homes. All want to come back next year.

Medical Care Quota Dropped To 2,402 Mark

Provisions Are Made For Emergency Cases

The Medical Care quota for Allegany County has been reduced by about 250 for the current year as a result of a cut in state funds alloted to provide medical and dental services for those who cannot afford to pay for them.

The State Board of Health, in June, approved a recommendation of its council on medical care that the 1953-54 program be operated on a budget of about $649,549, as compared to 1952's total of $713,730, with no curtailment in the character or extent of medical services.

The board also specified that "provisions should be made to authorize care in exceptional and emergency cases."

The new county quota system means that each of the 23 counties may have only a specified number of persons enrolled for medical care at any time.

Set 23,000 Quota

About 25,000 Marylanders including those on relief rolls and the medically indigent—were enrolled for medical care several weeks ago. Cost, from latest figures, is about $27.90 a year per patient.

Officials estimated that the current budget will provide adequate medical services for only about 23,000 persons.

In determining county quotas, state officials portioned the appropriation—minus one per cent to take care of exceptional and emergency cases—to the 23 counties on the basis of past needs.

To Cost $93,313

Here are the details for Allegany County:

The 1953-54 allotment will be $93,313, as compared to $101,051 last year.

The estimated cost per patient this year will be the same as last—$38.02.

The average number enrolled, which was 2,658 last year, has been reduced to 2,402.

Health officials here said the new quotas will mean that several hundred less persons will receive medical care but pledged:

"Those who absolutely need medical care will not be neglected."

To Meet Emergencies

On July 1, the Allegany County Medical Care census totaled 2,726, 324 more than is allowed under the new quota.

Officials said that as authorizations for medical care expire, patients are being automatically placed on the waiting list until the census drops below the quota.

When the quota allows, renewals for medical care will be issued until the quota limit is met.

New applications for medical care are being placed on file in order of receipt but names on the renewal list will take precedence over new applicants.

Provisions have been made, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, to take care of actual emergency patients.

He added that except in cases of emergencies, it is useless to contact the Health Department concerning the issuance of Medical Care cards, as they will be issued automatically as the quota allows.

The Weather Bureau predicts scattered showers in this end of the state today, but temperatures will be between 90 and 95 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 57 per cent.

4 Drive-Ins Asked To Fight Dust

A campaign to reduce dust on Allegany County's drive-in theaters is underway by the Health Department and the State Roads Commission.

The Health Department yesterday asked the four outdoor theaters to cooperate in the campaign by oiling larger areas of their properties and to attempt to halt the dumping of paper and refuse by patrons.

The dry summer, according to J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian, has created a serious traffic hazard on highways as vehicles raise clouds of dust leaving the theater areas.

Owners have already sprayed oil on part of the areas and will be asked to extend the oiling to any other areas where dust is a problem.

Dowlings said calcium chloride would do the work but is considered too expensive for the large areas which need dust laying treatment.

Officials said that unless the dust problem is solved, it may be necessary to seek regulations which would eliminate the hazards of dust and refuse.

Dowling said the department is also asking owners to urge fuller use of receptacles provided by the drive-ins to hold paper and discarded food.

Kelly Plant Is 'Alert' Target

The Civil Defense Fire Branch yesterday held a practice alert, with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company as target area.

Five companies and 28 men were at the scene within 12 minutes after the 6:20 p. m. alert.

Responding were Ridgeley and Wiley Ford, W. Va., companies, Bowling Green and LaVale volunteers, and one company from the Cumberland Fire Department.

The alert was called by Assistant Cumberland Chief Alley B. Poole, liaison officer for the Fire Branch.

County Board Sells Land For Refuge

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has sold a tract of slightly over 300 acres of woodland on the eastern side of Dan's Mountain to the State Game and Inland Fish Commission for use in the development of a game refuge.

A deed confirming the sale was filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court. Additional land for the refuge is being purchased from private owners. The property is situated in Election District 8 and has been owned by the county commissioners since May 5, 1939.

Tri-State Farmers Urged To Stress Safety This Week

Every week has its special observance.

This is National Farm Safety Week.

Farmers in the Tri-State area are being reminded that this special week is a good time for them to analyze their particular situations, think about them and discuss them with their neighbors and friends in order to find new ways of preventing farm accidents.

Most farmers are their own bosses and have no systematic group of safety rules to follow. This week they are advised to give special consideration to such rules. Every year many farmers are killed or injured while handling machinery on the farm.

Doub Nominated U. S. Attorney By Eisenhower

Cumberland Native Will Succeed Flynn

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP) — George C. Doub, one of two principals in a Republican controversy over the U. S. attorneyship for Maryland, got the nomination post today.

The Baltimore attorney was nominated by President Eisenhower to succeed Democrat Bernard J. Flynn, resigned.

The former general attorney for the Western Maryland Railroad reportedly had the backing of Sen. Butler (R-Md) for the U. S. attorneyship while Sen. Beall, Maryland's other Republican senator, was said to have leaned toward Wilfred T. McQuaid, Baltimore traffic court magistrate.

When other Maryland Republicans got into the dispute, Butler let it be known he was not willing to compromise.

An agreement was later reported under which the post would go to Doub while McQuaid would be recommended by both senators for an executive position in the Justice Department.

Doub was born in Cumberland July 25, 1902, the son of the late Judge and Mrs. Albert A. Doub.

He resides at Owings Mills in Baltimore County with his wife, son and two daughters.

He was educated at the Allegany County Academy, this city; Episcopal High School, Alexandria, Va.; Princeton University, Johns Hopkins University and University of Maryland Law School.

From 1926 until 1934 he was counsel for the Western Maryland Railroad, serving as assistant solicitor and later as general attorney.

Now a partner in the Baltimore firm of Marshall, Carey, Doub and Mundy, he has been active in Baltimore law circles for 25 years.

He is a member of the Baltimore, Maryland and American bar associations and the American Judicature Society. He has served on a number of important bar committees of the state association, recently being on the committee that re-wrote Maryland's corporation law.

He is a former president of the Maryland Children's Aid Society, president of the United Nations Society of Maryland, and a director of the Title Guaranty and Trust Company, Baltimore, as well as being connected with other corporations.

During World War II, the Cumberland-born lawyer served on the carriers Enterprise, Intrepid and Hancock in the Pacific, seeing action from the Gilbert Islands to Tokyo as air intelligence officer for the famed Air Group 6. He was a lieutenant commander when the war ended and he returned to his Baltimore practice.

In 1946, he was the Republican Party's nominee for attorney general of Maryland.

Doub is a brother of Albert A. Doub, local attorney.

Keegan Asks Departments For Budgets

Assessments Rise But Extra Expenses Must Be Financed

Budget requests for the fiscal year 1953-54 should be submitted by all departments of the City of Cumberland by August 1, William V. Keegan, finance commissioner, announced yesterday.

He added that so far, none of the budget estimates have been turned in to City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

The first serious budget discussion was held Monday when the Mayor and Council adopted a new state wage scale for six Health Department workers.

Police Commissioner John J. Long wanted to know whether the budget could stand the increase—and how the Council could increase salaries when it was not known what the budget will be.

Mayor Roy W. Eves replied "That's the way you make up a budget—by knowing what you have to pay out."

Gibson reminded Long that the Council in 1951 adopted the state wage classification for City Health Department workers.

Commissioner Long said that if the workers deserved a raise they should get it but the only question he had was whether the budget would stand it.

Must Get Requests

Gibson reiterated Council has contractual relations with the health workers.

Returning to the budget, Long asked when the preliminary meeting will be held to arrange the budget and was told by Gibson the meeting can't be held until department budgets are submitted.

The levy, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan reminded, must be set by August 24, and the sooner the preliminary meeting is held the better.

Mayor Eves suggested that council members submit budget requests by the end of this week.

Long said facts and figures should be known as soon as possible, especially since his departments are on a trial period for a shorter work week.

He also mentioned that he read something about the Smoke Abatement Department being questioned, but said he knew nothing about that.

The Smoke Department, Gibson said, would be something for the Council to decide.

Can Levy $1.25

When the Mayor and Council sit down soon to work out a budget they will have a comparatively free hand on levying powers.

This is a result of an act of the 1953 General Assembly which raised the operating tax levy limit from 95 cents to $1.25 for each $100 of assessable property.

In most recent years, the amount of the tax levy has been at or near the statutory limit, which meant deciding on a budget often consisted of trimming down requests to meet the expectable income.

Officials said the new levy limit means that any commissioner who asks a budget larger than last year must face the fact that such a move would necessitate an increase in the tax rate.

This was the thought expressed by members of the General Assembly when they upped the operating levy limit—that city officials could raise city taxes if they thought it necessary, but would have to bear the blame for the increase.

In past years, members of the Allegany County Delegation have passed legislation requested by city groups but had to boost the tax limit at the same time to allow the city to pay for the extra benefits.

In past years, members of the Allegany County Delegation have passed legislation at the request of city workers.

Assessments Increase

During the fiscal year which ended July 1, the city levied a tax of 95 cents on the $69,000,000 assessments in the city. Another 33 cents was levied for debt service for a total of $1.28.

But assessments increased $3,258,223 during the time and brought in an extra $41,566.25 in taxes.

This was the major factor in the $66,852 which was on hand July 1 to begin the 1953-54 fiscal year.

This is about $20,000 less than the $88,000 on hand to begin the last fiscal year.

Gibson reported yesterday it will be safe for the city to use an assessment base of $71,500,000 for the present fiscal year. This would give the city $7,150 for each cent levied.

Total assessments on January, he said, were $72,258,000, but the total has been reduced about $250,000 by insolvencies. Another $500,000 should be allowed for possible drops in personal property values.

Musts Are Listed

Commissioner Keegan yesterday reminded that the city is obliged in its next budget to provide $15,500 for the new fire truck which will be delivered soon for South End Fire Company.

A number of other factors must be met in the budget besides the fire truck.

Funds must be provided for a full year of the 10 per cent wage boost granted for 10 months last year, the extra boosts for the health workers must be financed, and about $15,000 must be set aside for an election.

Council Ends Hearings On Civil Rights

By HUELL WARREN

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—Members of a special Legislative Council committee agreed today it would be hard to write a law spelling out exactly what the police can and cannot do about holding a man and questioning him about a crime.

How long can he be held without his name being put on a docket? How long can he be held without putting a specific charge against him? How long can he be questioned before he is permitted to see an attorney or member of his family?

72-Hour Limit

There was one suggestion no one should be held longer than 72 hours unless formally charged.

This was countered with a warning it would become routine to hold every suspect at least 72 hours.

"No law you could enact would clear up all points," Col Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, told the committee.

"Docketing and publishing the names of those simply picked up for questioning would do great damage to the reputation of many innocents," said Sen. Robert B. Kimble (R-Allegany), a member of the committee.

Maj. William H. Weber, field force commander of the State Police Department, cited a judicial ruling which exactly spotted the committee's dilemma:

"Practical policing and precise provisions of the constitution are often in conflict."

The exchanges came at the special committee's second and probably last hearing in an inquiry instigated by Del. Horace P. Whitworth (R-Allegany) when he charged police with using "gestapo methods" in several cases in his county.

Conflict Cited

The case which inspired his charge was the arrest of a Cumberland house painter, his removal to adjoining Washington County for a lie detector test, his detention for six days and seven nights without his name being entered on a docket or any charge being placed against him.

It was part of the investigation into Cumberland's still unsolved Meister murder case of last winter and the man ultimately was released.

A. Trago Brust, managing editor of the Cumberland News, told the committee it was "not an isolated case of, shall we say, treating lightly the rights of citizens arrested in Allegany County."

He cited several other incidents in which he said suspects were "detained in a manner outside the bounds set by state and federal constitution."

T. Donald Shires, city editor of the Cumberland Times, gave testimony challenging the earlier statements of police and prosecutors that the wife of the suspect in the Meister case had been kept informed of his whereabouts.

Grandmother's Appeal Hearing Set Saturday

Drew Nine Months For Assaulting Tot

A hearing for Mrs. Madeline Hannas, 45-year old Wiley Ford grandmother who has appealed her nine month sentence for assaulting her 15-month old grandson, yesterday was set for 9:15 a. m. Saturday in Allegany County Circuit Court by Associate Judge George Henderson.

In signing the order for the hearing, Judge Henderson stipulated that the date would be effective "provided a copy of this order is served forthwith on the State's Attorney and that no cause to the contrary be shown."

The order was signed yesterday after Attorney Edward J. Ryan, representing Mrs. Hannas, filed a petition the same day stating that the West Virginia woman was unable to give bond pending a hearing. She asked for a court trial and asked the court to file an order setting the trial date.

Mrs. Hannas was sentenced last Thursday to nine months in the Maryland Reformatory for Women by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick. Before passing sentence he asserted "You are a shameless woman, not safe to be around when intoxicated and should be taken away from society for several months."

Police Lt. Raymond R. Johnston testified at last Wednesday's hearing that he went to South Cumberland on a complaint that Mrs. Hannas was beating Dennis Sulser, son of Mrs. Blanche Virginia Sulser, also of Wiley Ford, a daughter of Mrs. Hannas.

Although two women and a teenage boy testified Mrs. Hannas struck and kicked the youngster, she told the court, "I didn't hurt him, I was trying to keep him awake. I couldn't carry groceries and the baby. She added that she had consumed only one bottle of beer and was not drunk. Lt. Johnston said she was very much intoxicated.

It was not until Saturday, while still confined in the County Jail here, that Mrs. Hannas appealed. Her bond was set at $1,000 and she has been unable to raise the necessary funds. She is in the woman's quarters at County Jail.

Baltimore Firm Bid Accepted On Roads Grader

Board Rejects Lowest Offer

A bid of $6,995 from the McClung-Logan Equipment Company, Inc., of Baltimore for a light duty motor grader for the County Roads Department was accepted by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday although another Baltimore firm submitted a price $1,050 cheaper.

The grader will be equipped with a power-operated bucket loader and leaning front wheels.

Bid Recommended

Acceptance of the McClung-Logan bid followed the written recommendation of Gorman E. Getty, county attorney, and J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor. They said that the $5,945 bid of John C. Louis Company, Inc., also of Baltimore, was on a grader that did not meet the county's specifications. Its shortcomings, they stressed, are a manually operated moldboard and lack of a power-operated circle as specified.

The third grader bid of $8,467.40 was submitted by the Beckwith Machinery Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.

An estimate of $135 by Urner Wigfield, local tree surgeon, for topping, felling and disposing of a sycamore tree on Cresap Drive in Bowling Green was accepted by the commissioners.

Also approved was a $82 bid by Clyde S. Kuhns of Narrows Addition for painting the County Welfare Department building on Cumberland Street. The bid includes labor, scaffolding and material. The work includes two coats of metal paint on the steel ceiling, removal of loose paint from the walls, treating with sealer and applying two coats of paint to the walls. One coat will be applied to radiators and wood trim.

Abatement Allowed

An abatement of $300 in assessment was allowed the estate of Noah Hendley on Lot 28 of Bannock Burn Addition on Delaware Avenue. The reason is that the property was sold October 22, 1951, to the First Church of God and therefore is exempt from taxes.

William H. Lemmert, board president, yesterday received a letter from G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, informing that there will be an adjustment of the county road entrance to State Route 55 near Vale Summit. He added that the county roads supervisor has approved the change.

County Approves Plan To Step Up Belt Route Work

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday unanimously approved a State Roads Commission plan to construct the Industrial Boulevard in South Cumberland during the first phase of the SRC's 12-year program.

The action was taken yesterday after the board received a letter from Russell H. McCain, SRC chairman, saying the route could be built during the first four years instead of later, as originally planned.

Officials of the City of Cumberland said last night they have received no communication from the State Roads Commission on the subject.

This 12-year plan, divided into three four-year phases, was approved by the General Assembly at its 1953 session.

McCain asked for approval of this change in plans which expedites the project. The commissioners voted unanimously in favor of it.

McCain said early plans were explained at a meeting of the State Roads Commision, the county commissioners, the Mayor and Council, and the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday, July 9, at City Hall.

Rains Drench Area Although City Is Missed By Storms

Scattered thunderstorms drenched parts of the Tri-State area yesterday afternoon, but the parched Cumberland section got none of the much-needed rain.

Lightning struck twice in the Keyser, W. Va., area, but did only minor damage.

One bolt knocked a few bricks out of a chimney at the home of Ernest Robinson, 107 West Street, McCoole, but no one was hurt. Volunteer firemen from McCoole and Keyser were called, but there was no blaze.

Another bolt split a tree on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad property at Keyser, but caused no other damage.

Sparks danced along high tension wires at several points near Keyser. The lightning accompanied a sudden downpour at about 4 p. m. Lonaconing had a similar storm, but no damage was reported.

Medical Care Quota Dropped To 2,402 Mark

Provisions Are Made For Emergency Cases

The Medical Care quota for Allegany County has been reduced by about 250 for the current year as a result of a cut in state funds alloted to provide medical and dental services for those who cannot afford to pay for them.

The State Board of Health, in June, approved a recommendation of its council on medical care that the 1953-54 program be operated on a budget of about $649,549, as compared to 1952's total of $713,730, with no curtailment in the character or extent of medical services.

The board also specified that "provisions should be made to authorize care in exceptional and emergency cases."

The new county quota system means that each of the 23 counties may have only a specified number of persons enrolled for medical care at any time.

Set 23,000 Quota

About 25,000 Marylanders including those on relief rolls and the medically indigent—were enrolled for medical care several weeks ago. Cost, from latest figures, is about $27.90 a year per patient.

Officials estimated that the current budget will provide adequate medical services for only about 23,000 persons.

In determining county quotas, state officials portioned the appropriation—minus one per cent to take care of exceptional and emergency cases—to the 23 counties on the basis of past needs.

To Cost $93,313

Here are the details for Allegany County:

The 1953-54 allotment will be $93,313, as compared to $101,051 last year.

The estimated cost per patient this year will be the same as last—$38.02.

The average number enrolled, which was 2,658 last year, has been reduced to 2,402.

Health officials here said the new quotas will mean that several hundred less persons will receive medical care but pledged:

"Those who absolutely need medical care will not be neglected."

To Meet Emergencies

On July 1, the Allegany County Medical Care census totaled 2,726, 324 more than is allowed under the new quota.

Officials said that as authorizations for medical care expire, patients are being automatically placed on the waiting list until the census drops below the quota.

When the quota allows, renewals for medical care will be issued until the quota limit is met.

New applications for medical care are being placed on file in order of receipt but names on the renewal list will take precedence over new applicants.

Provisions have been made, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, to take care of actual emergency patients.

He added that except in cases of emergencies, it is useless to contact the Health Department concerning the issuance of Medical Care cards, as they will be issued automatically as the quota allows.

4 Drive-Ins Asked To Fight Dust

A campaign to reduce dust on Allegany County's drive-in theaters is underway by the Health Department and the State Roads Commission.

The Health Department yesterday asked the four outdoor theaters to cooperate in the campaign by oiling larger areas of their properties and to attempt to halt the dumping of paper and refuse by patrons.

The dry summer, according to J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian, has created a serious traffic hazard on highways as vehicles raise clouds of dust leaving the theater areas.

Owners have already sprayed oil on part of the areas and will be asked to extend the oiling to any other areas where dust is a problem.

Dowlings said calcium chloride would do the work but is considered too expensive for the large areas which need dust laying treatment.

Officials said that unless the dust problem is solved, it may be necessary to seek regulations which would eliminate the hazards of dust and refuse.

Dowling said the department is also asking owners to urge fuller use of receptacles provided by the drive-ins to hold paper and discarded food.

Kelly Plant Is 'Alert' Target

The Civil Defense Fire Branch yesterday held a practice alert, with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company as target area.

Five companies and 28 men were at the scene within 12 minutes after the 6:20 p. m. alert.

Responding were Ridgeley and Wiley Ford, W. Va., companies, Bowling Green and LaVale volunteers, and one company from the Cumberland Fire Department.

At the plant, Arthur C. Howard, Kelly-Springfield safety director, explained the plant's fire protection system to the firemen.

The alert was called by Assistant Cumberland Chief Alley B. Poole, liaison officer for the Fire Branch.

County Board Sells Land For Refuge

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has sold a tract of slightly over 300 acres of woodland on the eastern side of Dan's Mountain to the State Game and Inland Fish Commission for use in the development of a game refuge.

A deed confirming the sale was filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court. Additional land for the refuge is being purchased from private owners. The property is situated in Election District 8 and has been owned by the county commissioners since May 5, 1939.

Tri-State Farmers Urged To Stress Safety This Week

Every week has its special observance.

This is National Farm Safety Week.

Farmers in the Tri-State area are being reminded that this special week is a good time for them to analyze their particular situations, think about them and discuss them with their neighbors and friends in order to find new ways of preventing farm accidents.

Most farmers are their own bosses and have no systematic group of safety rules to follow. This week they are advised to give special consideration to such rules. Every year many farmers are killed or injured while handling machinery on the farm.

Doub Nominated U. S. Attorney By Eisenhower

Cumberland Native Will Succeed Flynn

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP) — George C. Doub, one of two principals in a Republican controversy over the U. S. attorneyship for Maryland, got the nomination post today.

The Baltimore attorney was nominated by President Eisenhower to succeed Democrat Bernard J. Flynn, resigned.

The former general attorney for the Western Maryland Railroad reportedly had the backing of Sen. Butler (R-Md) for the U. S. attorneyship while Sen. Beall, Maryland's other Republican senator, was said to have leaned toward Wilfred T. McQuaid, Baltimore traffic court magistrate.

When other Maryland Republicans got into the dispute, Butler let it be known he was not willing to compromise.

An agreement was later reported under which the post would go to Doub while McQuaid would be recommended by both senators for an executive position in the Justice Department.

Doub was born in Cumberland July 25, 1902, the son of the late Judge and Mrs. Albert A. Doub.

He resides at Owings Mills in Baltimore County with his wife, son and two daughters.

He was educated at the Allegany County Academy, this city; Episcopal High School, Alexandria, Va.; Princeton University, Johns Hopkins University and University of Maryland Law School.

From 1926 until 1934 he was counsel for the Western Maryland Railroad, serving as assistant solicitor and later as general attorney.

Now a partner in the Baltimore firm of Marshall, Carey, Doub and Mundy, he has been active in Baltimore law circles for 25 years.

He is a member of the Baltimore, Maryland and American bar associations and the American Judicature Society. He has served on a number of important bar committees of the state association, recently being on the committee that re-wrote Maryland's corporation law.

He is a former president of the Maryland Children's Aid Society, president of the United Nations Society of Maryland, and a director of the Title Guaranty and Trust Company, Baltimore, as well as being connected with other corporations.

During World War II, the Cumberland-born lawyer served on the carriers Enterprise, Intrepid and Hancock in the Pacific, seeing action from the Gilbert Islands to Tokyo as air intelligence officer for the famed Air Group 6. He was a lieutenant commander when the war ended and he returned to his Baltimore practice.

In 1946, he was the Republican Party's nominee for attorney general of Maryland.

His confirmation by the Senate is a matter of routine after being nominated by the President.

Doub is a brother of Albert A. Doub, local attorney.

Keegan Asks Departments For Budgets

Assessments Rise But Extra Expenses Must Be Financed

Budget requests for the fiscal year 1953-54 should be submitted by all departments of the City of Cumberland by August 1, William V. Keegan, finance commissioner, announced yesterday.

He added that so far, none of the budget estimates have been turned in to City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

The first serious budget discussion was held Monday when the Mayor and Council adopted a new state wage scale for six Health Department workers.

Police Commissioner John J. Long wanted to know whether the budget could stand the increase—and how the Council could increase salaries when it was not known what the budget will be.

Mayor Roy W. Eves replied "That's the way you make up a budget—by knowing what you have to pay out."

Gibson reminded Long that the Council in 1951 adopted the state wage classification for City Health Department workers.

Commissioner Long said that if the workers deserved a raise they should get it but the only question he had was whether the budget would stand it.

Must Get Requests

Gibson reiterated Council has contractual relations with the health workers.

Returning to the budget, Long asked when the preliminary meeting will be held to arrange the budget and was told by Gibson the meeting can't be held until department budgets are submitted.

The levy, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan reminded, must be set by August 24, and the sooner the preliminary meeting is held the better.

Mayor Eves suggested that council members submit budget requests by the end of this week.

Long said facts and figures should be known as soon as possible, especially since his departments are on a trial period for a shorter work week.

He also mentioned that he read something about the Smoke Abatement Department being questioned, but said he knew nothing about that.

The Smoke Department, Gibson said, would be something for the Council to decide.

Can Levy $1.25

When the Mayor and Council sit down soon to work out a budget they will have a comparatively free hand on levying powers.

This is a result of an act of the 1953 General Assembly which raised the operating tax levy limit from 95 cents to $1.25 for each $100 of assessable property.

In most recent years, the amount of the tax levy has been at or near the statutory limit, which meant deciding on a budget often consisted of trimming down requests to meet the expectable income.

Officials said the new levy limit means that any commissioner who asks a budget larger than last year must face the fact that such a move would necessitate an increase in the tax rate.

This was the thought expressed by members of the General Assembly when they upped the operating levy limit—that city officials could raise city taxes if they thought it necessary, but would have to bear the blame for the increase.

In past years, members of the Allegany County Delegation have passed legislation requested by city groups but had to boost the tax limit at the same time to allow the city to pay for the extra benefits.

In past years, members of the Allegany County Delegation have passed legislation at the request of city workers.

Assessments Increase

During the fiscal year which ended July 1, the city levied a tax of 95 cents on the $69,000,000 assessments in the city. Another 33 cents was levied for debt service for a total of $1.28.

But assessments increased $3,258,223 during the time and brought in an extra $41,566.25 in taxes.

This was the major factor in the $66,852 which was on hand July 1 to begin the 1953-54 fiscal year.

This is about $20,000 less than the $88,000 on hand to begin the last fiscal year.

Gibson reported yesterday it will be safe for the city to use an assessment base of $71,500,000 for the present fiscal year. This would give the city $7,150 for each cent levied.

Total assessments on January, he said, were $72,258,000, but the total has been reduced about $250,000 by insolvencies. Another $500,000 should be allowed for possible drops in personal property values.

Musts Are Listed

Commissioner Keegan yesterday reminded that the city is obliged in its next budget to provide $15,500 for the new fire truck which will be delivered soon for South End Fire Company.

A number of other factors must be met in the budget besides the fire truck.

Funds must be provided for a full year of the 10 per cent wage boost granted for 10 months last year, the extra boosts for the health workers must be financed, and about $15,000 must be set aside for an election.
